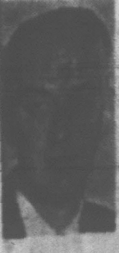
In Our HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

New Democrat Leo Nimsick, who lives near the town of Yahk, has captured the legislative floor and is holding forth on the lure of gold. His is an especially significant topic, since the House, at its Thursday night sitting, has before it Mines Minister Brothers' estimates.



The fact that gold exists in them thar hills along with other valuable metals is emphasized by the presence in the visitors' galleries of certain well-tailored gents with the look and air of men who have struck it rich.

Western Mines is represented, an outfit legally but regrettably ensconced in Strathcona Park, where soon may blossom a company town served by a company road.

In total—and with a Parks Act of questionable virtue soon to be written into our provincial statutes, the spectacle is one to cheer any save those queer people who stubbornly insist that parks and industrial activity don't mix.

As one of these, I find myself reflecting on a government now past 12 years old, which centres on the complex and enormously powerful premier who rules it.

Without Mr. Bennett, that government I suspect, would shatter as if a vacuum had sucked its sides together. With him, it is changing the face of British Columbia.

For better or worse?

Opinions vary. For myself, I have learned to expect both good and bad, usually in close conjunction.

How well, for instance, do slightly lower hydro-electric rates consort with drastically increased bus fares, and a plain hint that our burdened municipalities must soon shoulder a public transport system which was operated by its former private owners, B.C. Electric Railway Company, at a loss?

Where are the secondary industries which will utilize B.C.'s portion of the power released by the mighty two rivers development, and provide a diversity of jobs for the graduates of a loudly-heralded vocational training plan?

So far, the applications have run heavy to pulp mills . . . forest - devouring monsters which will bite deeply into the chief resource of a province whose economy remains based on her natural resources.

Forest Minister Williston speaks one day of a sustained timber yield of 3 billion feet annually. But on Thursday afternoon, he admits that government reforestation makes slow progress.

And is veteran lumberman Gordon Gibson from the Liberal ranks right when he insists we are selling this resource far too cheaply?

Faced by these, and other contradictions, I prefer to accept only provisionally the assurances offered by this government.

I might trust it more if I could shake the feeling that each session is a well-staged show with the denouement of each scene carefully worked out in the government caucus room. It's like professional wrestling: spectacular at times, but rarely convincing.

Meanwhile, Premier Bennett, the sphinx of this particular desert, broods or smiles in his big blue chair as the mood takes him, while the play moves toward its inevitable outcome.

SILHOUETTED AGAINST flat calm of the approaches to Esquimalt Harbor today was the navy's west coast submarine HMCS Grilse pictured here under maple leaf flag fluttering from jackstaff of naval harborcraft. Each day this week the re-vamped Second World War vessel has been conducting familiarization cruises for HMC Dockyard civilian employees and representatives of the news media. But for crew members it was another day of training, readying for the time Canada will receive her Oberon Class subs from U.K.

Russia Squelches Viet Nam Talks

Gromyko Rejects Parley

LONDON (Reuters) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today categorically rejected the convening for the present of an international conference to solve the crisis in Viet Nam.

He said a decision on such a conference is primarily up to the United States and North Viet Nam.

"Taking into account the existing situation, it is not possible even to discuss the possibility of convening a conference about the situation in Viet Nam," Gromyko told a press conference winding up his four-day visit to Britain.

Gromyko said: "The first task is that aggression must be stopped. That is the very first step to be taken."

He branded U.S. forces in South Viet Nam as "invaders" and said they have no business to be there and should return to the United States.

"They are there as an occupying power," he added.

CRITICIZES BRITAIN

Gromyko accused Britain of failing to act impartially as co-chairman with Russia of the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina.

Asked whether Britain and Russia could play a constructive role in the crisis at the moment, he said Russia would like to act jointly with Britain, or at least co-ordinate their action.

"But, unfortunately the chances for this are very much restricted, and they are even being curtailed because the United Kingdom is not acting as an impartial nation.

Asked whether Russia would consider itself directly involved in Viet Nam when defensive arms being sent from Russia had arrived in North Viet Nam, he replied:

"Let us not guess about the future or make any assumptions—but I would like to call attention to the relevant warning made by the Soviet government in connection . . . with aggression by the U.S. against North Viet Nam."

Asked about Britain's plan for an Atlantic nuclear force, Gromyko said he had repeated Soviet objections to this in his talks here.

Only half an hour before Gromyko's talks with British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart ended British officials announced rejection of a new Russian proposal that the U.S. be condemned over Laos.

Informed sources said Stewart accepted an invitation to visit Russia and that the date for the trip will be agreed upon later.

SUIT FOR SPACE WALK LIKE MINIATURE CABIN

MOSCOW (AP)—The suit which enabled Alexei Leonov to leave the space ship and survive in the frigid void was described in detail by Soviet medic Vladimir Krichagin in a Tass commentary.

"The spacesuit has a special air conditioning system through which room temperature air is pumped into the space suit. This air carries away excess heat of the body and skin-exuded moisture."

Leonov also had oxygen cylinders hitched to his back in case the supply line from the capsule failed.

The suit was covered with a "mighty thermal insulation layer" to protect the cosmonaut from the cold and was coated with a "snowy white" color that deflected the scorching rays of the sun.

Space Ship Steered Safely to Russ Soil

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet spaceship Voskhod-2 landed safely today west of the Ural Mountains after a spectacular 24-hour orbit during which one of the two cosmonauts aboard frolicked outside the craft. There were indications that something went wrong in the landing process.

A Tass announcement that the pilot had steered the spaceship to a landing ended hours of mystery and official silence on the Voskhod's fate. The news agency said both cosmonauts were well.

The time the Voskhod was aloft indicated it had completed 17 orbits and was on its 18th when it landed.

The exploit of Col. Pavel Belyayev and Lt.-Col. Alexei Leonov meant another big step toward travel to the moon. It was Leonov who ventured outside the craft and floated 10 minutes in the void, proving men could work there to assemble space platforms for shots to the moon.

DIFFERENT LANDING SITE

The spaceship landed at 12:02 p.m. (1:02 a.m. PST) near Perm, west of the Ural Mountains and 725 miles northeast of Moscow. This is far north of the usual landing spot for Soviet spaceships.

This fact and the character of radio signals toward the end of the flight suggested to the Bochum space observatory in West Germany that the landing process was irregular, a Bochum spokesman said.

The Perm area is on the western slopes of the Ural Mountains. Half the area is forested and unfit for a landing, but there is a plain.

Whatever the success of the landing, Tass said Belyayev and Leonov had carried out their experiment successfully.

LANDED MANUALLY

It was steered down by manual controls by Belyayev, the announcement said.

Belyayev and Leonov "feel well," Tass added. "The scientific program has been fully accomplished."

The delay in announcing the landing for more than 4½ hours was not immediately explained.

The landing of the two cosmonauts inside their spaceship followed the pattern of the Voskhod I, the first multi-manned Soviet capsule named with the Russian word for sunrise. It

Americans 'Deeply Impressed'

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) —President Johnson congratulated the Soviet Union today on its latest space feat. He said Americans were "deeply impressed" at a cosmonaut's floating outside his space ship.

"All of us have been deeply impressed by Lt.-Col. Alexei Leonov's feat in becoming the first man to leave a space ship in outer space and return safely. I take pleasure, Mr. Chairman, in offering on behalf of the people of the United States sincere congratulations and best wishes to the cosmonauts and the scientists and all others responsible for this outstanding accomplishment.

Crew Seeks To 'Kill' Poison Well

EDSON, Alta. (CP) — An eight-man crew was preparing today to pump bunker fuel down the casing of a gas well to stem the flow of a natural gas leak containing a dangerous amount of poisonous hydrogen sulphide.

The crew, equipped with oxygen masks, were able to direct the leak out another valve Thursday night by means of a "blowout preventer."

The leak had been hissing out of tubing at the rig drilling platform but now is dispersing in a faint mist from a valve below the floor and to the side.

First step is to shut off this side valve.

Next step is to attach hoses to the tubing and pump "weighted bunker fuel" down the tubing to force the gas back to its formation and "kill the well."

Federalized Troops Will Protect Marchers

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A federal judge declined today to suspend his order allowing a 50-mile civil rights march Sunday, but he said Alabama Governor George C. Wallace could take the request to a higher court.

U.S. District Judge Frank N. Johnson said he would transfer files in the case to the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals if Wallace wanted to present his case there immediately.

Wallace was reported planning to ask the federalized guardsmen to protect the marchers, if the march goes on.

The state Senate, meanwhile, approved the governor's proposals that President Johnson be advised that the state is not financially able to provide protection and that Alabama citizens be urged to leave the marchers alone on their 50-mile trek to Montgomery from Selma.

The president said Thursday he would call up the Alabama National Guard to protect the demonstrators if Wallace was unwilling to do so.

Lawyer Charles M. Crook, representing Wallace, had asked Judge Johnson to stay his order permitting the march. Crook

$10 Million Grant To Canada Council

OTTAWA (CP)—A $10,000,000 government grant to the Canada Council was announced in the Commons today by Prime Minister Pearson.

He said the council's income has not increased materially since the public body was set up by Parliament in 1957 to foster development of the arts, humanities and social sciences.

An unconditional grant for $10,000,000 would be included in the government's final set of spending estimates for the current fiscal year, which ends March 31, to help the council meet its minimum requirements in the next few years.

Mr. Pearson said it has become imperative to foster Canada's development in the humanities and arts "and thus strengthen the identity and the unity of our country as we approach our centennial."

The government believed the best long-term method of increasing the council's revenues would be to increase the $50,0000,000 endowment fund set up in 1957, but this course would be unwise in present circumstances.

GOING FOR $2,310,000 . . . . . . GONE FOR $2,394,000

Rembrandt Price Soars in Second Look Sale

LONDON (Reuters)—A Los Angeles foundation today paid £798,000 ($2,394,000) for a Rembrandt portrait in a dramatic bidding duel after it had already been sold to a London gallery.

The Dutch master's portrait of his son Titus had already been sold to the Marlborough Gallery for £770,000 ($2,310,000) but the auctioneer Peter Chance found himself in the centre of a heated disagreement among bidders and reopened the sale.

The picture was then sold to the Los Angeles Norton Simon Foundation for a price that fell only £23,000 ($69,000) short of the world record for a painting at auction.

The bidding for the Rembrandt sold today started at 100,000 guineas and rose by bids of 30,000 and 50,000 guineas. A guinea is one pound plus one shilling.

Finally, auctioneer Chance declared it sold to the Marlborough Gallery, but the Norton Simon Foundation insisted its last bid had not been heard.

Simon waved a letter he said was from Christie's and after a brief argument, Chance said: "I am very sorry, there had been a misunderstanding. This has never happened before.

And as dealers packing the room from all over the world leaped to their feet in amazement, he reopened the sale.

TO TAKE IT TO U.S.

The picture was sold after two more bids, to Simon, who said afterward he hoped to take it to the U.S. as soon as possible, though at present he had no export permit.

The sale not only beat the previous British record of £275,000 paid for Rubens Adoration of the Magi at the rival auction house of Sotheby's in 1951, but Sotheby's record of £1,043,590 total at a one-day sale.

The Rembrandt portrait came to Britain about 150 years ago—for practically nothing. The story told is this:

George Barker, a British picture restorer and dealer travelling in Holland, missed the boat back to England. So he spent the night in a Dutch farmhouse and awakened the following morning to find the portrait hanging above his bed.

He exclaimed at its beauty, and the farmer threw it in with the price of Barker's lodging and breakfast, which came to one shilling (15 cents).

Reaching England, Barker presented the painting to his patron, Lord Spencer. In 1915, the Cook family bought it for £60,000.

NEAR RECORD PRICE of $2,394,000 was paid today for Rembrandt's portrait of his son, Titus, during auction at Christie's in London. (AP Wirephoto.)

The will of Mary Clara Tucker, who died at 85 last month, was probated Thursday. The $12,700 was a portion of her $111,131 estate.

Patrol Sgt. Joseph T. Holbrook was willed $6,000 for his "kindly protection." Sixteen other officers will share $6,700.

Twenty years ago, Sgt. Holbrook, then a constable, was cruising in his district and noticed a woman who appeared to be ill. She was Miss Tucker, a retired school teacher.

Sgt. Holbrook decided to care for her and took her home. "I was afraid she'd be found dead," he said.

Sgt. F. B. Saul of the police staff college, who used to drive Sgt. Holbrook's cruiser, will receive $2,000. Sgt. C. L. McCahery, who retired from the Forest Hill force, gets $1,000.

Fourteen other officers who had served in Forest Hill and York Township will share $3,700 for their "kindly protection, never-failing consideration and frequent visits to see I'm safe and well."

The Scott Mission receives the remainder of the estate.

WOOLWICH, Eng. — A £117,500 ($342,500) automatic car-parking garage, opened four years ago by Princess Margaret and hailed as the first of its kind in the world, is to be demolished because it has never worked.

The garage, designed to park 300 cars automatically, ran into problems from the day it opened. Attempts to park cars in it failed because the elevators jammed or other equipment would not work.

The city council's development committee has recommended that the structure be pulled down.

HUTCHINSON, Kan. — The six boys ranged in ages from seven to 10 and Mrs. W. L. Harper said she had never seen any of them before when they knocked on the back door.

"We'd like to hunt rabbits on your land," the spokesman said politely.

Mrs. Harper said she looked again and saw no gun or bow and arrows or slingshots.

"What are you going to use?" she asked.

"This," said the spokesman, holding up a wooden mallet. "We chase them down, then knock them over the head with this."

"You must be kidding!"

"No," volunteered another boy, opening a paper sack and displaying a dead rabbit with a cracked cranium.

Mrs. Harper said she swallowed her disbelief and granted the hunters permission to take up their chase in a 65-acre field.

Not quite three hours later the boys returned.

Mrs. Harper asked if they'd had any luck.

Silently the boy with the sack opened it.

"And you know," Mrs. Harper said, recalling the Saturday morning incident, "the stinkers had gotten three more!"

WINNIPEG—Length of city council speeches may soon be controlled by a timing device comprising a set of flashing lights and a cut-off buzzer.

Mayor Stephen Juba told council the device was fashioned from "bits and pieces of old junk" by city workers. It will get a trial run at the next council meeting March 29.

He hoped it would put an end to aldermen's complaints about not receiving the maximum 10 minutes allowed for a speech or that others got more time.

Mr. Juba said the device will have 10 lights each representing a minute of an alderman's speaking time.

If the trial run is successful, it will likely become permanent, Mr. Juba said.

LONDON—It just wasn't a good week for the British post office.

First, a letter bearing a trading stamp instead of a postage stamp was successfully delivered. The post office's official magazine criticized the mailman who carried it.

Then Bryan Macey of Southampton finally received a postcard that was mailed just a few miles away. It was dated Oct. 7, 1956.

Macey complained to the post office, but not about the delay. He was furious because the mailman charged him an additional penny to cover an increase in postage rates.

Sukarno Seizes Oil Companies

JAKARTA (AP) — President Sukarno announced today the Indonesian government is taking over the management of three foreign oil companies, two American and one Dutch.

"We will take over the management," Sukarno told reporters after receiving a petition from Communist-led workers requesting seizure of foreign oil properties in retaliation for U.S. support of Malaysia.

There was speculation the government would try to work out some arrangement under which the companies' foreign employees would continue to operate them under figurehead Indonesian managers.

The government now is trying to negotiate such an arrangement for the $80,000,000 worth of American rubber estates in north Sumatra seized last month.

The companies affected are the U.S.-owned Stanvac and Caltex oil companies and Dutch Shell. Another American company, Pan-American, also operates in Indonesia but does only prospecting for new oilfields.

RECEIVES ROYALTIES

Although the government bowed to Communist demands for the closing of the U.S. Information Service libraries in Indonesia and the seizure of the rubber estates, it has been reluctant to take over the oil properties because it collects more than $100,000,000 a year in royalties from them.

Since 1963, the companies have operated the properties as contractors for the state oil organization.

Meanwhile, Sobsi, the big Communist workers' union, ignored a government order to restore electricity and gas service which it cut off Thursday from a number of American offices and residences in Jakarta.

After a protest from U.S. Ambassador Howard Jones, Foreign Minister Subandrio summoned Sobsi leaders Thursday night and ordered them to turn the gas and electricity back on at once.

Up to 11 a.m., however, the service still was disconnected.

Governor Saves Five From Chair

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Governor Frank Clement, rebuffed by the state legislature in his efforts to end capital punishment, commuted the death sentences of five men to 99 years today. He anounced his action one day after the House refused, 48 to 47, to join the Senate in abolishing the death penalty and one day before three of the five were scheduled to go to the electric chair.

St. Ann's Academy and St. Louis College students will participate in a car wash from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday at Safeway parking lot, Hillside and Quadra. Proceeds will go to the graduation fund for the students.

Mill Considers Shutdown

A decision on whether to shut down its sawmill operation or install smoke suppression gear will be announced by the end of this month, B.C. Forest Products said today.

Ian A. Barclay, vice-president and secretary in Vancouver, said an announcement would be made by the Victoria operation which has run the former Moore-Whittington sawmill since 1963.

The company must solve the smoke nuisance by May 15.

Meanwhile, Smith Cedar Products Ltd., which also agreed to act on its waste burning problem by May 15, is two months ahead of schedule.

It began work on its waste removal problem last September, when a chipping machine was installed to reduce waste by 60 per cent and provide a marketable product.

Hog fuel was then produced in much smaller quantities, but still had to be burned or stored until it could be trucked away.

Trucks have been taking it to a B.C. Forest Products generator at Crofton Pulp Mill.

NEW CONVEYOR

By next week, however, it is hoped to have a new conveyor in operation, providing for barge transport.

This will eliminate entirely the need to control stockpiles of hog fuel by night burning.

said the state had not had time to prepare for the protection of marchers.

Wallace called for federal civil assistance Thursday night in a speech to the legislature. This was followed by the president's statement to reporters about the Alabama guard.

In Selma about 400 white and Negro demonstrators marched to the city hall today, stayed about 15 minutes and left without incident. Two demonstrators jailed Wednesday were released on bond which they signed. Earlier they had refused to sign bond.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., leader of a nine-week Negro voter drive in Alabama, said the 50-mile highway pilgrimage will start at noon Sunday.

A white segregationist, former mayor Art Hanes of Birmingham, announced today he was cancelling plans for a reverse march from Montgomery to Selma. Hanes said he would bow to Wallace's appeal for citizens to stay away from scenes of tension.

The Negro integration leader called for volunteers from elsewhere to joint the ranks when the march reaches the outskirts of Montgomery Wednesday night.

Labor Week Opens Here On Saturday

Mr. Morris addresses Victoria Rotary Club at noon Thursday in the Empress Hotel while Mr. Williams will speak to Kinsmen Club members at 6:30 p.m.

That evening Mr. Williams will be guest at a Religion-Labour Council meeting at 8 in Cridge Memorial Hall to which all churchmen have been invited.

CANADA BARS EXTREMISTS

Prof. Mulford Q. Sibley was sent back on the same plane that carried him here. Immigration officials talked to him for about an hour.

A crowd of 200 demonstrators, identified as Voice of Women members and University of Manitoba students, met Prof. Sibley's plane. They chanted: "We want Sibley" and "What's the matter with Sibley?"

LEGISLATURE HONORS GOLD MEDAL SCULLERS

Seated on the floor of the House were George Hungerford and Roger Jackson, gold medal winning scullers; and bronze medallist, runner Harry Jerome.

The father of judo silver medal winner Doug Rogers, Rev. A. A. Rogers of Vancouver, was also present representing his son who is in Japan.

Gloomy Weather May Halt Test

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) Tracking stations around the world today began the final practice run for first U.S. two-man space flight as weather forecasts for Tuesday's scheduled launch day continued to be gloomy.

The flight crew of astronauts Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom and John W. Young completed their last full-scale training with a mission run-through Thursday They observed part of today's 12-hour world network test and late in the day were to climb into a simulated capsule for some familiarization practice on the launching and re-entry phases of their planned three-orbit flight.

The U.S. weather bureau said there was no change in its earlier forecast that there would be heavy cloud cover over Cape Kennedy on Tuesday. Foul weather also was forecast in areas of the Atlantic Ocean where the astronauts would land if there were a launching failure and they had to abort the mission.

POSTPONEMENT POSSIBLE

Project Gemini officials said extensive cloud cover would prevent necessary camera coverage of the vital launching phase and the shot would have to be postponed. The launching of the Titan II booster rocket is scheduled between 9 a.m. and noon EST.

Tracking stations encircle the world along the path of the Gemini spacecraft will travel during its three orbits. The exercise starts at seven hours before launch and runs through the entire countdown including the flight of four hours and 52 minutes.

Each station, starting with Bermuda, pretends the spacecraft comes into their area of coverage. The Grand Canary island off the coast of North Africa is next and so on around to Australia, Hawaii, Mexico, and back to the United States.

RELAY DATA

Each station has a specific task assigned to it when the spacecraft passes overhead. This information is relayed back to the mission control centre at Cape Kennedy.

Recovery ships sailing about 70 miles northeast of Grand Turk Island in the Bahamas, where the astronauts are expected to land, also tune in on the exercise.

spent 24 hours in orbit last Oct. 12-13.

The Tass announcement of the landing said:

"A complex experiment was made successfully during the flight, opening a new stage in man's conquest of space. A cosmonaut dressed in a special space suit with an autonomous life support system floated freely in outer space.

ANALYZE RESULTS

"The data received during the flight of Voskhod II are being tabulated and analyzed."

The world's space scientists acclaimed co-pilot Leonov's sally outside the two-man capsule Thursday as a feat that put the Soviet Union even more months ahead of the United States in the race for a manned moon landing.

A Soviet rocket launched the two cosmonauts into orbit Thursday at 10 a.m.

Ninety minutes after going aloft, Leonov crawled into an air-lock chamber adjoining the space cabin. Another 10 minutes later, he crawled from the space ship and then floated to the end of a 16-foot lifeline attached to the spaceship.

Tass said that "during the night the cosmonauts slept in turns, rested and breakfasted and now feel well."

"Respiration is between 18 and 10 a minute, pulse 72 to 78 a minute," normal for healthy adults.

The cosmonauts followed tradition and called the Kremlin for a telephone conversation with Leonid Brezhnev, first secretary of the Soviet Communist party. Brezhnev read a message congratulating them, calling Leonov's exploit "beyond imagination."

Communists Claim Three Planes Downed

TOKYO (AP)—Radio Hanoi claimed North Vietnamese armed forces shot down three American planes carrying out air strikes on North Viet Nam today.

The broadcast, relayed by the New China news agency, said "many groups of U.S. fighter planes again adventurously and openly intruded into the air space of the Democratic Republic of North Viet Nam."

Dornan to Testify At Williamson Trial

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three witnesses from across Canada, one of them an assistant to Prime Minister Pearson, are to be called by the Crown for the April 12 hearing of forgery charges against Vancouver public relations man Al Williamson.

Mr. Justice H. W. McInnes in Supreme Court Wednesday signed three subpeonas in the "Dear Hal" letter case.

They are for the appearance of Hal Dornan of Ottawa, an assistant to the prime minister, A. F. Lepitre of Ottawa, an immigration department employee, and Ed Ogle of Calgary, a writer for Time magazine.

Williamson is charged with forgery and uttering a forgery in connection with a letter sent to Mr. Dornan over a signature purporting to be that of Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Premier Bennett declared the letter a phoney.

The letter, addressed "Dear Hal", referred to "our friend" and Attorney-General Robert Bonner said it was assumed to have referred to millionaire Harry Stonehill, who was seeking Canadian landed immigrant status at the time. Stonehill has since left the country.

Police Union, Firemen Going To Arbitration

Arbitration will settle Victoria police and fire department working contracts this year, city hall representatives said Thursday.

Council last week nominated contracting executive George Wilkinson to an arbitration board to iron out a firefighters' union bid for shorter working hours.

Since then negotiations with the police union failed to reach agreement on three matters:

A union request for wage parity with Vancouver police, including the 4½ per cent increase just awarded in Vancouver;

A bid by the city for a two-year contract, against one-year asked by the union;

Higher service pay requested by the union.

The city nominated Mr. Wilkinson to serve on the police matter as well as the fire department arbitration since the situations are similar, and the April 15 deadline for final settlement applies to both departments.

Radiation Drops

OTTAWA (CP) — Radioactive fallout in Canada last year was six to eight times below the 1963 levels, says a report from the radiation protection division of the health department. The Chinese nuclear test in October contributed "very little fallout," and apart from this blast there was no above-ground nuclear testing during the year.

U.S. Planes Again Bomb Supply Bases

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON (AP)—More than 110 U.S. navy and air force planes hammered military targets at two points in Communist North Viet Nam today and reported up to 100 per cent of the targets destroyed.

All of the planes were believed to have returned safely from the bombing and strafing attack on military supply installations about 160 miles north of the 17th parallel, dividing North and South Viet Nam.

A U.S. spokesman said the targets were known supply and infiltration areas for Viet Cong forces in South Viet Nam. He said the raid was "very successful."

"The targets were Phu Van and Vinh Son, where there are a number of military supply installations," said a U.S. statement.

A spokesman said navy planes also pounded the Thu An supply depot, adjoining the Vinh Son area.

The spokesman said a number of secondary explosions after the planes hit their targets indicated their bombs and rockets had set off ammunition stores.

GROUND FIRE LIGHT

The air force planes hit 15 to 20 buildings. Ground fire was reported light and inaccurate, and the spokesman said the North Vietnamese apparently were caught by surprise.

He said the planes carried "normal" ammunition, including 750 - pound bombs and rockets. They were over the target area at about 1 p.m. Saigon time.

The targets were about 25 miles northwest of the city of Vinh and about 135 miles south of Hanoi.

U.S. Super Sabres and B-57 jet bombers also bombed and strafed Communist Viet Cong concentrations menacing the vital Da Nang air base.

Meanwhile, the government deported three suspected Communists into North Viet Nam. It was the first time it has directly deported anyone to the Communist north.

15 Countries Urge Talks On Viet Nam

BELGRADE (Reuters)—Representatives of 15 countries have adopted a draft appeal calling for talks on the Vietnamese conflict, the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said Thursday.

The appeal called for a solution through negotiations without pre-conditions.

The appeal is to be sent to all countries concerned with the Viet Nam situation and to members of the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina, Tanjug said.

It was adopted at a meeting last weekend of ambassadors and special envoys in Belgrade, diplomatic sources said.

Moon Named Next Stop For Russians

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet space expert said Thursday Russia hopes to place a man on the moon "in the not too distant future."

Vasily Seleznev, described as a doctor of technical sciences, told a televised press conference by Soviet cosmonauts and space experts Thursday's step into space by Lt. Col. Alexei Leonov was an "experimental sortie."

"The experimental sortie into space presupposes that in future cosmonauts will take part in assembling space ships," Seleznev said. "There may emerge the need to repair a space ship. And there is the most important matter of a landing on other planets. We are now faced with the moon — we hope in the not too distant future."

Russian Missiles Rumored on Cyprus

WASHINGTON (AP) — The state department said Thursday night a reported importation into Cyprus of anti-aircraft missiles and other heavy equipment makes the peace-keeping task of United Nations forces in the strife-torn island more difficult and more dangerous.

The department appealed for all parties interested in the Cyprus questions to support the UN peace-keeping role and to explore opportunities for progress toward an ultimate solution through discussions.

The U.S. views on the current Cyprus situation were expressed in response to inquiries about reports published abroad that Soviet-made missiles are being delivered into the Mediterranean island where factions of Greek and Turkish origin dispute for control and where the UN maintains a force charged with keeping the peace.

The state department statement did not question the accuracy of the press reports although the department itself did not specifically confirm them.

Subway Firm Gets Ride From Public

LONDON (AP) — The operators of London's subway system sorrowfully admitted today that when put on its honor the public committed a great train robbery.

"I'm afraid we were taken for a ride," said a spokesman for the state-owned underground railway.

Because of an unofficial one-day strike by ticket-sellers at most of the subway's stations last Monday, the London Transport Authority installed honesty boxes. Subway users were asked to deposit their fares in the boxes.

The boxes last Monday yielded only £50,000 ($150,000), £30,000 less than usual on a Monday.

APPLICATION on behalf of former Liberal cabinet minister Yvon Dupuis for return of documents seized by RCMP has been rejected by Quebec Superior Court. Dupuis was due in court today on charge of influence peddling.

'FEW PROBLEMS'

Minister Rejects Probe of Mining

In reply to Leo Nimsick (NDP—Cranbrook) he said the industry has no problems to justify such action.

During a debate in the legislature on mines department estimates, Mr. Nimsick said the government does not obtain sufficient revenues from its mineral resources.

Mr. Nimsick said the provincial government should obtain non-voting shares in all new mine ventures—at least 25 per cent of the stock.

He also asked for legislation requiring mines to give employees notice of closure.

Harry McKay (Lib.—Fernie) denounced company towns and said Michel, in his riding, was a horrible example.

Mr. Brothers said most mining firms now agree that company towns are not a good idea.

In response to another question, Mr. Brothers said a mobile disaster rescue team is under study.

Since the Granduc disaster, mines department and civil defence officials have been considering formation of a specialist team "which can be formed together quickly and flown to any part of B.C." the minister said.

Threats Force Gignac Family To Leave Home

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec said today there was no attempt made to kidnap the family of Robert Gignac but that the family, which disappeared temporarily, had moved to another house after receiving "threats."

The premier told reporters Mrs. Gignac moved herself and her three children to another dwelling Wednesday without advising anyone and that this gave rise to speculation that she might have been kidnapped. The family was located by police Thursday night.

Mrs. Gignac is the wife of one of the witnesses in the Dorion inquiry. Her husband also is charged with capital murder in the death of a nightclub doorman and is a former friend of jail-breaker Lucien Rivard.

Neighbors reported the disappearance of Mrs. Gignac and her children from their home in north-end Montreal. The family was said to be unharmed.

Police in Montreal originally said the case "looks like a kidnapping" but today Quebec Provincial Police in Montreal ruled out this idea.

Mr. Lesage said police now are investigating the threats. He declined to elaborate on their nature.

However, the premier said Mrs. Gignac is under police protection.

Horowitz 'Comeback'

NEW YORK (AP) — Pianist Vladimir Horowitz, who went into self-imposed retirement from the concert stage 12 years ago, says he is planning personal appearances this spring or fall. Horowitz, 60, has been recording for the last 10 years, but gave up concerts because he didn't like to travel.

CLEVELAND RACIAL VIOLENCE

Heavy Police Guard for Students

CLEVELAND (AP) — About half the 3,400 pupils enrolled at Collinwood High School went back to classes today under a heavy police guard posted to prevent outbreaks of racial street fighting which caused the school to close Thursday.

The police, numbering nearly 200 and including mounted troops, arrested at least seven boys and took weapons away from some of them.

At one time a crowd of about 100 gathered, but mounted police succeeded in dispersing it before classes started. Pupils entered in an orderly manner.

Two boys suffered minor injuries Thursday when violence flared out of tension which had been building up between white and Negro pupils.

"Everything is under control, and it appears as if those who stayed away did so because of confusion and fear," John Lee, Collinwood principal, said as classes got under way today.

Beyond Criticism

THE PRESENT PARLIAMENT, with a minority government, vociferous splinter parties abetting a disruptive opposition, and an agenda of highly controversial items, has presented a stern, almost insuperable test of the Speaker's abilities.

It can be no serious criticism of Mr. Speaker Macnaughton that he has on occasion appeared to lose control of an unruly House—it is difficult to imagine any Speaker being able invariably to ride above the storm when such emotional issues as the flag have inflamed members' tempers. But Mr. Macnaughton has on occasion been placed in the embarrassing position of having to deny to the House that his ruling had been affected by party considerations. That need should never be imposed on a man whose office must be above question, whose dicta must be accepted unconditionally.

Much of the problem of the Speaker's authority would be solved by making the office a permanent one. This has long been the practice in Britain. While the Speaker there must hold a seat in Parliament his election is never contested, his salary is not subject to parliamentary debate, and he returns without question to his office for each new parliament.

Under this system the Speaker is removed as far as possible from the threat of party influence on his judgment since he remains independent of party machines for his election. Because of the unassailability of his position his rulings carry added weight and no member would challenge them on any but technical grounds.

The arrangement has been urged in Canada many times. Sir Wilfrid Laurier sought to have it established, Mr. Diefenbaker made an effort to inaugurate it, and many supporters have argued in its favor from time to time. The disarray that has marked the present parliament, and the obvious dangers presented by a possible erosion of the high status of the Speakership re-emphasize the advantages of a permanent office.

If Mr. Macnaughton should choose to relinquish his conscientiously performed duties, as reports have it that he may, it would be a most appropriate time now to place the Speakership above all threat of partisan accusations by making a permanent appointment acceptable to all parties.

What Will Government Do?

WHAT THE RECENT REPORT of the Economic Council of Canada said in some 213 carefully documented pages was roughly this: Between now and 1970 Canada will have to move quickly and positively to increase its economic growth rate or the country is going to be in trouble.

In the two months since the council's report was published, its chairman, Dr. John J. Deutsch, has been conferring with businessmen in leading cities across Canada in an attempt to communicate to them a sense of urgency about the problems inherent in stimulating growth of the economy.

Judging from news reports of these conferences Dr. Deutsch is having a fair degree of success. The business community generally seems to have found the council's report stimulating and the challenge it presents exciting.

But in all the discussions which have taken place so far there has been a feeling, sometimes expressed but more often implied, that before business can decide on its role in implementing the recommendations of the Deutsch report it will have to know a good deal more about government's reaction to it.

Dr. Deutsch noted in Toronto the other day that "government policies and programs will play a large role in determining the general economic climate in which business, labor and the rest of us will have to work."

This prompted the remark from Hon. Robert Winters, a former federal cabinet minister and now a leading business executive, that it would be helpful if governments in Canada would state whether they accept the goals set by the Economic Council and, if they do, what role they expect to play in meeting the targets.

The first point, of course, is basic. It is necessary to know if governments, federal and provincial, accept the Deutsch report as a reasonably accurate assessment of Canada's economic needs and potentials.

The second point, the degree to which government fiscal and monetary policies might be used to direct the economy, is a matter on which business needs to be informed as soon as possible. As Mr. Winters said: "If we are to have indicative planning, indications must be given of direction and timing."

To a large extent the Economic Council has called for a redirection of the economy with greater emphasis on secondary manufacturing and less on basic resource industries. Involved in this would be a multitude of decisions on private investment in industry which could not be taken without a reasonably clear idea of Ottawa's intentions on, for instance, tariff policies and the taxation system.

The council set a minimum target of a yearly average increase of 5.5 per cent in the gross national product, starting this year and continuing through to 1970. Most business forecasts indicate that in terms of constant dollars the increase this year will be only about four per cent.

The longer action is delayed on policies deriving from the Deutsch report the greater will be the load which later years will have to carry.

A Positive Church Approach

THOSE CITIZENS SERIOUSLY interested in reducing the juvenile delinquency rate in Greater Victoria will note with interest the approach brought to the problem by Canon C. Hilary Butler.

Writing in the Christ Church Cathedral newsletter, Canon Butler proposes action by public-spirited people to "do something" constructive in an effort to ease the situation here. He suggests that efforts be made to "get the leaders of these various departments, agencies and professional disciplines into one room and keep them there until they come up with a workable system of co-ordination and co-operation to tackle the whole problem with unity of purpose and decision."

This may sound somewhat like passage of an indeterminate sentence, but it does conform to the plans now under way by the most recent Community Welfare Council committee to establish workshops on the subject.

Workshops are a proven method of gaining practical results and any suggestions by Canon Butler and his colleagues will undoubtedly find a welcome. It will be foolish, however, to expect any quick solution to the problem of delinquency. There may be slow improvement as a result of measures now being tested. Group therapy, early identification of potenial problem children by trained elementary school counsellors—such efforts carry the promise of positive results.

But it is the responsibility of government authorities on all levels to give consideration to the findings of painstaking studies such as that recently concluded by the Community Welfare Council, and particularly to the recommendations. The wastage of human lives and the heavy economic and social toll resulting from the juvenile delinquency of today demand that action take the place of words. And in this action the church should have an important role to play.

—Bierman, Victoria Daily Times.

FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Big Problem Boldly Handled

PRESIDENT JOHNSON'S address to the joint session of Congress was the speech of a big man dealing with a big problem in a big bold way. A good many people wish that the President would make the same sort of forthright statement to the Congress and the nation on the other big problem with which he must wrestle daily. To make this kind of statement about Viet Nam, however, would be to put domestic political considerations ahead of every sort of diplomatic and foreign-political consideration.

Alsop

Our interests overseas require the President to sustain the pressure on North Viet Nam, but to do so with a maximum of ambiguity about his planned timing, scope of action and everything else. Because he has seen that, and because he has been ambiguous to a super-Johnsonian degree, he has thus far damped down the potentially violent reactions to his own actions.

Greater clarity, more grandiloquence, would have amounted to telling the North Vietnamese, the Communist Chinese and the Soviets, with great bluntness and in public, that they must put up or shut up. And when this is said, as an open, public challenge, it is always more difficult for the leaders of any nation to shut up.

But by the same token, this clarity so many have called for would have heated up the world-crisis atmosphere. It would have stimulated the anti-American elements in all the Western allied nations to begin wailing like banshees and whirling like dervishes. All this the President has avoided in his sly-boots way, while quietly and firmly doing what needed doing.

Rounded Corner

At the same time, the President has had to pay a certain price at home. For he has rounded a very hard and difficult corner in the presidency. For most of us, it would be just as comforting to be told in so many words that this corner had been rounded, as it was to see the President pointing the right road for Congress on the problem of Negro disfranchisement.

Humanly speaking, it must be added, the corner he has now got around came at the worst imaginable time. In his first year in office, he had the great good luck to be confronted with no acutely painful choices overseas. There was a moment last spring when it seemed he might then have to make the same choice he recently made when he adopted the new policy of "sustained pressure" on the North Vietnamese aggressors.

But he ducked last spring, in his agile way, by sending Gen. Maxwell Taylor to Saigon as a substitute for sending bombers against the North. A good deal was lost by ducking. For those who remember the old story, it was a case of King Tarquin and the Sybilline books—of having to pay the same price in the end, but getting considerably less for it.

No one can blame the President, however, for trying one last contraption to avoid one of the hardest choices any President has made since the Korean War. The blame, if there is to be any, attaches to the period after the November election, when it became clear that the choice could no longer be deferred by another contraption.

As above-noted, this was a bad moment for such a choice; for the President was humanly eager to enjoy the fruits of victory in the tranquality that gives such fruits extra savor. For awhile, therefore, he "fought the problem," as the great George C. Marshall used to say.

In other words, he got angry with the facts, which never pays, and even with those who brought the facts to his attention, which is even less paying. He did all in his power to prevent the facts being publicly ventilated. He hung on to his options, as he likes to call them, when the mere act of hanging on too long seemed all too likely to reduce his options very drastically.

It was a bad patch, but the bad patch is in the past now. Mr. Johnson being the kind of man he is, one cannot even tell exactly when the bad patch ended. In the complex recesses of that secretive mind, the decision that was eventually taken after Pleiku may indeed have been lurking and maturing and getting ready for the light of day long before the attack on Pleiku gave the pretext for unveiling the decision.

The important thing is that the decision was taken by the President, firmly, clearly and not too late. He is a man who dislikes hard choices, and a man, too, with such a genius for contraptions that he generally attains his ends without making hard choices. But he has now made the hardest kind of choice, as the new operations against North Viet Nam testify.

And that means that Mr. Johnson now is a different and stronger leader (perhaps even in his own eyes) than he was only a little while ago.

FROM LONDON

By MARTIN DEWEY

A Futile Trip to Bonn

THE first thing that needs to be said about Mr. Harold Wilson's recent trip to West Germany is that it was largely a waste of time. The prime minister had two immediate objectives in going to Bonn. He wanted, first of all, to drum up support for his Atlantic Nuclear Force (ANF) idea. And he badly wanted to bring home a definite West German commitment to buy British to offset the sterling loss involved in maintaining the British Army of the Rhine (BAOR).

Dewey

However, all he got from the visit was a half-hearted promise that the West Germans would do nothing to kill the ANF idea and an equally half-hearted promise that they would do their best as far as the sterling drain is concerned. In return, Mr. Wilson left his hosts with some hope of British support in their attempts to bring the Western allies and the Soviet Union together on the reunification issue.

No Important Gains

When this horse-trading in vague promises is examined, it appears that neither side gained very much. For its part, Bonn has never cared much for the ANF proposal, probably because it all too obviously bears the stamp of the Labor left's old "bad German" bias. The offer merely to keep the idea open sounds as close to "no" as the Germans could come without being downright rude to their guest. Yet if it was unrealistic to hope that Chancellor Erhard would become godfather to Mr. Wilson's brainchild, the British had sounder reasons for hoping that some progress could be made on the BAOR issue.

Since 1955, the dollar drain involved in keeping 230,000 U.S. troops in Germany has been offset by U.S. arms sales to Bonn totalling some $3.7 billion. In the same way, France has more than recouped the costs of her 65,000-man army by making sales in Germany totalling $1.2 billion in the same period. But poor Britain has only been able to sell some $558 million worth of goods to Germany, which is far short of maintaining roughly 51,000 troops on the Rhine since 1957.

Bonn has in the past made several promises to compensate Britain for her sterling losses. But even though some of these promises have involved commitments to buy British goods up to a specified value, West Germany has never managed to live up to them. After the latest promise, made last July, British sales to West Germany actually dropped by more than 50 per cent.

Money Down the Rhine

As matters now stand, Britain is currently spending $255 million a year to maintain the BAOR, while West German purchases from Britain have been running at $75 million annually. Understandably, this $180 million gap looms large in British thinking at a time when the nation's over-all balance of payments is in such a sticky state. And, if British governments sometimes seem to wag their fingers even more vigorously than the circumstances deserve, perhaps that is understandable too. When one is in a mess that is largely self-made, it is a relief to blame someone else for at least some of it.

Yet in all honesty it is hard to believe that the West German government is the villain of this particular piece. For one thing, there is only a limited amount that any democratic government can do in such circumstances. Dr. Erhard certainly can't order private German industry to buy British. He can only nudge, and hope that British exporters are sufficiently competitive to take it from there. And this the British have so far been unable to do.

Injurious Delays

In the area of arms purchases, the German government's first allegiance must be to the needs of its armed forces. Here again, it seems the British are not sufficienty competitive — although it is hard to fault any nation for failing to stand toe to toe against the American arms industry. But in the case of the Hawker P-1127 aircraft, for example, the British have only their own production delays to blame if the Luftwaffe decides to look elsewhere.

Moreover, it must be remembered that Dr. Erhard's hands are tied all the more tightly by the imminence of next month's federal election. Already in an embarrassing position because of the foreign policy tangle in the Middle East, he cannot promise to do a great deal more for Britain than the German public is ready to accept. And here, perhaps, we come to the real, rock-bottom reason why Mr. Wilson had so little to show for his Bonn visit.

To be frank, the West Germans give every sign of becoming fed up with Britain. The Rhine army is poorly armed and inadequately mechanized. Worse, it has never been up to its proper strength of 55,000 men. They know, too, that the Labor government's heart is not with its army in Germany but lies somewhere east of Suez.

When it comes to Britain's balance of payment troubles, unofficial West Germans are beginning to take the line that their government is being made the whipping boy. And, with an attitude typical of affluent, hard-working peoples, they tend to complain about being asked for help by those who don't work quite so hard.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"I'M RUNNIN' AWAY FROM HOME. IF YA WANNA SEE ME, I'LL BE IN MR. WILSON'S GARAGE."

Looking Back

From The Times of March 19, 1890.

A new rule has been established by the provincial police authorities. It says that all prisoners going to or coming from the provincial jail on Topaz Ave. must walk in the gaze of the public. Before this, express wagons or hacks were used to transport prisoners. The latter was described as handy, because it gave the sometimes sensitive inmates a becoming privacy.

Voices Of Quebec

Montreal La Presse

Rumors of an early election continue. No one dares guess a precise date but most sources say some time before the end of this year. The strange thing about all this is that none of the parties really wants an election. The Conservatives are deep in crisis not only about their leadership but also over legislative matters. . . The smaller parties are scarcely more inclined to head for the hustings because their financial positions don't measure up to the needs of an electoral struggle. . .

As for the Liberals, their position obviously is more complex. On the one hand, they would do well to let a good deal of water flow under the bridge, so as to see swept away all memory of the scandals truly or falsely alleged to have occurred. . . But at the same time how can the Liberals resist the temptation to exploit as soon as possible the current weakness of their Tory adversary? Besides, it's no sure thing that Mr. Pearson will continue to have the same freedom of choice as he has now if he doesn't hurry and take the initiative.

Sherbrooke La Tribune

A. A. Cummings, president of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, said recently in a speech that the best way to strengthen the national economy is to correct, as soon as possible, the weak points and the injustices of our present tax system. He reiterates that the only way to alleviate the load now falling on the shoulders of individual and corporate taxpayers is to reduce taxes. . .

The American experience in this respect gives conclusive proof of the salutary effects of tax reductions. Following the recent slash in the United States, industry has benefited, unemployment has dropped, retail sales have increased, capital investment has gone up—all of which has actually helped the tax system.

Given this state of affairs, it is reasonable to think that tax reductions would have identical effect here.

Montreal Le Devoir

The International Control Commission in Viet Nam is not a United States organ. It has only observer's powers, and no military status or power to enforce any decisions. Then along comes Prime Minister Pearson with his suggestion that a military force working for peace should be placed on the frontier dividing that now war-torn country. . .

The interesting thing about this plan is its flexibility and possibility of varied application. Also, it enables action to be taken even while the UN is in its present unfortunate state and it permits Communist China to participate without membership in the United Nations. In short, under the Pearson plan, the big five powers could assume their duties outside the Security Council and bring peace, through an international force, to this area, spurred on by the menace of a general war.

The whole idea is ingenious if hard to implement.

Quebec L'Action

Canadians have been living for at least a century in a dream-world of political stability. Now suddenly the earth is beginning to disappear from beneath their feet. The element of crisis is to be found everywhere. There is crisis in Quebec City where the provincial government is spending far more money than the taxpayers can afford. There is crisis in Ottawa where the numerical weakness of the government in the Commons is compounded by allegations of scandal and a weakness in the quality of the opposition party Above all, to confront crisis, the country lacks men capable of leadership. It turns desperately to the provincial premiers in its search for leaders. But this provincial talent is itself something the provinces cannot replace and thus cannot part with. . .

Ottawa Le Droit

The board of transport commissioners is due to examine the rates currently charged by the Bell Telephone Company of Canada. This could result in a new increase in rates, against which municipalities in both Ontario and Quebec already have protested. In the face of this threat of higher rates, the Communist party of Canada and the trade unions have proposed that the Bell company should be nationalized. In their eyes nationalization is the only remedy for the abuses of private enterprise. . .

But there is nothing to guarantee that a state-owned enterprise would be any less voracious than a private one, nor that it would give service of equal quality. As proof of this, one has only to look at the rising fares being charged by the municipal-owned bus companies in our big towns or by the CNR, against which everyone is complaining. . .

'Exorbitant Rates'

I disagree with your editorial entitled "'Exorbitant' Rates". I feel that in many cases the premiums for automobile insurance in this country are exorbitant, and I respect Alberta Highways Minister Gordon for bringing this fact into the public eye.

I agree with the concept of scaled policy rates determined by a risk factor of the insured. Naturally a person with a bad record should have higher rates than a cautious driver. It is the application of this concept by the insurance companies that constitutes the major injustice. The assigned risk plan, the source of exorbitant rates, is not as you say "sold on freely competitive terms." It is operated and administered collectively by all the insurance companies. This is in effect a MONOPOLY which can scale rates at any level it so desires.

INSIDE POLITICS

With Douglas Fisher, M.P.

(Mr. Fisher is the member for Port Arthur riding for the New Democratic Party.)

Lester Bowles Pearson will be entering his 69th year of life in a few weeks, just the day before the second anniversary of his becoming Canada's prime minister. Only recently has he begun to give the impression through his appearance and his actions in the house that he is much affected by both his years and the burden of his job.

This is not a suggestion that there has been a sudden transformation. But the step is not as jaunty, the grin is much rarer, the waves of facial choler last longer and recede less. Indeed Mr. Pearson is becoming much more of a poker-face: the usual plasticity of his features in which one used to notice the flitting of many emotions is giving way to a set, even blinkered kind of look.

In a rough fashion one tended to have the impression a few months ago that Mr. Pearson was a much younger man than Mr. Diefenbaker; not so much physically (although there was a perceptible difference there in alacrity of movement) but in outlook.

* * *

I would conjure up the First World War and its preceding years and figures to associate with John Diefenbaker's style and vocabulary and expansiveness whereas Mr. Pearson seemed more certain a man shaped by the roaring '20s and its mass sophistication and frantic movement.

In this sense, Mr. Pearson seemed much closer and more in the manner and the approachability of my own generation.

If my judgment of changes in Mr. Pearson is accurate, it would be the trials of his government and the difficulties of some of the decisions facing him which have altered him. Despite his openness, almost in denial of his approachability, Mr. Pearson's real personality has always been inscrutable. At least, no one is certain what the "real" Pearson is like.

Some who have been or are close to him in a working way insist that there is no mystery; that the PM is a simple, straightforward personality, without complications or deviousness. Perhaps they are right, but I do not think so.

* * *

If he were without much guile or convoluted manner of thought it seems to me that he would have been more crisp and more candid in his handling of his government and the house, or, contrarily, if his simplicity were such that everything was too much for him, his colleagues and followers would have cottoned to it and been much less loyal than they have been.

Now these observations of mine are based on a close watching of Mr. Pearson during the short time that he is in the house each day, usually during the question period. To say on the basis of this that he now seems more a contemporary of Mr. Diefenbaker than he was, does not mean that he is becoming like Mr. Diefenbaker.

Obviously, he does not relish the approaching election campaign for which his chief rival is chomping and sniffing.

Some time in the next 10 days, certainly by the end of the month, Mr. Pearson has to make up his mind on the election.

I believe it is long, long consideration of this very decision that has made him seem so different and strange last week in the house. The decision to go, to dissolve the house by April 16, seems inevitable.

* * *

If Mr. Pearson plumps for electioneering it will not be with a majority enthusiasm of his incumbent MPs for it, but because his key men in the party organization convince him that it is suicidal to delay longer. If he decides to go, a concomitant of that decision will have to be a drastic shakeup in his cabinet plus a pulling from the hat of some new candidates of prestige.

If he should decide to hold on, in the face of the bitterness and brawling of the present membership, he must come up with a drastic, immediate program of parliamentary reform.

'ESCORTS' IRK NEWSMEN IN VIET NAM

WASHINGTON (AP)—An information subcommittee of the House of Representatives is investigating complaints that U.S. military authorities are imposing severe restrictions on foreign correspondents in South Viet Nam.

The defence department has promised to investigate the situation and make a full report, a subcommittee aide reported.

Top U.S. government information officers will discuss news coverage in Viet Nam with U.S. press relations officials from Viet Nam and the Pacific command during a two-day meeting this week in Honolulu.

Marshall Wright, state department press officer, said in Washington that the meeting would look into news coverage of American military and other activities in the war-torn country.

Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defence for public affairs, in reply to a reporter's questions, acknowledged some changes in announcements of air strikes against Communist North Viet Nam. But he said the department's policy was one of "complete candor with newsmen."

Dispatches from Saigon, however, painted a picture of restrictions which are making the war there more difficult to cover than at any time since major U.S. involvement began in 1961.

RATIO OF ONE-TO-ONE

While there are 115 accredited correspondents in Viet Nam, there are 60 American military and civilian officers assigned to keep tabs on the correspondents. At least as many Vietnamese press officers are similarly employed, creating a ratio of about one information officer per correspondent.

Correspondents in Saigon reported these recent developments:

1. Five reporters were arrested inside the U.S. Marine compound at Da Nang, the strategic air base near the North Viet Nam frontier. A spokesman said there had been a misunderstanding and the reporters were released.

2. Six weeks after the Pentagon said it was working on a pool of correspondents to join the 7th Fleet and report first hand activities of American pilots, a group of correspondents was flown to the carrier Ranger for a brief one-day visit. A staff of 23 carefully briefed "escort officers" stayed with the reporters during the visit.

3. An escorting officer must accompany each correspondent admitted to Da Nang air base.

4. Interviews with flyers must be arranged on an individual basis with the escort officer present, a policy also in effect in the Pentagon.

5. Correspondents have been barred from U.S. military clubs and restaurants both at Da Nang air base and in the city of Da Nang.

6. Pilots flying outside Viet Nam are instructed not to talk to anyone.

Correspondents have expressed no objection to safeguards against disclosure of classified information. There is no censorship of correspondents' dispatches.

SOURCES DRY UP

Their main handicap to free flow of news is caused by drying up of sources. Some reporters hold that the presence of an escort officer at every interview frightens the man being interviewed so that natural answers are not obtainable.

Reporters also fear that no distinction will be made between stories involving security and those involving subjects annoying or embarrassing to military policymakers.

Wes Gallagher, general manager of The Associated Press, said in a statement issued in New York:

"News restrictions imposed by the Pentagon raise serious questions as to whether the American people will be able to get a true picture of the war in Viet Nam.

"Barring correspondents from free access to air bases and other military installations and providing an 'escort' for every correspondent is clearly aimed not at security matters but at controlling what American fighting men might say. Such controls exceed anything done in the darkest days of Second World War.

"The correspondents have voluntarily acceded to military requests on security matters, such as not reporting raids until planes return. So far as The Associated Press is concerned, our correspondents would be prepared to submit airbase copy to formal censorship if the U.S. Army installs it.

"But correspondents should be free to see and cover all aspects of the war as was done in Second World War."

INDIA FEARS 'ISOLATION'

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI (AP)—There is serious concern in New Delhi that a diplomatic net is being tightened around India by three unfriendly neighbors.

The threatening trio in Indian eyes are China, Pakistan and Indonesia. Increasing co-operation among them worries Prime Minister Shastri's government because it highlights India's virtual isolation in the so-called Afro-Asian bloc.

India's response to the three-nation combine is to strive for better relations with a fourth neighbor, the Soviet Union, and seek assurances of American and British help if there is trouble with China.

Shastri will visit Moscow May 12 and is likely to press for continued Soviet support in India's quarrel with Pakistan.

On June 2, Shastri is to meet President Johnson in Washington in what the prime minister's aides fear may be the most difficult part of his attempt to win friends abroad.

India at this point needs the United States and its massive economic - military aid more than the U.S. needs India. But Shastri has been a major force in developing international pressure on the U.S. to negotiate the Viet Nam crisis and the Indian government has blamed American forces, not the Communists, for escalating the Viet Nam conflict.

SEE WILSON TOO

The third stop on Shastri's foreign swing will be London for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference and meetings with Prime Minister Wilson the first week in June.

Shastri seeks Britain's co-operation in a nuclear guarantee that would protect India from China's developing nuclear capability.

In all three capitals, Shastri will attempt to counter the blossoming prestige of President Ayub Khan of Pakistan. Ayub is to meet Johnson in Washington April 26-27.

The Pakistani leader has scored diplomatic successes in recent months with China and Indonesia. He has normalized Pakistan-China relations, to his satisfaction at least, and almost weekly his government receives smiling delegations of Indonesian diplomats and military officials.

The Indian government woefully regards Ayub as aspiring—with chances of success—for the prestige position in international affairs occupied a decade ago by India's late prime minister Nehru.

Political Bruises Collected In Ceylon's Rugged Campaign

By DENZIL PEIRIS

COLOMBO (AP) — The roughest political campaign in Ceylon's history is drawing to a close and has torn holes in the national fabric that may be difficult to mend.

Bitterly antagonistic political forces have taken seemingly irreconcilable positions in frantic efforts to support or kill off a re-election bid by leftist-backed Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike, the world's only woman prime minister.

Both sides agree the outcome of next Monday's parliamentary election will have momentous effect on Ceylon's future.

Mrs. Bandaranaike campaigned on a pledge to make Ceylon an anti-colonialist socialist state free from "Western imperialist influence" and the "pernicious features of Western culture."

Opposition parties charge victory for her means the end of parliamentary democracy in Ceylon and that leftists now supporting her would push her aside and capture the government.

Most of this island nation's leading public figures wear political bruises collected in the campaign. Not even disc jockeys escaped.

They drew government fire when a radio speech by Mrs. Bandaranaike was followed by a playing of Beethoven's Funeral March. When The Donkey Serenade was used as a musical fill-in after a cabinet minister's speech, some disc jockeys were fired by state-owned Radio Ceylon.

REPLACED HER HUSBAND

Mrs. Bandaranaike, 49, a matronly woman with a husky voice, became prime minister five years ago, after a Buddhist monk assassinated her husband, Prime Minister Solomon Bandaranaike.

Her shaky government fell Dec. 3 when Parliament defeated her attempt to nationalize Ceylon's largest newspaper publishing group, the Associated Newspapers.

Now she offers Ceylon's 4,700,000 registered voters a leftist-dominated coalition of her Socialistic Freedom party and the Marxist Social Equality party. The opposition charges that of the 100 parliamentary candidates she has nominated, 75 are Marxists in ideology. The House of Representatives has 151 members, 145 elected and six appointed.

Altogether 492 candidates from nine recognized political parties and including 45 independents are contesting the 145 seats.

PROBE BURNED DEBRIS FOR SECOND CREWMAN

CLARENVILLE, Nfld. (UPI)—The discovery of the body of one of two crewmembers of a DC-3 that crashed in the Newfoundland bush Thursday night discounted the possibility the two ferry pilots bailed out before the crash.

Meanwhile, searchers continue to sift through the burned debris trying to locate the body of the second pilot, also now believed to be in the wreckage.

'Canada Hurt Abroad' By Atheist Judgment

A Cambridge University trained scientist said today the federal Immigration Act is a disgrace because it denies citizenship to immigrants who do not believe in God.

Lloyd Brereton, physicist, editor of the Victoria Humanist, said the act is creating an image of Canada abroad of a people who won't face moral realities.

His views follows a judgment by Mr. Justice Stanley Schatz of the Ontario Supreme Court upholding a County Court decision denying citizenship to a Dutch couple because they did not believe in God.

OATH OF ALLEGIANCE

The justice based his judgment on the Citizenship Act which requires an immigrant to take an oath of allegiance on the Bible.

Mr. Brereton said the court case has been followed with interest in Britain, Holland, France, Sweden and other European countries.

"The act encourages deceit and dishonesty and is a denial of freedom of thought," he said. "What's to prevent an atheist or agnostic immigrant who wants to enter the country from claiming belief in God."

'RIDICULOUS'

"Then again," he added, "once a person becomes a Canadian citizen, what's to prevent him from becoming an atheist? The act is ridiculous."

The physicist said the act as it now stands might prevent many European scientists and professional men with strong views on the freedom of thought, from entering Canada.

The act would have barred from Canada such men as Sigmund Freud, founder of psychoanalysis, and Albert Einstein, physicist, he said.

Acts like this are partly responsible for breaking down the morals of a nation, he said, because an individual knowingly practices deceit.

IN 1886

Mr. Brereton said the issue of the oath of allegiance was settled in England in 1886 when parliamentarian Charles Bradlough, a free-thinker, won his case after protracted scenes in the House of Commons.

"In England, if a person does not want to take an oath he can make an affirmation," he said. "The same practice is followed in Canadian courts but it doesn't seem to apply to the Immigration Act."

The British Immigration Act doesn't require a person to believe in God, he said.

'GODLESS' CASE MAY CHANGE CANADA ACT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jack Nicholson, minister of citizenship and immigration, said Thursday he has ordered a court transcript of proceedings that denied an atheist Dutch couple citizenship.

Mr. Nicholson said in an interview he ordered the transcript of the Ontario Supreme Court hearing because of the importance of the 41-page decision by Mr. Justice Stanley Schatz.

The supreme court jurist upheld County Court Judge W. W. Leach's refusal to recommend citizenship for the Dutch couple because Canada's oath of allegiance in the Citizenship Act requires a person to believe in God.

"This is a most important case and I feel the government must be prepared to consider the possibility of an amendment to the Citizenship Act," Mr. Nicholson said.

U.K. Masons Mad

LONDON (UPI)—British Freemasons reacted angrily here to a television program which claimed to expose some of the organization's secrets. The 45-minute BBC program showed an initiation ceremony, a candidate's entry into the various degrees of the order, and a secret handshake. It disclosed several passwords.

Two-Nation Canada Plan Outlined

MONTREAL (CP)—The royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism Wednesday was given a detailed blueprint of a Canada encompassing two sovereign nations within a new confederation.

The plan was outlined in a lengthy brief submitted to the commission by the St. Jean Baptiste Society of Montreal.

Based on the society's oft-expressed view that Quebec should be given the status of an "associate state" within Confederation, the blueprint came complete with a new set of federal institutions to carry out limited assignments mutually agreed on by the two "sovereign" states of Qeuebec and English Canada.

Such a system, said the SSJB of Montreal, is the only way to meet the desire of French-speaking Canadians to have Quebec recognized not just as "another province," but as "a national state for French-Canadians."

"Under the new Confederation, Quebec would become a sovereign state and the government of Quebec would be the national government of all the citizens under its authority," the brief said. "English Canada and Quebec would be associated in a true confederation."

AUSTIN CURTIS MARKS . . .

TOUGH ACT TO FOLLOW EVEN FOR HUGH

. . . 25th SERVICE YEAR

By ALF KENT

HUGH
. . . "Austin's son"

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis was only eight years old when his father, Austin, began his 25-year career in public service.

Mr. Curtis, senior, is third in line as senior alderman for Victoria, but before his election in 1954 he had already put in 13 years as school trustee and was the first chairman of Greater Victoria school board from April 1, 1946.

Not only that, except for the first term, when he trailed former alderman Robert MacMillan by 228 votes, he has led the polls each time he ran.

Such a record will be hard to beat, and Hugh, elected to Saanich council in 1961 at the age of 29, has no desire to overshadow his father.

Yet it may be a sign of the times when Hugh points out:

"I used to be known as Austin's son. Now he kids about being Hugh's father."

Another Story

But Hugh tells another story that proves how hard it is to know what the electorate thinks:

"There was the lady who said to me, 'Isn't it wonderful, Mr. Curtis. You are in Saanich politics and your older brother is in the city.'

Whether he knows it or not, the example led by the trustee-alderman had a profound effect on his son that is bound to continue for "quite a few years."

"He never made any attempt to influence me in community work in general. It was there to rub off," Hugh says. "I've been interested in it since I got out of school."

And there were times before he was old enough for politics himself that Hugh wished his father had other interests.

School Board

"Any youngster who goes through school with his father on the school board knows the situation is fraught with danger."

He remembers there were "some fisticuffs, and some teachers bent their efforts towards me."

Having two members of the same family serving two different municipal councils within the same metropolitan area could also be fraught with danger.

But Reeve Curtis and Ald. Curtis shed their public identities when together and rarely touch on matters of municipal concern.

"My father is reluctant to get involved in what I'm doing. Very occasionally he will commend me for something, but he never mentions my mistakes.

"He says less, perhaps, on civic politics than if I weren't in it myself," Hugh said.

Church Affairs

They have little contact at the official level, although both have served at different times on the same intermunicipal boards.

Before Hugh was elected reeve in the 1964 byelection, both served as delegates to the the Greater Victoria Centennial Committee, and for one meeting last fall, they sat together on the intermunicipal committee.

They are just two of the many posts Austin Curtis has filled in his years at city hall. He has been a member of fire wardens committee, Royal Oak Burial Park board, the water board, finance committee, civic personnel, Memorial Arena commission, the tourist bureau, receptions and entertainment committee, public works, health and library boards.

Sets Example

Hugh says his father's "enormous capacity for facts and figures and for work" has inspired many persons in public life.

Ald. Curtis recalls being a member of Kiwanis for two years before entering an election in 1941.

"Fred Mulliner (a former alderman and school trustee) got me interested in the school board," he said.

"He was looking for a candidate and I don't know how many people he approached before me. But I followed him in every way—as trustee, school board chairman, president of B.C. School Trustees' Association and alderman, even as chairman of fire wardens."

It is work on the last committee that gives him the greatest satisfaction. This includes the purchase of three major pieces of equipment, construction of a new fire headquarters and a stepped-up fire prevention inspection service.

"I have great respect for members of the fire department as fire fighters and individuals," Ald. Curtis said. "But I find it necessary sometimes not to be able to agree with some of their union requests."

Most significant of his years of service is the confidence shown him by the people, enabling him to serve. "They re-elect you. Undoubtedly there is satisfaction.

AUSTIN
. . . "Hugh's father"

"They give you the confidence to go ahead and do these things.

Civic Politics

"Any young man or young woman who has the aptitude for civic politics will get a great deal of satisfaction out of serving," Ald. Curtis feels.

And despite the growing complexity of public life, a candidate's capacity can be increased by attending university, night classes, or even the Junior Chamber of Commerce, he said.

"Essentially, it is the interest and willingness. If they have that, the rest will come."

It is not necessary for a politician to be expert. Policy is decided on the basis of advice from staff and department heads.

"But I do not think an alderman should be a rubber stamp for the staff. He should think things out for himself," Ald. Curtis said.

Retired as CNR district manager since last year, Ald. Curtis long ago learned to accept the demands of public life. So did Mrs. Curtis.

"There have been more meetings than she bargained for, but she's been very nice about it," the alderman said.

UNCLIMBED MOUNT KENNEDY GOAL FOR SENATOR, MOUNTAINEERS

'We'll Let Robert Lead Us Onto the Top'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Robert F. Kennedy hopes to be among the first to conquer icy Mt. Kennedy, the Canadian peak named after his slain brother.

Jim Whittaker, who in 1963 became the first American to climb Mount Everest, believes the 39-year-old New York senator should have the honor.

In Seattle, Whittaker said: "As climb leader, I would step aside and let Senator Kennedy lead us onto the top."

Kennedy said Thursday he will fly to Seattle Sunday.

The 13,900-foot granite spire was named following the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. It is North America's highest unclimbed mountain.

Located in the Yukon territory, it is sheated with ice and snow and raked by gale-force winds at this time of the year. Temperatures drop as low as 40 below zero.

Kennedy said he and Dr. Bradford Washburn, director of the Boston Museum of Science and scientific leader of the expedition, will travel Monday to Whitehorse, about 150 miles east of the mountain.

Already at the mountain making advance preparations are Barry W. Prather of Ellensburg, Wash., a member of the 1963 Mt. Everest party; William N. Prater, also of Ellensburg; George R. Senner of Seattle; and Dee Molenaar of Olympia, Wash., a geologist and veteran Himalayan climber.

Canadians 'Think Small, Stay Small'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian businessmen Thursday were accused of "thinking small."

Hugh S. Hardy, Montreal management consultant, said few Canadian companies progress as rapidly as American.

This was not because Americans were smarter but because Canadians were conservative and had the habit of thinking small.

"Thinking small causes them to dismiss recent developments in the social and management sciences," he said at a seminar of the B.C. Chapter of the American Marketing Association.

"They shrug off such things as marketing research, long-range planting and systems computerization as being too sophisticated for their needs; they're just for the big boys.

Other speakers dealt with the use of computers by businessmen.

D. M. Pather, president of A. C. Nielson Company of Toronto, market researchers, said computers are incapable of exercising judgment. But they could enhance judgment in business and marketing by efficiency assembling facts to replace guesses.

"In our expanding economy, success—meaning growth and profit—will come most consistently to those who have more facts and fewer guesses as the basis for their marketing judgments."

BENNETT VS. PERRAULT

Off-Shore Mineral Rights Sparks Shouting Match

By PETE LOUDON

The federal provincial feud over who owns offshore mineral rights caused a brief shouting match in the legislature Thursday, the only one in a dull day.

As an alternative he asked Mr. Perrault to "come out for the resignation of federal Minister of Northern Affairs and Natural Resources Arthur Laing.

And Randolph Harding (NDP—Kaslo-Slocan) called for "the whole Liberal outfit in Ottawa to resign."

He added, "However, I think the Dorion inquiry and former Liberal organizer Rivard" are going to make resignations unnecessary.

This was a reference to the scandals now rocking the capital and the Liberal government.

The debate was opened by Mr. Perrault during consideration of mines department estimates. He wanted to know why B.C. did not take the matter of offshore rights to the courts for decision.

Why does B.C. insist on trying to negotiate the question instead of asking a court ruling? Why is B.C. so slow in trying to resolve the issue, he asked.

"I wonder if there is any chance the federal case is stronger than was first supposed?" asked Mr. Perrault.

"It would be a complete waste of time and money to go to the Supreme Court of Canada,' said Mines Minister Donald Brothers.

He said such action would be frivolous because B.C. had an airtight case. All that was necessary was for Ottawa to drop its claim to any rights.

At present companies wishing to conduct off-shore explorations are working under permits from both governments.

Premier Bennett then interjected, "The Tories and the Liberals, one after another, have been trying to take away the great rights of B.C. . . . offshore mineral rights belonged to the crown colony of British Columbia and under the terms of union all resources belong to the provinces.

"The federal government is trying to get into our revenue. This isn't an issue that should be a party issue. Every province across Canada says the federal government is trying to steal its resources.

"The Liberal party, headed by Ray Perrault is doing a great disservice. The people of B.C. should call for his resignation."

Mr. Perrault shouted that he was being misquoted by the premier "totally twisted and distorted."

He said his remarks were in favor of retention of B.C.'s rights to control offshore explorations.

"Then let the Liberal leader come out for the resignation of Arthur Laing," said Mr. Bennett.

Mr. Harding said his party felt these resources belong to the province, adding his suggestion that the Liberal government at Ottawa should resign.

U.K. Seeks More Sales In Province

LONDON CP)—The British government is going ahead with plans to establish independent trading companies to channel exports to British Columbia, the west coast of the United States and to West Germany.

Sir William MacFadzean, chairman of the British national export council, told a press conference Wednesday that two market research firms have been commissioned to make pilot studies in the three areas.

If the results are encouraging, the council will investigate how best to set up trading organizations that will act as principals for smaller British manufacturers and sell the products in the selected areas.

"What we envisage are 20th century versions of the old merchant trading houses like the Hudson's Bay Company," a spokesman said.

"Ultimately these will be self-supporting trading bodies with a good working knowledge of what British goods will sell well in these markets."

Sir William said British Columbia was included in the pilot studies because it is considered a convenient growth area within the Commonwealth.

The spokesman said British Columbia might be in the market for British sporting goods and pleasure craft.

Sharp Rise In Spending Forecast

OTTAWA (CP) -- Private and public investment plans in Canada this year total $12,305,000,000, a 14-per-cent increase almost matching the 15-per-cent advance recorded last year.

The trade department's intentions, tabled in the Commons Thursday, said Quebec and Ontario again will lead the nation but a big boost is planned in the Atlantic Provinces, particularly Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

"The sharp rise in investment outlays indicated by the survey means that capital spending will continue to exert a strong expansionary influence on the economy in general," the report said.

Plans involve a 15-per-cent increase in construction expenditures, amounting in 1965 to $8,073,000,000 and an 11-per cent increase to $4,232,000,000 in outlays on new machinery and equipment.

PRESSURE ON GORDON FOR TAX END

OTTAWA (CP) -- Finance Minister Gordon is believed to be under increasing pressure to remove the burden of corporation taxes from privately-owned power companies in his forthcoming budget.

How Mr. Gordon feels about the question, nobody knows. But sources say he has likely been giving the matter weighty consideration since, apart from anything else, his decision could have an important bearing on the future development of the Churchill Falls—previously called Hamilton Falls—in Labrador.

The elimination of the tax would satisfy the pleas of Canada's 30-odd private power companies, who claim that they are up against unfair competition in tax-exempt government-owned power corporations.

B.C. Leads Store Sales Increase

OTTAWA (CP) — Department store sales in the week ending March 6 showed an increase in value of 5.3 per cent over the corresponding 1964 period, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Four provinces posted increases: Quebec, 8.1 per cent; Ontario, 7.6; Alberta, 3.6; British Columbia, 9.6.

Frank's back.

Frank Williams is a Customs Inspector. Doesn't often get led astray. But he's the first to admit that's what happened the last time he bought a used car. You see, for quite a few years he had always dealt with his Goodwill Used Car dealer. Enjoyed such good protection and service from his Goodwill dealer's Warranty that he'd quite forgotten what it's like trying to get along without it. Until he bought his last used car. Somewhere else. And suddenly it became painfully clear that a Goodwill Used Car Warranty is a very valuable thing to have. That was over two years ago, but the lesson stuck. This time, when he was ready to trade again, Frank headed straight for his Goodwill dealer. Selected a 1962 Chevrolet Impala Convertible. With a Goodwill Warranty. And Frank's ready to tell anyone who'll listen that he's back with Goodwill to stay!*

When you buy any used car you buy it largely on trust. It makes sense to buy one from an established, respected dealer. Your Goodwill Used Car Dealer also sells new Pontiacs Buicks and Acadians. He's in business to stay, you can depend on that. That's why you can depend on Goodwill Used Cars.

EXPERT PROBES STRANGE TWIST

'Conservatives Defeated Goldwater'

A United States political scientist suggested here Thursday that American politics are conservative.

Dr. Frank H. Jonas, president of the Western Political Science Association, told about 200 of his colleagues at the Empress Hotel the conservatism of the American people led Barry Goldwater to downfall in his bid for the presidency.

"Goldwater and his associates failed to note that he appeared to large segments of voters as a radical reactionary—one who wanted to uproot present forms and return to old and outworn ones.

"Goldwater himself never seemed to make clear to the electorate that the nation was in a revolution and had been since the 1930s. One might suggest the results of the 1964 election had indicated this revolution had run its course."

Dr. Jonas said the only real issue in the election campaign was the role the federal government should play in the lives of individual citizens and in local government affairs.

"The increasing role of the federal government in local affairs was an integral part of the consensus.

"Goldwater failed to evaluate correctly the consensus, or, if he did, he elected to run against it not with it," said Dr. Jonas.

"In doing so he advocated an about-face and a return to the past. To reverse one's direction is as much or more social change than going forward.

"He appeared to the electorate as a radical and because the American people tend to be conservative they did not vote for him.

"Lyndon Johnson is conservative. Therefore the American people voted for Johnson," said Dr. Jonas.

Strike Vote Asked

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Automotive Transport Association of Vancouver which bargains for 55 cartage companies has asked for a government-supervised strike vote among 2,400 employees. The Teamsters Union, representing truckers, swampers and warehouse workers, has rejected a 40-cent hourly increase in a three-year contract recommended by a conciliation board.

Rosicrucians To Watch Sun For New Year

Victoria Rosicrucians will celebrate New Year's Day Sunday as the sun enters the zodiacal sign of Aries. There will be a ceremony and conclave in the Dominion Hotel Sunday at 8 p.m.

"This New Year ceremony was first performed in the Valley of the Nile 3,000 years ago," said Mrs. Beatrice Emerson, Master of the Rosicrucian Victoria Pronaos.

"It was a symbolic feast in which the participants ate simple foods corresponding to certain basic elements of nature."

According to Rosicrucian tradition, the custom of celebrating New Year's Day in March was passed down through the ages from ancient Egypt.

Sunday is also the beginning of the fiscal year for all Rosicrucian lodges, chapters and pronaoi throughout the world. The date is marked by the installation of new ritualistic and administrative officers.

New officers of the Victoria Rosicrucian organization are Mrs. A. G. Eburne, secretary, and Mrs. R. H. Ridley, guardian.

Life Hangs In Balance

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— Actress Patricia Neal, her speech hobbled and her right side paralysed by three massive strokes, remained "very cheerful" today, although the life of her unborn child still hung in the balance.

"She's displayed tremendous courage—and has never been depressed," said her husband, British mystery writer Roald Dahl. "She's always joking now."

Dahl, who brought his wife home from UCLA medical centre Wednesday night, disclosed Thursday that she is five months pregnant.

"But we don't know whether or not she'll be able to have the baby," he said. "We'll have to evaluate the effect of the medication and x-ray treatment she's received."

Legend has it that Feb. 14 became a day for lovers because birds were believed to choose their mates on that day.

SCARRED, PUNCTURED

Vandals Damage Paintings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten paintings valued at $167,000 were damaged at an art gallery Thursday in what was described as a "great act of vandalism."

The paintings were displayed on the second floor of the Corcoran Gallery, about two blocks from the White House.

Richard A. Madigan, the gallery's assistant director, said the most heavily damaged piece was Corcoran's gold medal winner of the gallery's biennial exhibit of contemporary art.

The painting, Robert Rauschenberg's Axle valued at $40,000, had three punctures, several abrasions and several dents on its silk-screen surface.

Nine other paintings were damaged including one of the gallery's oldest and most valuable exhibits, the $100,000 Last of the Buffalo. It hung in an adjoining room.

The paintings for the most part were scarred or punctured either by pencil or ballpoint pen.

Russell Quandt, the gallery's conservator and restorer, said the paintings probably could be repaired.

Schweitzer Successor

LONDON (Reuters)—Dr. Albert Schweitzer, the 90-year-old founder of the famous jungle hospital at Lambarene, Gabon, has appointed a successor to take over from him, the British doctors' weekly newspaper Medical News reports. The man he has chosen to succeed as medical director of the equatorial leper colony is Dr. Walter Munz, a 31-year-old Swiss.

Baby-Sitting Costs Not Tax Deductible

OTTAWA (CP)—Baby-sitting costs are not an allowable expense deduction for income tax purposes, in the view of the income tax appeal board.

The board made public today a judgment by its assistant chairman, R. S. W. Fordham, dated at Vancouver March 1, in the case of Mrs. Mary Duncan Burns Macquistan, a practising physician and surgeon in Vancouver.

The judgment related that Mrs. Macquistan, whose husband is a chartered accountant, claimed the right to deduct from her professional fees the sum of $1,338 paid for baby sitting in 1962. "The appellant claims she would be unable to practise her profession . . . if a baby sitter's services were not obtained."

"Be this as it may, the short answer is, of course, that an expense so incurred is a 'personal or living expense' within the meaning of . . . the Income Tax Act and thus not deductible."

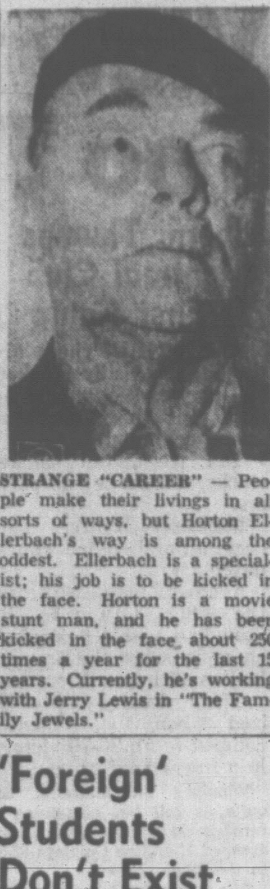
Dismissing the appeal by Mrs. Macquistan, Mr. Fordham went on:

"I may elaborate by remarking that it is no more an expense of earning income than is the employment in a private residence of a cook or a housemaid and no one would argue that the wages of either of the latter were deductible from the employer's taxable income."

BRIDGE RESULTS

Winners of the Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club's recent game were: Section A: 1. Ethel Cleworth and Eric Horwood; 2. Hildegarde Rundquist and Maria Collm; 3. George Marsden and Will Browne-Cave; 4. (tie) Liliane LeButt, Bud Waddington and Lilian McMicking, Minna Loomer; 6. Margaret McAvoy and Gwen Graham.

Section B: Eric Ware and Jack Goldie; 2. Joah Smith and Tony Marsh; 3. Elizabeth Warren and John Bishop; 4. Hilda Price and Pat Bishop; 5. Florence Curran and Ed Robertson; 6. Paul Smith and Jim Duprau. There were 22 tables in play.



STRANGE "CAREER" — People make their livings in all sorts of ways, but Horton Ellerbach's way is among the oddest. Ellerbach is a specialist; his job is to be kicked in the face. Horton is a movie stunt man, and he has been kicked in the face about 250 times a year for the last 15 years. Currently, he's working with Jerry Lewis in "The Family Jewels."

'Foreign' Students Don't Exist

Victoria Rotarians Thursday observed Rotary's World Understanding Week by inviting six students from abroad to a luncheon meeting at the Empress Hotel.

The University of Victoria students were from Japan, U.S.A., the West Indies and Hawaii.

Eric Dowell, chairman of the international contacts committee, told the meeting in today's world there are no more foreigners.

"We shouldn't use the term 'foreign student'," Mr. Dowell said, "we should call them neighbors or visitors from abroad."

Thanking the meeting for the invitation in the name of all the students present, Takeysoki Shiroawa of Japan said he doesn't feel as a foreigner in Canada.

SAME JOYS

"I found after a few weeks in this country" he said, "that people everywhere smile at the same joys and cry for the same pains."

The chairman reported on the Great Exchange Program of the club which last year, in conjunction with the New Zealand Club, shipped 7,300 pounds of used educational books to the South Pacific area.

A shipment of used eye testing and dental equipment was sent recently to the Rotary Club of Seoul, Korea, for distribution to hospitals in that area, the club was told.

More than half a million Rotarians in 11,800 communities around the world are uniting this week in a demonstration of ways to advance peace and understanding.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Robin Quesnel, 21, was charged with criminal negligence after John Grant, 47, died in Vancouver General Hospital. Grant was seriously injured Tuesday in a two-car crash.

DISCOTHEQUE IN BUSINESS

Watusi, Swim, Frug Parlor Opened by Three Uvic Students

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

The discotheque craze has hit Victoria in a big way.

The city's third pay-by-the-hour dance spot, the Double-Take Discotheque, opened this week under the watchful eye of three University of Victoria students who are running it.

It received a warm reception from more than 250 dancers who occupied the floor from the after-school opening time throughout the evening.

Occupying space in the Club Tango on Oak Bay Avenue, the Double-Take is the brainchild of Rob Reed, 20, John Botterell, 19, and Hugh MacDonald, 19, all first year arts students at Uvic.

Rob, the originator of the idea, said the discotheque is geared to attract senior high school and university students who are hip on the swim, watusi, frug, surf, jerk and other popular dances.

Other night spots, he said, have too much of the "tough element" in them, something the Double-Take hopes to avoid.

Rob talked the other two into the idea of starting a discotheque, although, as he said, "it didn't take much talking."

RELAX SOMETIME

The Double-Take features the recorded music customary in discotheques, but for the opening night two bands also played.

Although exams are looming on the horizon for both university and high school students, the boys hope business will pick up after April.

"Even during exams, you've got to relax sometime," said Rob.

The Double-Take is being financed from the boys' part-time and summer earnings, but if the idea catches on they may earn a profit from the venture.

Future plans include Sunday night jazz sessions as well as the regular weekday dancing from 3:30 to 10:30 p.m. and Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The discotheque charges 25 cents for the first hour of dancing and 10 cents for each additional hour, and has a no-liquor rule as they want to cater to the 15 to 21 age bracket.

Publishers To Support Hebert Bid

TORONTO (CP) — The Book Publishers' Association of Canada has swung support behind a move to save Montreal editor Jacques Hebert from going to jail for writing a book critical of the trial of Wilbur Coffin.

John M. Gray, president of the Macmillan Company of Canada, said the decision was made this week at a meeting of the association.

He said the association was unanimous in offering moral and, if necessary, financial aid to help Mr. Hebert, currently free on bail pending the outcome of an appeal.

The 42-year-old journalist was sentenced last month to 30 days and fined $3,000 under a contempt of justice charge ordered by Attorney-General Claude Wagner of Quebec. It was an aftermath of publication of Mr. Hebert's book ("J'Accuse les Assassins de Coffin." "I Accuse the Assassins of Coffin").

In the book, Mr. Hebert claimed that prospector Coffin was railroaded to the gallows in 1954 for the slaying of three United States bear hunters in the Gaspe to placate an outcry from the tourist industry.

U.K. Police Nab Two Goldfinger Suspects

SOUTHAMPTON, England (Reuters)—Two men have been arrested in connection with the recent £100,000 ($300,000) gold bullion robbery from the liner Capetown Castle, police announced today.

Police said the two men would appear in court later today.

They were charged with stealing 20 bars of gold from the Union Castle Mail Steamship Company on an unknown date between Jan. 14 and Feb. 5.

The gold, in 10 boxes, was missing from a temporary strong room on the liner when it arrived here from South Africa Feb. 5.

London insurance underwriters paid out $300,000 in insurance.

At the beginning of this month two men gave information to the police here.

Chief Inspector Bertram Adams and another Southampton detective flew to South Africa and were waiting for the 27,000-ton liner when it docked in Durban March 9.

They went straight to a sandbox in the ship's after quarters, a part not open to the public, and found six gold bars cemented in the bottom of it.

The remaining 14 were later found cemented into a fan near a hold.

Hawks' Stock Sinks As Habs, Wings Win

Detroit Buries Boston; Listless Leafs Larruped

Canadian Press

While Montreal Canadiens managed to vault over the idle Chicago Black Hawks into second place in the National Hockey League with their 4-1 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs Thursday night, they failed to gain ground on the leading Detroit Red Wings.

The Wings Thursday night went on a scoring splurge to down Boston Bruins 10-3 at Detroit.

Wings' 12th straight victory on home ice was capped by a 13-point scoring binge by Norm Ullman, Gordie Howe and Alex Delvecchio. The trio now has racked up 63 points in the last dozen games.

The Wings now top the heap with 80 points, leaving the Habs three points back at 77 and the Black Hawks one back of Montreal with 76. Toronto remains a poor fourth, 10 points behind the Hawks.

It was the first time since March 1953 that the Wings had managed 10 goals—all notched by different marksmen.

HABS PULL AHEAD

The third period saw the Habs pull ahead 2-0 when John Ferguson came through unassisted at 1:53 of the stanza. Toronto's Don McKenney got that one back at the three-minute mark.

At 8:03, Canadiens' captain Jean Beliveau scored his 13th goal of the season and then, just before the 14-minute mark, tallied again to close the scoring.

Defenceman Bobby Baun was the goat on Ferguson's goal, as he lost the puck in his skates and allowed Ferguson to get a quick wrist shot away and past a startled Terry Sawchuk.

Sawchuk had 38 stops in the Toronto net, while Charlie Hodge had 26 in the Habs nets.

Referee Vern Buffey called 14 penalties, including a misconduct to Sawchuk for leaving his crease to argue over a slashing call against him.

In Detroit, Ullman led the Detroit jugernaut with a goal and four assists. Howe managed a goal and three assists, while Delvecchio came up with a goal and two assists.

Boston goalie Jack Norris, who turned aside 33 shots when the Bruins upset Chicago 2-1 Wednesday, had 47 saves to make from the fired-up Wings.

FOUR ON POWER PLAYS

Four of Detroit's five first-period goals came on power plays and one while the Bruins held a man advantage. Gordie Howe got things rolling at 2:05, when Norris attempted to intercept a pass with his stick. Instead the puck trickled by him into the net.

Detroit defenceman Doug Barkley put his fifth of the season behind Norris and veteran Ted Lindsay managed his 14th. Ullman's 35th of the year came at 14:47 of the final stanza to end the scoring.

Manitoba, Alberta Tied in Top Berth

TORONTO (CP) — Ernie Boushy predicted Thursday night that if his Winnipeg rink curls as well as it has in the last six games, Manitoba will retain its national mixed curling championship.

"The competition is better—especially the Eastern rinks—but the ice conditions are near perfect," he said after the seventh round of this year's 11-rink, round-robin tournament.

Manitoba and Alberta, skipped by Lee Green of Calgary, were tied for top spot with 6-0 won-lost records after Thursday's two rounds. Ontario's Ray Grant of Unionville was a close third with five wins in six starts.

Boushy leads his defending champions against Ontario Saturday morning and meets Alberta in the final match of the championship Saturday afternoon.

"If we can get past Grant, we're sure we can take Alberta," Boushy said.

The battle for the championship was a long way from being over after Thursday's action, however. Northern Ontario, skipped by Wilf Biron of Sudbury, last year's third-place finisher, stretched its undefeated streak to four after losing the first two games.

Low Scores Hightlight Comox 'Spiel

COMOX — Dave Paterson's RCAF rink from Comox posted three successive victories Thursday to set the pace on opening day of the seventh annual men's bonspiel at Comox Valley Curling Club.

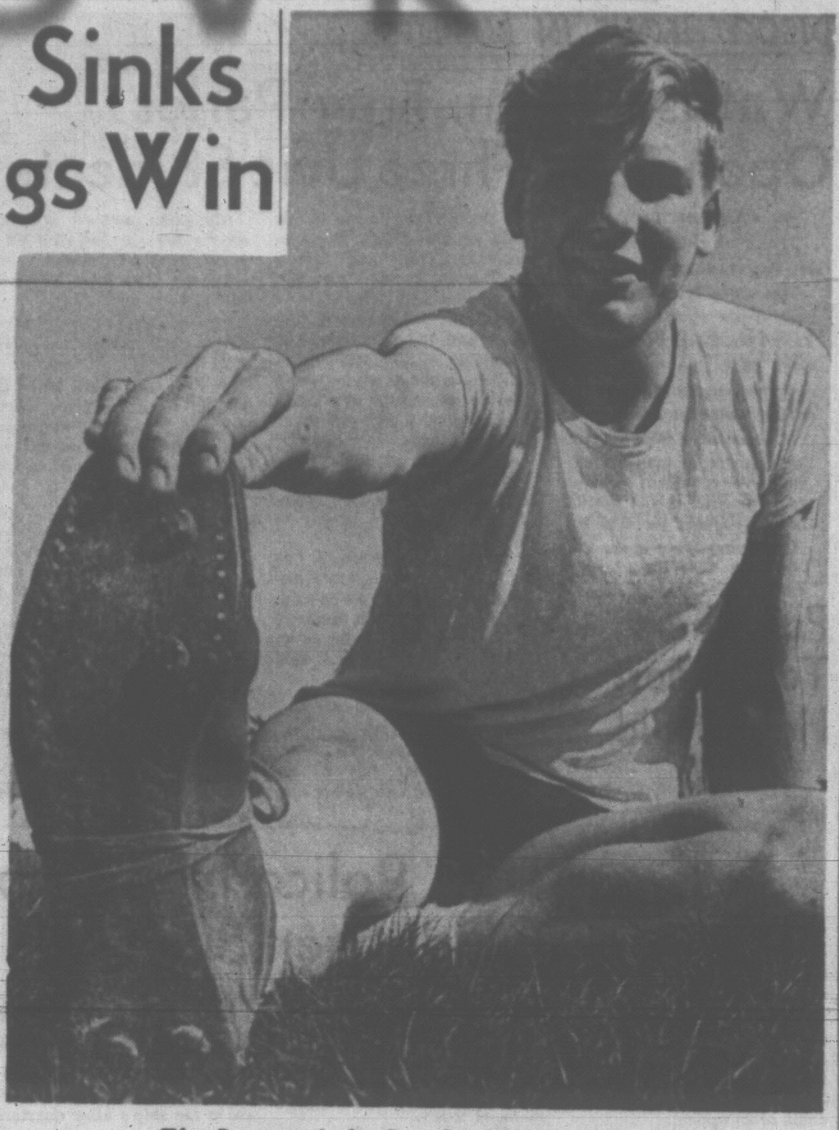
It was a day highlighted by low-scoring games, which started when Frank Heal and Frank Coates of the host club swapped blank ends before Heal wound up with a 4-2 win.

Victoria's Don Moss also won out in a battle of blanks as he nudged Dr. Grant MacDonald of Courtenay 3-1 and Eric Kakoske nipped Campbell River clubmate Don Perriman 3-1.



The Boot and the Boy Could Wreck Titans

Titans Must Sidestep Big Boot of Ron Sallas

Dave Price and Austin Cullen have two things in common.

Each has a team in tonight's Inter-High School Senior Rugby League final at Royal Athletic Park.

Each has a high respect for the booting ability of Ron Sallas, fullback.

* * *

Sallas belongs to Cullen's Hornets from Mount View. Price brings his Victoria High Titans in from the other side of the fence for tonight's battle for the Howard Russell Trophy.

Young Mr. Sallas will be sitting smack-dab in the middle when action starts at 7:30.

This is a fullback both Price and Cullen regard as "one of the finest kickers ever" to belt a rugby ball in local high school matches.

"Each game we've lost to Mount View this season was the result of Sallas' kicking," said Price. "He belts it a mile . . ."

* * *

Sallas sallies forth at a time when rugby officials consider an accurate drop-goal kicker a rarity.

"I have never seen a player in high school kick a drop-goal from over 30 yards," says Cullen. "Sallas did it twice in succession this year. One was from about 35 yards out."

So if the Vics get the boot put to them tonight, they'll know whose foot it fits.

Show of Power by Blades Brings Worries to 'Frisco

San Francisco Seals, still hoping to overtake Victoria Maple Leafs and grab the fourth Western Hockey League playoff berth, may not be feeling very hopeful today.

Seals, who host Seattle Totems tonight and then finish up their regular schedule with three tussles against Los Angeles Blades, may be running into more trouble than expected.

Blades flashed an abrupt reversal in form Thursday night on home ice and trimmed the second-place Totems 6-2. The show of power, coming after a five-game losing streak, could mean the Blades will wreck San Franciscos's hopes when the two clubs tangle.

Leafs, who have three games in hand and a one-point lead over the Seals, also swing into action tonight. The Victorians are in Vancouver to meet the Canucks, the team they could possibly edge out for third place.

Leafs, with three wins in five starts on their current road trip, return to Memorial Arena Saturday night for another tussle with the Canucks, who are ahead of Victoria by five points.

The games tonight and Saturday could just about decide whether or not the Leafs will have a chance to grab the third spot when the arch-rivals meet in their final two league games on March 27 and 28.

Leo LaBine and Willie O'Ree each scored three times to give the Blades their win over the Totems.

THREE-GOAL SPREES

O'Ree collected all three of his goals in the final period, getting his last red light at 12:05 and just missing on a fourth in the remaining minutes.

LaBine, a former National Hockey League star, picked up his three with one goal in each period.

Giants Lose Back, Gain Broadcaster

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Gifford, backfield star with the New York Giants for a dozen years, formally retired from pro football Thursday to become a full-time sports broadcaster.

Gifford will be the color man on Giant football television next fall and will continue his other radio and television activities.

British Ryder Cupper Shares Tourney Lead

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Gardner Dickinson, Jr., and Bernard Hunt got the best of bad weather and moved into the second round of the $57,500 Greater Jacksonville Open golf tournament with one-stroke leads.

Dickinson, of Macon, Ga., and Hunt, a British Ryder Cup veteran, survived winds that gusted to 30 miles an hour and three fierce rainstorms to card 34-34—68s Thursday.

Al Balding of Toronto shot a 74.

NO TIME FOR NOSTALGIA

EX-YANKEE HAS NO REGRETS

McDougald is in Cleanup Spot Now

By TOM TIEDE

NEW YORK (NEA)—Many athletes retire awkwardly. Like eating with new dentures it's physically desirable but otherwise not.

At an age when people in other professions are just getting into the fat parts of their careers, it's not easy to trade, say, baseballs for mothballs.

So last gasps are sighed. Footballers give it one more try . . . major names turn up on minor rosters . . . a boxer is wooed from the shelf for another payday . . . and in the spring more inactive than active baseballers hang around the training sites.

But not always. Witness Gilbert James McDougald, New York Yankee for 10 years, World Series regular for eight, Gil McDougald gave up over $40,000 a year after the 1960 season for a wife, four kids and a business. He was only 31. Some said at the time it was a mistake.

Five years later, McDougald has no regrets. He misses baseball "only when television is rotten." And in the business world Mac is cleaning up; the former infielder is a major partner in the Yankee Office Maintenance Co. near New York City.

Still a young man who could, conceivably, play nine innings today, McDougald is emphatically not particularly nostalgic at this time of the year: "I really don't miss baseball and certainly not spring practice. We worked twice as hard in Florida as we did during the regular schedule. Nobody remembers hard chores fondly."

"On the contrary. Casey was the best coach I ever saw, and especially in spring. He believed, as I do, that nobody can look into someone else's body and tell them how they feel. Casey largely let the players get into shape on their own, individual programs for individual situations.

"Now the trend seems to be toward regimentation. Regular calisthenics directed by specially hired personnel. I'm not saying it won't prove successful in the end but it may not work in every instance. Many players with bad backs, for instance, just don't appreciate touch-the-toe exercises."

Compensation for glitter lost are not hard to figure. He traded road trip hotel rooms for a five-bedroom custom home in an exclusive New Jersey section; he doesn't sign many autographs any more but kids flock around him anyway—four of his own and several others from orphanages for whom the McDougalds provide homes during holiday seasons. Finally, his .276 lifetime batting average (1,336 games) and assorted decimals and asterisks of sport have been usurped by equally satisfying numbers which appear in the plus columns of his successful business ledger.

No, McDougald doesn't miss baseball. Why should he?

And yet, who's to say?

This spring, tomorrow, next week, a New Jersey executive may automatically reach down to snare a fouled ball from a kids' sandlot game. And for a moment he may remember those two home runs in the 1958 World Series or that all-star berth in 1957.

With 60,000 Yankee Stadium cheers echoing in his memory, Gil McDougald, who broke into pro baseball at Victoria, B.C., may swallow hard and wonder just briefly, how the guys are getting along down in Florida.

GIL McDOUGALD . . . doesn't miss baseball

View for Brewers Too Tall for Fun

Alberni Thumps Montreal Club In First Game

ALBERNI — There are three things visiting basketball players see when they first visit this Vancouver Island community.

Tall trees, tall smokestacks, tall basketball players.

Montreal Brewers saw them all and sighed Thursday.

Against Alberni Athletics, the tallest team in the Canadian men's basketball championships, the Brewers had small hopes of success.

Their dreams materialized when the Athletics romped to an 86-70 victory in a first-round game.

Alberni and Winnipeg clash at 9 p.m. with the winner tackling the first game winner Saturday at 8:30 p.m.

Saturday's winner (still here?) meets the undefeated western team Sunday at 2:30 p.m. and must win twice to take the title. If the series is extended, the final game will be played Monday night.

Alberni rode a long way on a little, late help, if you can call Dave Way, six-six, and Pete Simmonds, six-five, little.

Bork Sharp Pitcher

One-two in the Intercity scoring race, Simmonds, from Victoria, rifled in 21 points and Way, from Vancouver, lofted in 25 for Alberni. Their contributions, plus 16 points from six-seven Neil Dirom, eight from six-six Don Krego and 14 from six-one Larry Lehtonen were more than Montreal could stand.

George Bork, rookied quarterback with Montreal Alouettes last year, pitched 29 points through the curtains, most of them from the deep corners. Alex Garrow added 18.

Montreal missed Canadian Olympic ace John McKibbon. The six-seven centre had to cancel out when his wife was taken to hospital for surgery just before the team left Montreal.

Cook Clicks for 37

Ahead only 43-36, Alberni pumped in 13 unanswered third quarter points and the "struggle" was over.

Alberni coach Elmer Speidel cleared his bench with the A's ahead 86-57 late in the game and Montreal came on strong, but late.

Hamilton ran into a snowstorm which delayed their departure from the east (they arrived only three hours before game time) and then ran into a Winnipeg forward who could do little wrong.

John Cook, like Way, a University of B.C. grad, pumped in 37 points against the befuddled Quigleys. Cook, deadly from close in, wheeled in 27 points in the second half.

Wayne Osborne, another UBC alumnus, dropped in 16 for the losers. But it was Cook who served the tastiest broth, the man Alberni must sit on tonight if it hopes to regain the championship it last held in 1955.

BATTER FELLS UMPIRE

Guys at St. Thomas Take Game Seriously

BRENHAM, Texas (UPI)—Paul Timmins has learned that the fellows at St. Thomas University of Houston take their baseball seriously.

Timmins, a standout on this season's Texas A&M basketball team, was umpiring a game between St. Thomas and Blinn Junior College Thursday.

It was the bottom of the ninth and St. Thomas' Ewell Jackson was at the plate. Jackson's team trailed 9-6 and there were two out.

* * *

Timmins called a second strike against Jackson and a heated argument ensued. When things calmed down, Jackson stepped up to the plate and proceeded to let another pitch go by. "Strike three," yelled Timmins, ending the game.

It was too much for Jackson. He turned, raised his bat and hit Timmins on the head.

* * *

He was reported in fair condition, although doctors said he had a possible skull fracture.

Charges were pending against Jackson. "We are waiting to determine the full extent of Timmins' injuries," said Assistant Police Chief Raymond Krause.

RAP HAMILTON

B.C. Cagettes In First Place

EDMONTON (CP)—Vancouver Hoopsters gained sole possession of first place in the 1965 Canadian Women's Senior A basketball championships Thursday night by the simple method of watching their two major opponents lose games.

Hoopsters rapped Hamilton Tigers 53-34 for their second victory in as many starts, then Hamilton topped Edmonton Jasperettes 44-39 to leave Hamilton and Edmonton with identical 2-1 records.

Edmonton went into overtime to nip Winnipeg Flames 46-42 and Winnipeg clipped Lethbridge 54-34 in the other Thursday games. The five-team round-robin competition winds up Saturday.

After the second day of play, Winnipeg had one win and two losses and Lethbridge was winless in three starts.

Lethbridge faces Vancouver, Hamilton meets Winnipeg and Edmonton tests Vancouver tonight.

An Edmonton triumph over Vancouver in the final game could conceivably throw the teams into a three-way deadlock for Saturday's closing round.

Hamilton managed only nine points in the last half.

Vancouver was led by Mary MacDonald with 11 points. Linda Kaser contributed 10 points, playing-coach Darlene Currie nine and Bev Latrace eight before she was fouled out.

HOOP SCORES AT ALBERNI

TEE TOPICS

By Ernie Fedoruk

Professional golfers often are prone to run into hazards other than sand-traps. Like people and weather, f'rinstance.

When a group of Caribbean-bound pros were tagging their luggage, they were advised about seven weeks ago to "stick close to your hotels" in such places as Bogota, Maracaibo and Caracas.

BILL WAKEHAM

"If you want to get out, never go alone. And don't ever stray too far," the postcript read.

It is standard advice because some South Americans, in recent years, have been known to display tempers that match their country's temperatures. Mostly hot.

"Extremists had bombed some building while we were in Caracas," was the way Wakeham started to tell his story. "Police set up roadblocks, and it was at one of these that a jeep carrying four members of the U.S. Peace Corps was stopped.

"They said they were with the Peace Corps . . . And they were wearing their uniforms, but they were ordered out of the jeep. The two in the front seat put their hands on their heads and got out.

"As soon as they stepped out, the policeman shot down both of them. One was killed and the other was in pretty bad shape when we left Caracas.

"The way it came out in the papers, the cop said he didn't know . . ."

★ ★ ★

Extremists and trigger-happy gendarmes never showed up at the golf courses, but the heat did. This, Bill feels, was the big reason for his disappointing swing through the Caribbean.

Wakeham averaged 75-76 strokes a round for the five tournaments. His best showing was 72-71-74-76—293 at Bogota. He missed the money by two strokes.

He acquired a severe sunburn when the tour opened in Panama, and during the final 10 days on the trail he suffered from dysentry, stomach cramps and heat blisters on his lips.

Wakeham admits he was greatly disappointed with his showing, but he's far from discouraged.

"The most upsetting thing about it all is that I know I can play better.

"I tried too hard to make good, and that was a mistake. The only way to go on tour is to play your usual game. I struggled with myself. I didn't hit the ball as badly as I scored, and that bothered me. I also putted poorly. In Maracaibo, for example, I hit 16 greens in one round and wound up with a 77!"

"You can't press. You have to play your ordinary game. You have to play it hole by hole, rather than think ahead and out-smart yourself. You can't be thinking about getting a birdie on the 12th when you're playing the seventh.

"I learned I wasn't strong enough, physically. You definitely have to be in top physical shape.

★ ★ ★

"Look at Bobby Panasiuk (of Windsor). He's as strong as an ox and he wasn't sick at any time during the tour. He was one of the lucky ones . . .

"Art Wall didn't make it all the way either. He got those heat blisters on his lips, the same as I did.

"If the chance comes up again, I'd hesitate about making that tour again. It's too much of a change. I'd rather play the Northwest tournaments and across Canada."

Wakeham, who returned this week, is now hunting for an assistant's job. He has some irons in the fire, but would prefer to remain in or around Victoria for the time being.

. . . And, almost certain, away from the Caribbean.

Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association has named its "A" rifle team for the first Vancouver Island Shooting League match of the season.

In a classification shoot, Carmichael was the over-all winner, Foulser topped the expert class and McDougall paced the sharpshooter class.

Lawson Captures Winter Cup Event

Joan Lawson, carding a 54-hole total of 246, captured the Winter Cup competition for ladies of the Uplands Golf Club.

Mrs. Carl Locatelli, with a 225, was the low net winner. Mrs. F. Briggs (gross 286) and Mrs. M. Worth (net 230) topped the "B" cup players.

Mrs. J. Edmison edged Mrs. F. Bett in a hidden-hole competition this week.

Toronto Grid Post Spurned by Hardin

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Wayne Hardin, former Navy football coach, said Thursday he had declined an offer to coach the Toronto team in the new professional Continental Football League.

Stuart's Big Bat Matches Noise Made by His Larynx

(From UPI Reports)

Dick Stuart's new Philadelphia Philly teammates are beginning to think the big slugger is almost as good as he says he is.

But underneath the easy familiarity of spring training is the mutual understanding that the Phillies are expecting the six-foot three-inch, 220-pound slugger to hit between 30 and 40 homers and drive in 100 runs this year. Stuart was acquired from the Boston Red Sox to rectify the lack of right-handed power hitting that was a principal cause of the Phillies' 1964 National League pennant defeat.

And so there was good news, indeed, at the Phillies' Clearwater, Fla., camp Thursday when Stuart made some noise with his bat as well as his larynx, in a 6-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers. Stuart hit a three-run homer off Glen Hobbie in the sixth inning to help the Phillies tie the score and then hit his second homer of the game in the 12th to give Philadelphia its third straight victory.

LONG BLAST

Stuart's first homer was a king-sized shot that sailed over the 35-foot high centrefield wall. It was only the seventh ball hit over the barrier in 11 years.

Three key pitchers—Bob Veale, Bob Friend and Elroy Face—starred for the Pittsburgh Pirates, who downed the Kansas City Athletics 7-1 for their fifth win in six exhibition games. Jerry Lynch and Orlando McFarlane drove in two runs each for the Pirates.

The Red Sox beat the Cleveland Indians 7-3, Chicago White Sox topped New York Yankees 6-5, Los Angeles Angels nipped San Francisco Giants 8-7, Los Angeles Dodgers routed Washington Senators 13-5, Houston Astros defeated New York Mets 7-4, Cincinnati Reds beat St. Louis Cardinals 4-1, and Minnesota Twins scored a 9-8 10-inning victory over Milwaukee Braves in other games.

Vets in Starting Roles For Clash With Royals

Victoria United veterans will come bouncing off the bench for Saturday's important Pacific Coast Soccer League meeting with New Westminster Royals.

Injuries brought fullback Len Anderson and halfback Harold Holroyd off the sidelines last week and both reserves responded with brilliant efforts although Victoria dropped a 2-1 Anderson Cup decision to Columbus.

Holroyd will start at right half in place of George Paul, sidelined with an ankle injury and regarded as a "very doubtful starter" for Saturday's game.

DOUBTFUL STARTER

Inside Ash Valdal suffered facial injuries in last week's game and is a doubtful starter pending the outcome of examinations today.

The league match could go a long way in settling United's playoff hopes. Grealy's gang stands three points ahead of the Royals and Columbus.

If United wins, the team will be resting in a very comfortable position. If the locals lose, the playoff scramble will again develop into a wide-open affair.

Anderson Cup games in Vancouver's Callister Park will round out the weekend's PCSL fare. Canadians face UBC Thunderbirds on Saturday while Firefighters and North Shore meet in a semifinal battle Sunday.

CUP SEMIFINALS

Three important games account for all District League activity on Sunday. First division teams will engage in Price Cup semifinals while Esquimalt and Oak Bay Marina open their best-of-three promotion-relegation series.

Esquimalt finished last in the first division and must beat the Mariners, top-place finishers in the second division, in order stick with the elite eight. The Marina-Esquimalt game will be played at Topaz Avenue Park.

Kickers will face Price and Smith at Heywood Avenue Park and Victoria West meets Canadian Scottish on the Central Park pitch in Sunday's Price Cup games.

All matches start at 2 p.m.

U.S. Skip Rated Best; Ruins Canada in Final

PERTH, Scotland (CP) — Superb curling by the United States rink Thursday night ended Canada's domination of world curling when the Americans defeated Canada 9-6 in a hair-raising final at the international curling championship at the Perth ice rink.

Raymond (Bud) Summerville of Wisconsin, chosen as the best skip in the six-country championship continually pulled his mates out of trouble in the early ends with brilliant shots.

After a Canada come-back in the middle ends, he then got strong support from his mates to stave off the Canadian challenge.

"Summerville cut us out of 11 shots with his last stone in the first six ends," said Terry Braunstein of Winnipeg, 25-year-old skip of the Canadian entry.

"We had two or three good chances to build ends even at that, but I missed big shots when we needed them."

WINNERS SHED TEARS

The U.S. players, averaging 25 years of age and the youngest to take part in the seven years of international curling, broke down in tears at the end.

The Norwegian and Swedish rinks carried them out of the arena in an example of international good will.

Turning point in the game was the sixth end when the U.S. broke a 3-3 tie by stealing two points. With the U.S. lying two, Summerville hogged his last shots in trying for a guard and Braunstein missed his chance to save the end when he wrecked on a front guard.

Shaken by the result, Canada gave up singles in the seventh and eighth to allow the U.S. to take a 7-3 lead. They got a pair back in the ninth and another in the 10th but then gave up singles in the last two ends.

BIG CHANCE

In the eighth, Canada had a chance for a four end when, with nine shots in the house and Canada counting one, Braunstein tried to chip out a U.S. second shot. Braunstein was wide of the broom and nudged his own shot rock out and left the Wisconsin team counting one.

For the U.S., it was their first appearance in the finals of the international event and their victory broke the stranglehold Canada had held since Ernie Richardson won the first title in 1959.

Canada's come-from-behind effort and the superb play of the U.S. team convinced a skeptical crowd of 1,300 that the style of play introduced by the Canadians into international competition can be both pleasing and effective.

After Canada fell behind, Braunstein was forced to change from a hitting game to a draw game and, with both teams making their shots with ease, it drew appreciative cheers.

CONSERVATION CHAMPION

TORONTO (CP) — Douglas Sadler of the Peterborough Examiner has won the Frank Kortright Award for outstanding contributions to wildlife conservation through writing.

HOLE-IN-ONE HELPS SAILOR SHARE AWARD

HMCS Naden swingers won team honors Thursday in the inter-ship tournament of the Royal Canadian Navy Golf Association at Gorge Vale, but sailors from HMCA Oriole were also warbling a happy tune.

One of their mates, Jarv DeBoice, spiced the tourney by scoring his first hole-in-one. DeBoice, who cracked his one-shotter on the 182-yard second hole, finished in a tie with John Hall for low-net laurels with a net 70.

Bill Big Canoe fired a 78 to take the low-gross award.

EIGHT FROM B.C.

Six-Day Test Gets Entry From Comox

At least eight B.C. cars, including a driver-navigator team from Comox, plan to start in the 1965 Trans-Canada 4,000-mile rally.

The six-day driving and endurance test will start in Montreal April 24 and wind up in Vancouver.

Joining the international field of rallyists were John Balfour and Doug Fraser, a privately-entered Comox team scheduled to make the grind in a Porsche 356A.

Other B.C. teams entered are John Bailey and Fred Attaway of Trail, Ken Dufault and Allen Robinson of North Surrey, Joachim Schmidt and Kazimir Golal of Richmond, Pete Spreadbury and Derrick De Lisser of Kitimat, Alice Bourquin and Martin Griffin of Vancouver, New Westminster's Don Lamon and navigator Tom Hamilton of Campbell River, and Diana and Mike Alexander of Vancouver.

Golden Bears Batter Birds

VANCOUVER (CP) — University of California Golden Bears hammered the University of British Columbia 18-3 Thursday afternoon to win the world cup rugby series.

Dan Sinclair contributed nine points for the Bears, who in earlier games played in California hammered the Thunderbirds 18-3 and 13-3.

The world cup series games have been played since 1921—when the trophy was presented by the now-defunct Vancouver World newspaper. It connotes no global title.

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Persons who loitered around state colleges and universities could be jailed up to six months or fined $500 under a bill passed 47-2 Thursday by the state senate and sent to the House of Representatives.

Solid Capsule Movement Passes Pipeline Test

EDMONTON (CP)—The first full-scale movement of a solid capsule by pipeline has been successful, Alberta Research Council offciials said today.

The test was made by inserting a 514-pound steel capsule into a 20-inch crude oil pipeline of the Interprovincial Pipe Line Company between Edmonton and Hardisty, Alta., a distance of 109 miles.

The council has been working on the project for five years.

Dr. G. W. Hodgson, in charge of last week's test, said the method could be used to ship such materials as grain, sulphur and potash across Canada. He said solids in pipelines could be particularly valuable in the north, where other transport is often hampered by severe weather.

Dr. Hodgson described the test as "highly significant." But he said pipeline solids transport is still a "long way" from commercial application.

The capsule was inserted into the pipeline at the Edmonton pumping station, and moved through the line with the regular flow of oil.

Its 56-hour journey was checked at more than 50 points, where geiger counters and geophones tracked the capsule's radioactive isotope tracer.

A report on the test is to be presented to the annual meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy in Toronto March 30.

The research council says it hopes to build a 10-inch pipeline in Edmonton next year for further research.

The research program is being backed by grants of $50,000 each from 18 major companies. The pilot pipeline is expected to cost about $5,000,000.

REGINA (CP) — The appointment of an ombudsman will not be undertaken in Saskatchewan this year.

Nuns, Priests Criticized For Marches

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The leader of the Mobile-Birmingham Catholic diocese has criticized Roman Catholic nuns and priests who have come to Selma to participate in civil rights demonstrations.

"I do not believe priests are equipped to lead groups in disobedience to the laws of this state, Most Rev. Thomas J. Toolen, archbishop of the Mobile-Birmingham diocese, said Wednesday night. He added that a "great injustice is being done to the state of Alabama."

Toolen told a St. Patrick's Day banquet he has sought to promote "just and equitable" treatment for Negroes and has made special efforts to help them.

But he said "many who condemn us do not realize the real obstacles we are facing in our state."

He said the nuns and priests have not asked permission to participate in the demonstrations.

"It is customary to ask permission in such cases," he added. "What do they know about conditions in the south? I am afraid they are only eager beavers who feel there is a holy cause."

The archbishop said he has instructed Selma priests and nuns not to participate in the demonstrations. He also contended that Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. is "hurting the cause of the Negro rather than helping it."

Japan's Bid For Export Hike Snagged

TOKYO (Reuters)—Japan has met a stiff Canadian attitude in current trade negotiations in Ottawa whereby Japan wants to enlarge its self-imposed export quotas, Japanese government officials said today.

They said they expect the talks to last longer than anticipated.

The officials said Japan asked Canada for an increase in the quotas at the talks, which began in Ottawa last December, but the Japanese government recently received a counter-proposal from Ottawa proposing the proposed larger quotas. Restrictions on exports of six items now are covered by the bilateral trade agreement—textiles including wool textiles, metalware, transistor radios, vacuum tubes, buttons, and rubber-sole shoes.

Textiles last year accounted for more than 25 per cent of Japan's total exports to Canada, amounting to $140,000,000.

How would they like Canada's Gold Keg Beer?

Operation Gold Keg!

At London Airport we unloaded a cargo of Gold Keg Beer. Next stop: London's pubs.

Gold Keg Beer has become remarkably popular in B.C., and we should be happy about it.

But, being human, we've always wondered how it would stand up in a British pub, crowded with beer-drinking Englishmen.

So we airlifted a cargo of Gold Keg to England, and we're going to find out once and for all.

We're going to test it on the world's toughest critics. Englishmen.

Will they like Gold Keg's deep, mellow, good flavour?

Will they like its dark, inviting colour? And its delightful bouquet?

Will they think it's as good as the best English beers?

SOME GROW THEIR OWN

Manitoba U Has Marijuana Users

WINNIPEG (CP) — University of Manitoba students form the bulk of a group of marijuana users here, the campus newspaper said Thursday.

A story by arts student David Springbett in the Manitoban said he talked with the group of eight young men last week.

They told him they grew and smoked marijuana. The drug can be made from Indian hemp, a plant native to some parts of Manitoba.

"Last year we grew about 20 plants," one user said. "As they grow you just clip the tops off, and they grow right back.

"I'd guess we went through about $3,000 worth if we'd bought it on the open market," he said. The going rate is said to be $5 an ounce.

The users told the Manitoban reporter marijuana is not habit-forming, so addiction is not a hazard. Neither does it produce drunkenness or a hangover as alcohol does.

One user said the intoxicating effect of the drug produced "probably the greatest sensation I've ever experienced."

Dr. H. H. Saunderson, the university president, said the administration will take no action until more concrete information is available.

"If this is true, it is a very unfortunate situation for the students and their families," he said. "Young people get into this because they think it's the smart thing to do.

"They don't really appreciate the consequences, and they don't think they will get caught." They are violating the federal drug act and as citizens must take the consequences.

Morality Inspector Jack Webster of Winnipeg city police said only a few cases of marijuana use had been reported here in the past 25 years. Maximum penalty for a user is seven years.

Commenting on his story, Mr. Springbett said the students told him they hold marijuana parties, but only infrequently.

"Marijuana smoking is a sociable thing," he said. "They always do it together."

Michael Moore, the Manitoban editor, said: "As far as we know, the story is reliable. We have the information directly from the students."

Ship's Cook Cites Speed In Law Suit

A Nanaimo cook is suing a Nanaimo cafe proprietor in Victoria Supreme Court, claiming unspecified damages for severe injuries sustained when he was knocked down by a motor car.

Donald William Stocks of 123 Haliburton Street, Nanaimo, said he was struck by a car owned and driven by Yuen Hing Mah of 200 View Street at about 12:30 a.m. on Feb. 22, 1964.

The accident occurred on Haliburton Street near the Balmoral Hotel.

Mr. Stocks' counsel, Frank Hutchinson of Nanaimo, said he sustained severely comminuted fracture of both sides of the pelvis, suffered intense pain, severe shock and abrasions, and later developed a clot of blood on the lung.

His injuries required treatment in Nanaimo General Hospital from Feb. 22 to May 5, 1964, and he was unable ot return to his normal employment as cook with Canadian National Steamships for the whole of that summer.

CAN'T LIFT

Mr. Stocks returned to his employment on May 20, counsel said, but because of his injuries was still unable to lift heavy objects.

He claimed that Mr. Yuen Hing Mah failed to keep a proper lookout while driving his car; drove at an excessive speed and with defective or inadequate headlights.

"The circumstances indicate that he failed to take reasonable and proper steps to avoid an accident," Mr. Hutchinson said.

He asked Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton to award general damages, at his discretion, and special damages to include medical and hospital expenses.

Yuen Hing Mah is defended by J. P. Van der Hoop. The defence is that Mr. Stocks could have avoided the accident by exercising "reasonable care" in crossing the street.

RIOT POLICE STOP MARCH

CAIRO, U.A.R. (UPI)—Hundreds of Cairo University students marched on the West German and Tunisian embassies Thursday but they turned back when they came face-to-face with riot police armed with clubs and shields.

The students were protesting West Germany's plan to recognize Israel and Tunisian president Habib Bourguiba's opposition to the Arab nations' decision to take retaliatory measures against the Bonn government.

There's more than just the latest additive in

Chevron Gasolines

When it comes to additives, Chevron Gasolines have an unsurpassed record.

In 1960 (to take just one example) Chevron led the whole industry by introducing Methyl—the biggest break-through in anti-knock additives since Ethyl, 36 years earlier.

Meanwhile, the efficiency of Chevron Gasolines had been increasing in many other ways over the years. A special additive was developed to banish carburetor-icing. Chevron's famous Detergent-Action formula was perfected to keep your carburetor as clean as the day it was installed. Advances in refining processes assured the best possible octane values for new and older engines alike.

Today, Chevron Gasolines are in a class by themselves because of the compound progress constantly made towards ultimate perfection. They contain not just the latest additive. They represent the sum total of every element known to date that goes to make a truly superb gasoline—tested and proven for over a generation in the only place where it matters: the engine of your car.

Compound progress adds up to COMPOUND POWER. And with COMPOUND POWER the miles cost you less. Drive into your nearest Standard Station or Chevron Dealer this week and try a tankful for yourself....

MOUNTIES PICK HOLES IN SELLER'S PUNCH LINE

By DON DINGWALL

DUNCAN—Stationer David Stott was determined to sell the customer a paper punch.

To add weight to his sales talk he gave a working demonstration on the first thing he could lay hands on.

Unfortunately it was a $2 bill.

The bill, with three neat holes drilled through it, ended up in the hands of local RCMP officers.

Immediately investigations began to trace the bill's history.

After interviewing several past owners they ended up at Mr. Stott's store on Craig Street, The Letter Box.

A red-faced Mr. Stott admitted he was the culprit.

According to police records he was "severely chastised." He also had to forfeit an unpunched $2 bill.

Three holes through a note is the bank's official way of showing bills are no longer in circulation.

Only a few months ago Vancouver bandits stole several thousand dollars worth of such notes.

Smelter Proposal Pushed by Bruch

A breakwater for Port Renfrew and a copper smelter for southern Vancouver Island were urged in the legislature Thursday by Herbert Bruch (SC—Esquimalt).

He said the province should ask the federal government to take action on a breakwater to permit ship loading in the area of iron ore deposits.

He said if a copper smelter could be located in this area it would give impetus to development of large deposits of low-grade copper in his riding.

He said that although nothing had developed in the quest for a smelter, despite a government offer of a bounty, he predicted there would be a new copper smelter in B.C. in the next few years.

However, he thought it would likely be located in northern B.C. where the largest ore deposits exist.

Double-Barrelled Project

The $475,000 project would provide a multi-purpose senior citizens recreation centre and an indoor community swimming pool.

Offering to help with the project were Alberni Valley Chamber of Commerce, Port Alberni District Labor Council, Alberni district school board and the district old age pensioners asociation.

Alberni Valley centennial committee has asked city council to allow a vote May 10 on a $356,000 money bylaw so construction can start on the projects around Nov. 1.

Federal and provincial grants are expected to cover an estimated $119,000.

Whaler Checks On Potential

VANCOUVER (CP)—The west coast whaling season is due to open April 1 but already one of the whaling fleet is at sea on a whale-tagging mission in the intests of fisheries scientists.

The whaler Westwhale 4 is one of five vessels of the fleet which will operate this year for Western Canada Whaling Company Ltd., a joint enterprise of B.C. Packers Ltd. and Japanese fishing interests.

She has been chartered by the federal department of fisheries to make a study of the potential whale catch this year.

Nigerians Pepper Ex-Duncan Man With Questions About Canada

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

And, as he spoke, an interpreter stood beside him and translated the sermon, sentence by sentence, into the Yoruba tongue.

"It was a remarkable experience," said Mr. Routley, who is now assistant minister at the Chinese Pentecostal Church in Victoria.

"I was asked to preach at the Pentecostal Church of Christ in Lagos and I was the only white person in the congregation.

"Afterwards the Nigerians gathered round me and asked all kinds of questions about life in Canada."

Mr. Routley went to Lagos to visit his daughter, Willa, who is married to Art Alade, a Nigerian TV producer. He was accompanied on the three-week trip by his 16-year-old son, William.

PEACEFUL

"Life in Nigeria is peaceful compared with other parts of Africa," he said, "but there are extremes of wealth and poverty. You see beautiful homes in some areas, and in others mud huts and compounds.

"An average wage for a working man is about $45 a month and a house boy may earn no more than $12 a month."

Mr. Routley revealed, however, that Nigerians are playing an increasingly active part in the public and private services of their country and are training in large numbers as doctors, dentists and lawyers.

"The educational system is very progressive," he said. "It has produced thousands of college graduates, and the present school population is more than 3,000,000."

Merger Foe To Seek Reeveship

If successful, he will head the very district he has tried to split up.

A Willow Point garage owner, he became eligible to stand for office after the amalgamation in December of Willow Point and Campbell River.

Since that time Mr. Forde has fought a running battle with Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell who pushed for the merger.

LEE TO RUN

His opponent in the election April 3 will be Reeve Jack Lee.

Mr. Forde said three other Willow Point residents will seek election to the six-member council.

Nominations close at noon Monday.

A bill to validate formation of the new municipality, so strongly opposed by Mr. Forde's Citizens' Rights Organization, is expected to meet opposition from the NDP when it comes before the legislature in the few days.

Bi and Bi Expenses Reach $1.4 Million

TOP MEN TO CHECK ISLANDS

DUNCAN—While work on a curb and gutter project on the Trans-Canada Highway within the city continues rapidly, highways officials promised Thursday to investigate local complaints.

Dudley Godfrey, chief highways engineer, and Fraser McLean, assistant deputy minister, will visit Duncan to examine complaints about proposed traffic islands.

Their visit will be in response to a delegation of Duncan businessmen headed by Mayor Jack Dobson.

These businessmen have premises facing the highway and claim traffic islands will impede customers' access.

Sewer Vote On Saturday At Ladysmith

LADYSMITH — Voters here will go to the polls Saturday to decide the fate of a $550,000 sewer system.

If taxpayers say "yes" then septic tanks in the area will become a thing of the past.

At present nearly half the 3,500 residents are served by septic tanks.

The proposed sewer system, designed to serve a community three times the present size of Ladysmith, will take about 10 months to complete.

Drought In S. Africa

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—One of the worst droughts of the century is posing a serious threat to the livelihood of many South African farmers. Crops have been almost totally destroyed and grazing for livestock is reported to be extremely poor. Water has been scarce for six consecutive years in the northern provinces.

The Unhappy Warrior

He Lets Crisis Start Then Flies to Rescue

By PETER C. NEWMAN

If you look closely at the dozen or so major new laws which Lester Pearson has added to Canada's statute books during the past two years, the most striking fact about them is this: few if any of his government's legislative measures resemble the original proposals on which they were based.

Pearson's habit of allowing events to alter positions to which he seemed firmly committed has left him open to the charge that, lacking the temperament to be a political fanatic, he is something very nearly as unsettling—an amateur in politics.

The Pearson method of government seems to consist of engaging the nation in a horrendous rescue operation, made necessary by the Liberal leader's precipitous tackling of hitherto insoluble national problems. His own political fumbling raises national frustration to such a peak that public opinion finally solidifies behind Pearson in order to help him find some way out of his self-generated crisis. Almost as a side-effect, the great national issue which Pearson courageously confronted in the first place, is reduced to reconcilable proportions—although the end result is far removed from the solution originally offered.

Constant Crisis

An atmosphere of unrelieved crisis seems to be an integral part of the Pearson approach to government. "Mike is happiest when he's clinging to a precipice and just about to fall off," the late Grant Dexter, one of the most perceptive reporters ever to cover the Ottawa scene and a close friend of Pearson's, once remarked.

Pearson certainly is at his best in moments of high crisis, when his diplomatic training allows him to under-react to the torrent of events threatening to engulf him. Just at the point when he is faced by total defeat, his characteristic shilly-shallying is replaced by a grinding decisiveness. "The real statesman," according to Jack Pickersgill, who very much admires this trait in Pearson, is the politician who can stand the pressure patiently and allow a crisis to develop until a solution has to be found, then exercise the capacity to find it."

Pickersgill cites as an example the sudden accord Pearson reached with Jean Lesage over a national pension plan during five crucial days of secret negotiation between Quebec City and Ottawa in April of 1964, when Confederation seemed in real danger of splitting apart. "This was an absolute master stroke," Pickersgill says. "And yet it couldn't have been done a week sooner. Pearson saw the moment for action had come and he went ahead just before the position of either side became irrevocably set."

Sudden Reversal

Pearson's sudden reversal of his policy on nuclear warheads just before the 1963 election campaign, his tactics in the flag debate, his compromise on the municipal loan fund, and the way he handled Quebec's objections to student loans and the extension of family allowances—these are other examples of the method's effectiveness.

The Pearson approach to government is deeply rooted in his diplomatic training. He once defined diplomacy to a friend as "letting someone else have your way." Both the heightened crisis atmosphere and the inconstancy of basic objectives seem essential to the achievement of this stratagem.

"The purpose of all diplomatic negotiation should be to reach agreement," he has said. "That normally requires some adjustment of position on both sides."

This was certainly a respectable—even essential—posture for a middle-power diplomat during the eventful decade when Perason served as Canada's distinguished Secretary of State for External Affairs. His "honest broker" approach was effective in helping to bring disputing nations together, because the disputants were always aware that neither Pearson nor Canada has a vested interest in the outcome of negotiations—beyond that of removing the world a little further from the prospect of war. His method worked because Pearson's task was not to defend any position of his own, but merely to subtract enough from the convictions of each of the disputing parties to achieve a compromise settlement.

Various Points

But in his present position as Prime Minister of Canada, Pearson is by definition no longer a neutral outsider, but leader of one of the sides involved in any domestic quarrel. Yet he is still attempting to reconcile the various points of view involved by reducing them to a weak mixture of attitudes which he can support. In the process, he has often compromised his own and the federal government's position on vital issues.

While it has achieved some spectacular results, this method is hardly one which can be repeated very often. Each time, it is applied, Pearson's political position is diminished in the process. No politician can constantly keep demanding that the voters come to his rescue and lend their backing to the national salvage operation on which Pearson's "compromise through crisis" technique depends.

At the same time, no politician can long maintain credibility in his own principles if on every occasion, the compromise he achieves differs drastically from the position to which he was originally committed.

Really Counts

Still, it's doubtful whether Pearson can, or even wants to alter his technique. According to his personal interpretation of history, what really counts is not the momentary flaws in a prime minister's performance but the residual impression he can achieve.

"We're not playing a defensive game in this government," Pearson has said, using one of his favorite hockey analogies. "If you play a defensive game, you're not likely to get so many penalties, but you're certainly not going to score any goals. I think we've scored some goals."

Quebec has been the source of Lester Pearson's most lasting success and most agonizing humiliation. Tomorrow's installment in this series will trace the evolution of the prime minister's relationship with the shady elements of French-Canadian politics.

Mac-Powell Planning Another Price Cut?

TORONTO (CP)—A study by the investment firm of R. A. Daly says MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Co. Ltd. may be considering another cut in the price of newsprint or a shuffle of traditional markets to try to gain new advantages.

MacMillan reduced the North American price of its newsprint $10 a ton to $124 last November. Other west-coast producers followed suit, but the reduction has been opposed in eastern Canada.

B.C. Gas Price Low in Oakland

By JIM HUME

In Vancouver, B.C., householders pay $14.07 per 100 therms.

NDP leader Robert Strachan wants to know why there should be such a difference in prices. He also wants the provincial government to do something about it.

Thursday night in the legislature he asked that the entire rate structure be examined.

"In the Okanagan they pay $15.40 per 100 therms," he said. "In Vancouver $14.07, in Bellingham $12.81, in Seattle $11.90, and further south, in Oakland $7.29.

"If B.C. wants to sell more gas to these people then it must meet these prices. No wonder we can't get industries that use a great amount of natural gas, to locate here."

Mr. Strachan said that in Edmonton citizens paid only $5.80 per 100 therms, in Jasper $8.40, and in Montreal, roughly 3,000 miles from the gas fields, $13.90, still 17 cents per 100 therms lower than Vancouver."

He asked Mines Minister Donald Brothers "what are you going to do about this?"

GAS PRICES

The minister answered that gas prices were not his particular problem.

"Prices are not within my portfolio," he said. "But I agree that the cheaper we can sell the gas the more industry we shall get.

"I am all for a reduction of the prices," he added. "But it should be realized that the first gas always costs more money. The more gas we get in the pipes, the cheaper the rate will be. It is critical that we get the United States market."

Later this month B.C. will attempt to persuade the National Energy Board to deny a bid by the Alberta and Southern Gas Company to export more gas from Alberta to California markets.

But Mr. Strachan said he could not see any point in B.C. selling gas to the United States at existing low prices "until the situation had been rectified at home."

Dear Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am still in deep mourning but I must write this letter. Perhaps I can spare some other wife the grief I am now suffering.

George and I were married 32 years. We had a good life together, we produced fine children and we were given lovely grandchildren. George owned a successful business and made good investments. He paid all the bills and gave me a cash allowance every two weeks. If I needed more money he gave it to me. George never talked to me about finances and I never asked him any questions.

Two weeks ago George had a cerebral hemorrhage in his office. He was unconscious when they brought him to the hospital. He died three days later.

George's lawyer is a stranger to me. I must take his word for everything. George's will was 10 years old. For a smart man he left things in a terrible mess. He had stocks and bonds in vaults out of town, according to his former business partner, and now we are trying to find them.

So I'd like to say to you women, don't let your husband "protect" you as mine did. Sit down with him and be realistic. Ask him, "If you died tomorrow, would your affairs be in the shape you want them to be in?" I wish I had.—DAFFODIL

Dear Daffodil: Reading your letter could be the most important thing thousands of women did today. Thank you for writing it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO INCENSED:

London Life repeats the question:

"If you died tomorrow, would your affairs be in the shape you want them to be in?"

Would your wife know where to find important papers? Would she have an adequate income? Would she know where to turn for advice? If you're not sure, read on. London Life explains the steps you should take:

PERHAPS THE FIRST step is to turn off the television set for an evening. Sit down with your wife and talk—not about a bigger TV set or a new car, but about the future of your family.

Talk about your plans for retirement. Have you started a savings fund? What monthly income will you have at age 65?

Talk about your plans for educating the children. Are you setting money aside? Will you have enough?

Talk about your family's future if you should die. Do you have enough life insurance? Would your wife have to go out and work?

Try to build a long-range financial plan for your family. If you already have one, analyze it for weak points. Decide how you can correct them.

Talk to the specialists

Few men have the time or talent to do their own financial planning. That's why we have specialists—lawyers, life insurance representatives, trust officers, bankers. Seek them out.

Talk to a lawyer about wills. You and your wife should have a will. This guarantees that your money goes where you want it to go. Your lawyer can advise you on types of wills and ways of minimizing succession duties.

Your wife should have a will just in case you both die in an accident. Include plans for guardianship of the children and the management of money which they would inherit. Remember—your lawyer is a specialist.

Talk to a life insurance representative. Your life insurance program should give your family a regular income if you die. How much they would need depends on the size of your family, the size of your mortgage (if you have one) and your wife's ability to work.

A good life insurance representative will help you work out the details. He will recommend a plan tailored to your family's needs.

(NOTE: A London Life representative will show you how a Jubilee policy that protects your family, will also build a savings fund for retirement. In fact, if you buy when you are young, you can double your money before age 65.)

Talk to a banker, trust officer or investment dealer. Don't attempt to get rich overnight on the basis of office gossip or "confidential" tips. Talk to a man who knows the investment field. Explain your present situation and savings objectives. He has the training and experience to give sound advice.

Clean out the drawers

When you have taken care of wills, life insurance, investments and so on, put all the important papers where they will be safe and accessible. London Life recommends two places:

(1) Safety deposit box. It should hold your deeds to property, certificates for stocks and bonds, and valuable personal papers.

(2) Private papers box at home. This should hold everything your wife needs in an emergency. For example, all insurance policies should be here. Also your family's wills, back income tax returns, bank statements, marriage licence and birth certificates.

Write a letter to your wife. Summarize the program you have agreed on, the amount of insurance you own, and how you would like her to carry out the program you have made. Include a record of your assets and liabilities. List the location of your safety deposit box (and its contents) and all bank accounts.

List the names, addresses and telephone numbers of your lawyer, life insurance representative and a close friend who would help your wife settle the affairs.

Talk to your wife

Spend another quiet evening going over all the steps you have taken. Discuss life insurance. Retirement. Investments. Wills. Go over the letter you have written. Be sure you both understand it.

You and your wife will feel better when you have set your affairs in order. The time it takes is a small investment when you think of the tangled mess you might leave behind.

SWEEPING REFORMS

Pearson Backs Debate Limits In Speedup Bid

By MICHAEL GILLAN

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson has endorsed recommendations to speed up consideration of government legislation and estimates but has rejected a proposal to provide a watchdog on cabinet power.

Mr. Pearson, entering a debate Thursday on an all-party committee's report on ways to improve the work of Commons committees, called for more "radical" reforms to expedite Commons business.

He repeated his call for debate time limits for each stage of bills and on the daily question period and a rule to extend House hours beyond the adjournment hour if it will mean completing debate of a bill.

The prime minister said there is no doubt strengthening of the committee system would help to counter-balance the increasing "weakness" of the legislative body against the executive.

Not only the cabinet but a "growing body of expert officialdom" is becoming more important as legislation becomes more complex, he said.

But he rejected as premature a recommendation for a "watchdog" committee to scrutinize the cabinet's use of powers conferred by statute. These powers were already the subject of governmental inquiries and any action should await these reports, Mr. Pearson said.

COMMITTEE WORK GETS STRESS

The report, prepared by the special procedure and organization committee under Speaker Alan Macnaughton, makes three main recommendations:

—Regular two-week adjournments of the Commons to permit MPs to attend committee meetings and visit their constituencies.

—Detailed study of government spending estimates by committees rather than the Commons as a whole.

—Revamping of the committee structure into smaller, fewer bodies with research staffs.

The prime minister said he is not opposed in principle to having regular adjournments for committee work. But he was against any rigid rule that would prohibit completion of debate on a bill.

He said, for example, that a fixed adjournment date might mean debate on an important bill would be suspended just before discussion had ended and two weeks later be dragged on for some time after MPs got their "second wind."

CAREFUL STUDY FOR SPENDING

He endorsed the throwing of spending estimates into committee and a recommendation that debate on estimates in the House be limited to 20 days.

Mr. Pearson favored the reorganization of standing committees into smaller groups but doubted that the agriculture committee should be limited to 30 members.

He said the committee system is not used to its best advantage in Canada but warned MPs not to deceive themselves about enlarging committee powers along the lines of the United States Congress.

Cabinet responsibility to Parliament and tighter party lines under this country's system ruled this out, he added.

Mr. Pearson suggested the special committee go back to work, keeping in mind the suggestions from himself and other members, and come up with draft amendments to present Commons rules.

If the draft rules were ready by the end of the present session, perhaps they could be implemented on a trial basis for the next session.

Gerald Baldwin (PC — Peace River) said present House rules are similar to those adopted at Confederation yet the increasing work load made Parliament "a creaking mechanism."

Prime ministerial and cabinet powers had increased greatly and apathy might set in among MPs unless steps are taken.

The present system of scrutinizing government spending is obsolete, Mr. Baldwin added, and a direct confrontation is needed between MPs and departmental officials rather than having ministers field questions in the Commons.

Displaced Residents Seek Additional Help

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston has promised to look into complaints that B.C. Hydro officials are imposing hardships on interior residents forced to move from their homes to make way for power projects.

Randolph Harding (NDP—Kaslo-Slocan) told the legislature Thursday he had received many complaints from residents that Hydro officials were being coldly efficient when homes were moved and compensation paid out.

"It would appear that when people are losing their homes the B.C. Hydro people should be leaning over backwards to be considerate," Mr. Harding said. "This does not appear to be the case."

He said he had letters on file where people had been paid incorrect compensation for the loss of their home and urged that Mr. Williston send in a team of departmental investigators to check on the complaints.

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault joined the general complaint and asked that special consideration be given to elderly people forced to move.

BIWILDERED

"Many may be older people who are a little bewildered by it all," he said. "Hydro officials should go a little beyond the book."

Mr. Williston said he had taken note of the complaints and that he would check on the problem.

The discussion came during the debate on the lands, forests and water resources estimates. The estimates were finally approved at 5:50 p.m. after seven hours' debate.

87,000 B.C. Workers Injured in '64

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Workmen's Compensation Board reported Thursday that more than 87,000 workmen were injured in British Columbia last year.

In the WCB's annual report, chairman J. E. Eades said the on-the-job injuries represented a 7.33 per cent increase over 1963.

There were 215 workmen killed, an increase of six from 1963.

He said there were 1,107,850 days lost from work as a result of the injuries.

The forest products industry was the most hazardous with 376,670 days lost, or 34 per cent of the total.

The board also paid out the most money in its history—$23,781,915—for time loss compensation; permanent disability; death awards and medical aid.

China Crops in Danger

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist China, with millions of extra mouths to feed, is facing what may be its worst crop troubles since 1961.

Broadcasts from all parts of China's grain belt tell of "battles, great obstacles and difficulties" in preparations for spring farming.

In the central province of Hunan—the traditional rice bowl of China — a recent directive complained of a shortage of manure, a shortage of water, and an insect threat.

A recent Hunan provincial party committee conference on economic crops complained that the production of economic crops in Hunan was not reviving and developing fast enough.

"Problems such as small areas, low and unstable yields and uneven development still exist," Hunan's radio Changsha reported.

The grain belt, from Chinghai in the northwest to Kwangsi in the south and from Szechuan in the west to the provinces in the east, have been called upon to make the 1965 spring harvest a bumper one. To help this along, the radio stations have reported that 17,000 cadres and militiamen have been sent to "the production front."

GRANDUC GRANT PLEDGED

He made the promise that the government will support the drive to raise funds to provide for the dependants of the 26 men killed Feb. 18 after NDP leader Robert Strachan pointed out that to date only $600 had been collected by public subscription.

Mr. Strachan had asked Mines Minister Donald Brothers to persuade the government to spearhead the drive and Mr. Brothers had answered that he saw "no need for the government" to lead the way.

The minister, did, however, promise that he would try to convince the government that support should be given

Mr. Bennett's pledge came as a brief aside. He stood up and said "the government will provide a grant."

He did not say how much or when.

Earlier Mr. Strachan had asked that $50,000 donated to the World Relief Fund some years ago but never used be made available to the widows and orphans of the avalanche. He received no reply from government benches.

Re-Opening Considered For Mine

Granduc mine, scene of disaster a month ago, may be back in operation this summer.

Mine Minister Donald Brothers told the legislature Thursday night that though the future of the mine is still "very critical" he had hopes that it would be in operation this summer.

"N. C. Gardner, the avalanche expert from the Rogers Pass and an avalanche expert brought in by the mining company, have reported that the mine can be worked providing certain safety precautions are taken," Mr. Brothers said.

"There must be no work in the area adjacent to the portal; there must be a snow observer on duty at all times; daily reports must be kept on snowfall and weather conditions and snow on all sides is to be bombed to prevent sudden avalanches," Mr. Brothers said.

"In addition guards must be built to dampen any future avalanches, diversion walls must be built between buildings and possible slide areas, and the portal must be entered by a covered travelway."

Mr. Brothers said if these regulations were observed the mine could go into production.

With no road to the Granduc site heavy equipment needed for the operation of the mine must be flown in. This means the construction of an airfield to take fixed-wing aircraft.

Mr. Brothers said that even with these difficulties to overcome he was sure the mine would soon be in production.

Union Urges Walking Limit To Job Site

VANCOUVER (CP) — A spokesman for the International Woodworkers of America has proposed a limit on the distance a man can be required to walk to work.

The proposal was made at a meeting here between the Workmen's Compensation Board and about 70 representatives of labor and management to make the first general revision of safety rules in 15 years.

Jack Moore, regional president of the IWA, told the meeting no worker should be required or permitted to work on sites more than 20 minutes walking distance from transportation.

Mr. Moore said serious consequences could result from workers being required to work too far from transportation.

Management representatives said the proposal is impractical.

SWISH 'N' SWALLOW CLEANING HAS LED TO 'RAMPANT DECAY'

A Toothbrush in Everybody's Top Pocket

By TERRY IZZARD

Only 35 per cent of all Canadians visit a dentist regularly. The rest go on the odd occasions they get toothache.

Twenty-four out of every 25 school children are in need of dental treatment; the other 4 per cent is in serious danger of joining the ranks.

These startling facts were brought to light this week by worried Vancouver Island health officials.

The rot has well and truly set in according to Dr. Gerald Bonham, director of the Central Vancouver Island Health Unit.

In his annual report he calls for a re-survey of the dental picture within the area.

The last survey on Vancouver Island was taken between 1958 and 1961. Results from this showed between 90.2 and 95.9 per cent of children in need of treatment.

Said Dr. Bonham today: "It is quite alarming, the number of children with rampant decay.

"Yet there seems to be no hope of any improvement in the near future."

Others need plates to replace teeth which are beyond repair.

But what can be done to curb the rot?

According to Dr. Bonham the remedies are about as numerous as the reasons:

Avoid sticky sweet foods; don't eat between meals; have regular check-ups; brush regularly and brush correctly.

BRUSH IN POCKET

As for brushing correctly, he says: "The average person brushes for 20 to 30 seconds; two to three minutes would be more appropriate."

And there's more to it than that. The quick one-two, left-right movement doesn't do the trick.

Said a spokesman for Victoria Dental Society: "The majority of people might as well use the other end of the brush. They do everything they shouldn't do—especially children.

Up, wash, 10-second teeth clean, breakfast with lots of sugar, school, more sugar and candy, home, supper, another 10-second rub-down (unless mother forgets) and bed.

SWISH, SWALLOW

Back on the local scene another survey is to be conducted in Greater Victoria next year.

About 1,250 children, picked at random from schools in the area, will take part.

40 - 68% REDUCTION

This has been proved to reduce cavities by 40 to 68 per cent.

The last time the question was put to a vote in Victoria it was defeated almost 3 to 1.

One dentist went so far as to claim dental decay could be reduced as much as 90 per cent with use of fluoride and proper dental hygiene.

Others were almost, but not quite, as optimistic.

To drill dental hygiene into the public; or drill the cavities out of them.

"LIKE THIS," says Dr. W. J. Camp- as he shows schoolboy Jack McGougan, 12, of 1728 Quadra, the proper way to brush his teeth. (Times Photo)

RN Missile Ship Coming April 30

One of the world's most formidable ships in terms of power, armament and design, the Royal Navy's HMS Kent, will visit here April 30 to May 5.

The navy announced today the 6,200-ton guided missile destroyer will stop here en route to Portsmouth after a tour of duty at Singapore.

After her Victoria visit, the Kent will spend five days in Vancouver.

She was commissioned into the RN in 1963, after construction at Belfast, Ireland.

The Kent carries an anti-submarine helicopter equipped with homing torpedoes. Other armaments are Sea Slug and Sea Cat missile systems.

Twin 4.5-inch turrets are mounted forward which are fully automatic and radar controlled.

Plans are now nearing completion for entertainment and athletics here for the ship's company of 38 officers and 450 men by Lieut.-Cmdr. Frank Dunbar.

TILIKUM MOVE 'PIRACY'

By PETE LOUDON

Civic and provincial officials were probing old records today—and they may uncover a case of modern day piracy.

This was the unexpected outcome of the removal from Thunderbird Park Tuesday of the famed dug-out canoe Tilikum.

The investigation was inspired by Rebel Mowat, well-known tour bus operator and tourist authority.

"Who gave anyone the right to move Tilikum?" he asked.

"In Thunderbird Park it was enjoyed by hundreds of thousands of tourists and local residents, without charge.

UNDER COVER

"Now it is to be kept under cover in the Maritime Museum. The only people who will see it will be those who will pay admission," he added.

Curator of the new museum which will open this fall in the old courthouse on Bastion Square, Col. J. W. D. Symons says the move was arranged by Dr. Clifford Carl of the provincial museum. It took place Tuesday.

Dr. Carl said, "Thunderbird Park is owned by the provincial government. We assumed the ship had been turned over to us."

But Mr. Mowat says the ship was donated to the city of Victoria by the Greenwich Yacht Club of London, England, in 1930.

PRETTY VAGUE

Dr. Carl said, "The question of ownership is pretty vague. There is nothing on record."

City Clerk Frank Hunter was searching through old files today to determine whether the city did own Tilikum or whether it had been given to the province. Officials of the provincial archives were soon similarly engaged.

Col. Symons said Tilikum was suffering from open-air display and would be better preserved in the museum.

He agreed when the Maritime Museum opens this fall an admission fee will be charged but said patrons are happy to pay.

He said also that Tilikum would have to be moved anyway as work starts on a new provincial museum-archives complex adjoining Thunderbird Park.

TOUR FEATURE

Dr. Carl said, however, that the park will be almost undisturbed by the proposed provincial museum although some items displayed there [illegible] be reoriented."

Mr. Mowat said he was annoyed by Tilikum's removal because for years tour bus operators have pointed to it with pride.

"It was a great asset to the city. It's getting to be that the tourist is charged for everything he sees. They soon will say 'What's so different about this city'?"

DUE SATURDAY

We Didn't Even Wait For Spring

Spring springs on Victoria at 12:05 p.m. Saturday.

That's the moment of the vernal equinox, when the sun crosses the equator heading north—and all gardeners, campers, swimmers and outdoor sportsmen rejoice.

Weatherman William Mackie says there is good reason for happiness. The outlook is good for continued sunny weather, he says.

Victoria now has been basking in sunshine since the last day of February, except for one day of cloudy periods.

So far in March we have had 166.1 hours of sun. The record, 202 hours, was set in 1926. It could be shattered yet this month, Mr. Mackie says.

But if the sun has been twice the normal complement, the overnight temperatures have been wintry, ranging between 21 and 33.

"Temperatures will show a slow, rising trend—but don't throw out the anti-freeze yet," says the weatherman.

THIEF-THWARTING MAIL BOXES COMING HERE IN FEW MONTHS

New-type post boxes should be appearing on Victoria streets in a few months.

Victoria postmaster A. M. Davies said he has an order in for 17 new-type boxes and expected this area to be among the first in Canada to get them.

The box is said to be as durable as the steel ones now in general use and more difficult to break open.

Climax Imminent On Jones Firing

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

The bitter Jones Bill controversy may reach a climax today.

The government was expected to present its bill to fire suspended purchasing commission chairman G. E. P. Jones to the legislature's afternoon sitting for continuation of the debate on second reading — approval in principle stage.

About seven or eight opposition speakers were expected to line up their sights on the government's refusal to provide reasons for its demand that the legislature fire Mr. Jones and give him an extra year's pay.

NO CRACKS

There have been rumors that some government backbenchers are unhappy with the government's stand but so far no cracks have appeared in the solid, but silent, Socred front presented to the House on the bill.

If second reading is given, there is still opportunity for the opposition to continue the battle on third reading — clause by clause approval—but this probably would be a series of rear-guard skirmishes.

Impaired Driver Jailed 6 Months

A 63-year-old man was sent to jail today for six months after he pleaded guilty to his third conviction for impaired driving.

Gordon S. Guest, 1438 Fort Street, was also prohibited by Magistrate William Ostler from driving anywhere in Canada for three years.

'Bandit Drive' Gets Youth Jail Term

A 16-year-old youth described as an "enigma" was given an 18-months definite and 12 months indefinite sentence in city court this morning.

Bruce Beatty, also known as Bruce Jackson, of 2945 Admirals Road, earlier pleaded guilty to attempted armed robbery.

He brandished a knife at a woman sitting in her car on Yates Street. The woman screamed and Beatty fled the scene but was arrested a few minutes later.

Magistrate William Ostler said a pre-sentence report showed Beatty has a "most complex nature." He said Beatty is both "bright and intelligent" but has "the instincts of a bandit."

The magistrate ordered that the sentence be served at the Young Offenders' Unit. He added that he felt sorry for Beatty's parents who have made great efforts to help him.

Acquiring capital region parkland as a Canadian Centennial project appeals to Mayor R. B. Wilson over any other idea suggested to date.

"The more one thinks about the subject, the more merit it contains," Mayor Wilson said today.

"The need is there and the time is late.

"With the provincial government offer to pay for one-third of the cost (of regional parks anywhere in B.C.), this could be a suitable centennial project," the mayor said.

The suggestion was supported this week by Oak Bay ratepayer Dr. David Turner, deputy minister of recreation and conservation, who stressed that he spoke as a private citizen.

'LASTING GOOD'

Writing to Oak Bay council, Dr. Turner called the previously made suggestion "of great and lasting good," probably the only one of its kind in Canada.

He endorses the idea of carrying it beyond the capital region, to such an area as the Sunshine Coast of the Lower Mainland and up into the Fraser Canyon.

"This is just one of the many projects the centennial committee will study, I'm sure," Mayor Wilson said.

AWAITS REPORT

He pointed out that municipal councils are waiting for the Greater Victoria centennial committee to sift through all suggested joint projects and come up with a recommendation.

The mayor felt regional parks is a project likely to meet with the approval of all areas concerned, since the need for parkland is generally accepted.

SKI REPORT

Sunny skies, temperatures in the 20s, no new snow and six feet of old base snow were included in today's Green Mountain report to the Sno-Birds Ski Club.

Good conditions were predicted for weekend skiers, who will find the road clear to the parking lot and three tows in operation.

BOATING SEASON is almost back and Brentwood native Indians are making ready. This work party is adding a boat float and gangway to the pier and cement boat ramp opened last year at Indian Bay, one mile north of the ferry slip at Brentwood. The job is a three-year project paid for under the federal winter works program. Anyone may use the facilities for a nominal fee. Reserve members will operate the service.

An unoccupied house used for storing tools was destroyed by fire Thursday afternoon on East Saanich Indian Reserve.

The fire started after a grass fire had apparently been extinguished. The house, owned by Victor Underwood, 50 Beach Drive, was not insured. No estimate of the loss is available.

SHOPPING GUIDE

From Soup to Nuts— Series Serves 'Em All

By PENNY SAVER

Penny was looking for something different—something delicious—to serve as a casserole for a buffet dinner she's planning for Saturday evening. I rummaged through every recipe book and folder I own—and even some of my neighbors'—but I couldn't seem to find the one I particularly wanted.

However, while shopping the other day, I found the ideal answer to those different casserole ideas. It is a casserole cookbook with ideas galore for casseroles and easy-to-prepare one-dish dinners.

More than 400 recipes are contained in this book which sells at $3.50. Encased in plastic and securely bound, it will last forever. Many of the recipes inside are illustrated and my stomach "growled" just from looking at the pictures!

I was particularly interested in the one-dish meals and I found a quick-to-prepare idea that is perfect for youngsters. Slice the length of a loaf of French bread in half, and butter. Then halve the lengths of wieners, leaving them joined at the bottom. Fill with prepared mustard and pickles and place at an angle on the bread. Before adding the wieners, pour a can of piping hot beans over the bread which should be slightly toasted. Slice and serve. Delicious!

There are a whole series of these books. Another one that caught my eye was about meat dishes. Not only does this book supply recipes, but it also illustrates the best cuts and buys of meat to select and how to basically cut and prepare meat yourself.

Guides as to time and temperature of cooking are featured. Also, if the man of the house does any hunting, there are recipes for cooking venison, game birds and even rabbits and squirrel.

More than 350 recipes are given. One I like is pork tenderloin, simmered with a mushroom sauce. Beat the meat until flattened and tender, flour and brown. Stir in several cans of mushroom soup, adding milk to make it even richer. Simmer and serve with baked potato, garnished with the same sauce.

Salad, dessert and canape ideas are also in this series. Even thinking about them is making my mouth water, so, if you're interested, give Penny a call at 382-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

There's No Special Food That Will Fatten Calves

Q. My arms and legs are very thin. Is there any special food that will develop them? I have heard that certain foods will develop the bust and others will develop the brain. Are there any to develop the legs and arms?

Lowman

A. There is no special food which will develop any particular part of the body. The ideas you mentioned were dreamed up by some optimist. A gain in weight will increase all measurements. If you are underweight, gain the pounds you need. You can also build up the contour of your arms and legs by developing the muscles.

Q. Are varicose veins inherited?

A. These do seem to run in families. A weakness in the structure of the vein may be inherited. However, many other factors can lead to varicose veins. Some of these are restricting clothing (perhaps garters), pregnancy, or standing for long periods of time at work.

Q. My face is square. How should I fix my hair?

A. A slanting side part will help. Try to avoid all square effects like hair that hangs down below the ears and looks chopped off. The build-up on top should have quite a bit of width.

Q. Do men prefer short or long hair?

A. Traditionally, men are supposed to prefer long hair, however, each man feels differently. I think they definitely admire a feminine coiffure and dislike a masculine looking hairdo. With today's hair styles, a woman can have a very soft, attractive, feminine styling without having very long hair. Actually from middle age on, long hair which hangs down is not flattering.

Q. The cuticle around my fingernails is terribly dry. It even splits and gets sore. What causes this and what can I do?

A. If your nails are really sore and split I think you should see a dermatologist because the cuticle can become infected. However, this problem may come from contact with detergents. Always wear rubber gloves when doing housework which requires the use of detergents.

It may be that this condition has risen from neglect. Whenever a woman sees her cuticle quite dry, she should use a cuticle cream every night, massaging it into the cuticle. If this is done regularly it will be a great help.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Opposite Side of Coin!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I just read "NO SALE'S" letter in the Philadelphia Bulletin and I almost died laughing. She complains because all the salespeople in Baltimore "pounce" on her and offer to help her the minute she enters a store. But she doesn't want to be helped. So what is she doing in the store anyway?

If she really wants to be ignored, tell her to come to Philadelphia. She will have to hunt up the item she wants to buy, then go looking for a salesperson to sell it to her. And if she's lucky, she will find one whom she must beg to take her money and wrap up her purchase.

IGNORED IN PHILADELPHIA

DEAR ABBY: Where has "NO SALE IN BALTIMORE" been shopping? I live in Baltimore, too, and believe me, I have never been bombarded with clerks offering to help me when I shop in town.

That's the reason I now do most of my shopping on the telephone.

PREFERS THE PHONE

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "NO SALE" in Baltimore that I would appreciate one of its aggressive sales clerks for a change. Most of the stores here in Huntsville, Alabama, need to have their clerks trained by the Baltimore department store people. When you get a clerk to wait on you in Huntsville, she acts like she is doing you a big favor.

If Huntsville and Baltimore traded clerks for just one week, I'll bet "NO SALE" would never again complain about those eager-to-serve clerks who pounce on her and ask if they may help her. Please sign me—

WILLING TO TRADE

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "NO SALE" of Baltimore to go to LOS ANGELES if she wants her problem solved permanently. There she could stand around a store all day and not one clerk would approach her and offer to help her. It seems to me that all the major department stores in Los Angeles are short of help and crowded with customers. More than once I have gone into a store to buy something, and became so disgusted because no one seemed interested in waiting on me that I have walked out without buying anything.

NO SALE IN L.A.

DEAR ABBY: I know what "NO SALE" means when she says she doesn't like to have salespeople "pounce" on her and ask to help her the minute she walks into a store. I don't care for it, either.

That's the reason I now shop at the discount stores. All the merchandise is out where you can see it. You can take all the time you want looking it over and nobody bothers you. And when you finally make a decision, you just put it in a basket and wheel it over to the counter where the cashier takes your money and wraps it for you. That's for me!

NO PROBLEM IN SAN MATEO

DEAR ABBY: I have been a saleslady in a large department store in Chicago for over 40 years, and I think I know what "NO SALE IN BALTIMORE" means.

Some salespeople approach customers in a very arrogant manner and the way they say, "MAY I ASSIST YOU" makes the shopper feel that if she doesn't make up her mind to buy something within the next sixty seconds she had better move along. I always let the customer browse around for a while first, and then if she appears to want a salesperson's help, I approach her in a friendly way and let HER ask ME to assist her.

Danger Season for Children Begins as Plants Start to Grow

Deadly cyanide is packaged in twigs of the cherry tree, and the leaf blades of rhubarb contain oxalic acid which causes severe kidney damage.

Marjorie May, director of the home and education division of the Greater New York Safety Council, mentioned these and others as she issued a plea for parents to watch what their children nibble, especially with the green season coming in. Let the adults be on guard, too.

Eating the daisies may be all right, said Miss May, but there are more than 700 species of plants that are known to have caused illness or death—some of the plants so common they're in home gardens, at the playground, the golf course or picnic area.

The U.S. public health service estimates that 12,000 children each year are poisoned by plants, she said.

The death rate is not known, but she said many youngsters' lives are saved by the quick ingestion of the stomach pump.

"There is no need to stop growing beautiful flowers and plants just because they contain poison," said Miss May. "Just keep them out of your mouth. Train the children not to chew on anything other than known foods, no matter how familiar it is."

Miss May compiled a list of the common poisoners from the National Safety Council, a publication of the U.S. printing office, "Poison Plants in North America," and "Poisonous Plants of the United States and Canada," by John M. Kingsbury.

The flowers of the narcissus, hyacinth and daffodil are lovely. But poison from the bulbs causes nausea, vomiting and diarrhoea, and can be fatal. Attractively striped "dumb cane" and the familiar "elephant ears" both contain crystals of calcium oxalate which cause painful swelling of the mouth and tongue severe enough to close off air passages of the throat.

Miss May knew of one case history of an executive who absent-mindedly chewed a bit of "dumb cane" which was part of his office decor. He was severely ill for several weeks.

Rhubarb leaves are not for eating but Miss May recalled finding in a cookbook a recipe for preparing them much like spinach.

One leaf from the flamboyant poinsettia can kill a child. Miss May said there is enough poison in a dime packet of castor bean seeds to kill five children.

She said larkspur, lily of the valley, iris, sweet peas, monkshood, autumn crocus and bleeding heart are a few of the familiar plants which have toxic parts—flowers, stems, leaves, seeds, berries, roots or bulbs.

Don't nibble on a laurel, rhododendron, azalea, daphne, oleander and wisteria. People have died merely from eating steaks that were speared with oleander sticks and roasted over a fire, Miss May said.

Berries attract little fingers—but berries from daphne, nightshade and moonseed (which resembles wild grape) can kill. Jimson weed (also called stinkweed or thorn apple) grows in abundance and is considered responsible for more poisonings than any other plant.

If humans are so susceptible, what about family pets and other animals?

"The poison might affect them too," she said, "but animals are strangely wise. They don't go around eating wild mushrooms."

Doris Anderson is one of the many Canadian women who has found the secret of combining a business career and a home. Enthusiastically, she reports, "It's a wonderful way of getting the best out of life."

MAKES SUCCESS OF BOTH

SHE COMBINES HOME WITH CAREER

By PAT DUFOUR

If ever a nation-wide contest is held for well-organized women, Doris Anderson, Toronto, editor of the magazine, "Chatelaine", is bound to be a top contender.

Not only does she head a staff of 25, (not counting 140 correspondents) she's also the mother of three lively young sons, Peter, six; Stephen, three, and Mitchell, 19 months.

Her secret? Says this career woman, "It's all a matter of organizing. I married David the week after I was made editor. When the children came along I just added them to my dual career life."

This may sound over-simplified until Mrs. Anderson explains that she's had the same housekeeper since she was married in 1957.

"She's a wonderful person and through her, my husband and I were able to give the children a very stable life."

What's the most important item for a career mother? "Lists, I live by them. Any mother who wants to work has to learn how to divorce her home from her job during working hours. She also has to memorize such details as dental appointments for the children, phoning the plumber to repair the washing machine and picking up shoe laces on the way home."

Not that Mrs. Anderson really minds her demanding way of life. Actually, she thrives on it.

"Men in our business go home and get the coddled treatment. They mostly have wives who are receptive when they speak about the hard day in the office.

"With women like me, we dash home and substitute one set of problems for another. It's stimulating!"

Here on a half-day visit this week, Mrs. Anderson stressed her magazine's concern in providing reading material to appeal to women from one coast to the other.

"It would be so easy to take stories only from Ontario and Quebec—there are so many—but we honestly try to give our magazine a trans-Canada flavor."

Mrs. Anderson tells of a new series being planned that will feature women with interesting careers from Newfoundland to British Columbia.

"We're calling it 'Women on the Go' and we intend to run features on women with offbeat and challenging occupations. I'm sure we'll find all sorts of material on this coast."

And, although her Victoria visit was a five-hour stampede, Mrs. Anderson still manages to couple business with pleasure by visiting her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Buck, of Gladiola Avenue.

Now on her way back to Toronto, Mrs. Anderson will probably have Christmas on her mind when she's winging over the Rockies.

"We have to plan away ahead. Our May issue is almost put to bed, we're deep into the June one, starting on July and have some material set aside for December."

With her ability to organize, this advanced planning becomes just another list to be docketed in her mental files. It's no wonder that her lawyer husband and their three sons think that Mom is something special.

Doris Anderson sees no cause for their adulation. "It's all in the day's work. The main thing is to have fun together without letting your petticoat of organization show too much!"

And, strangely enough, Doris Anderson doesn't.

REFUSE TO CHANGE FROM OLD, TRADITIONAL STYLES

British Potters Stumped by Canadian Women

STOKE-ON-TRENT, England (CP) — The Canadian woman who goes out to buy a set of English bone china may not know it but her tastes pose a problem for Britain's potters.

They'd like to go modern—well, a little more modern—but their women customers won't hear of it.

"Others in the industry abroad say we are tradition-bound and can't or won't change," says Sam Jerrett, director of the British Pottery Manufacturers' Association. "In fact we would love to change more but the customers won't permit it."

Sir John Wedgwood, deputy chairman of one of the biggest firms in The Potteries, the name for this area of Staffordshire that produces 90 per cent of English bone china and cheaper tableware, echoes these sentiments.

"People do, of course, like modern dinnerware and they buy it in large quantities from Europe and North America," he says. "But when it comes to buying fine English china they demand the same, old traditional styles."

Some of the firm's best-selling dishes today were designed many years ago. A good example is a set made in the 1800s for Napoleon. Years later the pattern, a simple ivy design, was reinstated for public sale and is still one of the firm's top sellers.

Local pottery is exported to 140 countries and Canada is the best customer, buying more than £5,000,000 worth last year.

PREFER TRADITIONAL

And Canada and the United States are the strongest holdouts for the traditional while at home British housewives are showing a growing interest in modern styles.

This is good news for frustrated young designers who are anxious to expand the market for high-quality modern dishes.

One reason the manufacturers themselves are not too eager to plunge too fast into modern designing is that if the novelty wears off they are stuck with it. Reputable firms make a practice of guaranteeing replacement supplies for at least 10 years after purchase. So if a design is a flop they still are committed to producing at least a limited quantity for a number of years.

Although Stoke-on-Trent is most famous for dinnerware, it also turns out three-quarters of Britain's supply of electrical accessories, ceramic floor and wall tiles and what it calls "sanitary ware"—toilets, sinks and the like.

The industry is one of Britain's greatest assets because exports are high and imports are low. Last year it sold £22,000,000 worth of pottery abroad while 99 per cent of its raw materials are found here in Britain.

It has the best labor relations record of any industry in the country and there hasn't been a strike of any size here within living memory.

Gifts In Model

Some of the gifts were contained in a model firehall and others were hidden with clues provided to their whereabouts when Mrs. J. Fouracre entertained at a shower in her Heron Street home in honor of Miss Mary Lou Hayes. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Jack Cudmore and Mrs. D. D. Moses. The bride-elect received a corsage of red roses and her mother, Mrs. H. E. Hayes, pink roses. A shower cake in the shape of an umbrella and decorated in pale yellow centred the lace-covered head table. Completing the decorations was a cut glass bowl of daffodils, flanked by blue candles. Guests included Mrs. Gladys Johnston, Mrs. R. Neratko, Mrs. Don Fouracre, Mrs. T. Hayes, Mrs. F. Fredette, Mrs. N. Robertson, Mrs. C. Fulthorp, Mrs. F. M. Hawthorne, Mrs. C. G. Dickson, the Misses Nancy Cudmore, Judy Johnston and Vandy Rose Neratko.

Lynda Johnson Is 21 Today and Says White House Spotlight Matures Her

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Lynda Bird Johnson, 21 years old today, compares the much-publicized life of a president's daughter with that of the minister's child whom everyone expects "to be so perfect."

But President Johnson's older daughter, in a session with newswomen, stressed that she was not complaining or rebelling at being in the showcase of White House life.

She said she feels that it is up to the president's daughters to be an example to other young Americans "of the good things," and added, "I think having the spotlight on you really matures you."

She will attend her normal classes at George Washington University during the day, and in the early evening will go to a reception in honor of her sister, Luci, 17, who will be Queen of an Azalea Festival in Norfolk, Va., next month.

Later, she will attend a "surprise" party, escorted by David Le Fevre, a former White House aide who now works for a New York stockbroker and who has been a frequent date for the president's daughter.

Lynda told the newswomen, however, she has no special beau.

"I'm just dating a lot of people," she said, adding with the good humor for which she is known at the White House that reporters have been "sabotaging these young men who take a chance" to date her by writing about it.

Well then, the newswomen persisted, if she is dating a lot of people, is there a front runner?

AIR from ENGLAND

The response to our first showing of this Spring's coats from the famous house of Cotsmoor of London, England was so terrific that we have had further stocks flown out.

Styles, while a little softer than last year's still retain the impeccably tailored and classic look which gives English tailoring its prestige.

Cloths include the ever popular wool and camel hair mixtures, soft tweeds, checks and Llama. The latter in both clutch and button-up styles.

Contrary to the usual trend, price levels remain unchanged from last season, ranging from $79.50 to $115.00.

By MARLENE GLASSFORD

Such has been the life of Mrs. Murray Johnson, a native of Soest, Holland, whose home was "five minutes walking distance from Queen Juliana's palace."

During the 23 years of her life, 'home' has been anything from a spacious house—complete with servants—in Indonesia, to an unfurnished apartment in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., or a pup tent for travelling.

Of her homeland, she recalls, "Because Soest was the home of the queen, the Dutch had a strict ruling that only those within a certain income bracket could live and build their homes in the district. This was a precaution against slum areas arising there."

As a youngster, Elly Johnson found out what it was to be in command of servants. "We moved to Indonesia where my father was employed in Surabaja at the head office of the surrounding plantations. We had five servants—a cook, cleaning woman, house boy, gardener and night watchman—all who were trained to take orders from the whole family.

"The house had two large living rooms and five bedrooms. At the back were a kitchen and the servants' quarters."

The watchman, she claims, was necessary to prevent the natives from stealing.

"When something was stolen, it depended on which side the law was—native or Dutch—whether it was returned or not. If not, you could buy it back on the market."

She vividly recalls some of the animals that roamed freely about the premises. Two of the most prevalent were one that emitted a skunk-like odor, and a salamander-type animal, the Tokeh.

DRASTIC CURE

"If the first one entered the house, you killed it and coped with the smell. The Tokeh was utterly harmless but if it fell on your skin, it remained there until removed with boiled tobacco water."

Often they found the killing of such interlopers left in their own hands. "The native religion forbids the killing of several types of snakes and animals because they are supposed to be holy."

In much the same way, religious fear finds the natives placing flowers, food and money on the spot where someone may have been killed in an accident. This wards off the "evil ghosts" and prevents another similar happening.

"Little did they know that when the white children spotted a bunch of flowers, they stole the money and used it to buy candy."

Though she sums up her three and a half years in Indonesia as "awful" due to native uprisings against the Dutch, Mrs. Johnson admits, "Nature there is beautiful. They have animals and plants that are found nowhere else in the world."

Major part of her life, up until coming to Canada in the fall of 1963, was spent in her native land, interspersed with frequent holidays in Germany, France, Belgium and Spain.

BUS TRIPS

Mention of her holidays finds her relating such incidents as a bus trip through Belgium to Spain in the summer.

"No one knows for sure how it happened but we were travelling down a straight stretch of road when the bus crashed into a house at 60 m.p.h. We had to wait there until another bus could come and pick up up. Luckily no one was hurt."

Other vacations found her and several girl friends packing knapsacks on their backs and bicycling from country to country, as is the custom in Holland once a person has passed their 16th birthday.

ALMOST DESTITUTE

"We couldn't speak a word of English and had very little money. Though we both had jobs waiting as laboratory technicians, our money soon ran out and we had to rent an apartment that was furnished only with a bed that pulled out of the wall.

"We used our sleeping bags as blankets and rolled sweaters for pillows."

USED LATIN

"At work, all the words we needed were in Latin but the accents were so different that we couldn't understand the English girls and they couldn't understand us. When we wanted something, we would write it down because the spellings were the same."

At the same time, their plight made interesting headlines on the social pages of a local newspaper, and before long they had become the wards of a good Samaritan.

"He brought us three easy chairs, a book case and two step-tables. With the odds and ends we bought ourselves, we did quite well."

He also provided them with a television set. "That was how we learned English — by watching TV."

While there, Elly met her husband. "He was a friend of our neighbors and I met him in September of 1963. In July of the following year I went on a holiday to the United States and then to Holland. When I returned I flew straight to Victoria, and we were married in November."

While she agrees that Canada is a great place to live, Mrs. Johnson maintains, "Europe is the only place to bring up teen-agers—there is so much more for them to do. From the age of 16 up they go camping in groups in the summer and travel from country to country."

Of her new home, her only lament is that echoed by many parents, "All the young people here have to have a car before they can go anywhere."

Mrs. Murray Johnson has packed a lot of experience into her 23 years, ranging from life near a royal palace to nights under the stars in a pup tent.

Professor Goes Shopping Armed With a Slide Rule

VANCOUVER (CP)—The job of the supermarket mathematician has been automated by Dr. Modest Pernarowski of Vancouver.

He takes a small engineer's rule on his shopping trips and in seconds can figure which offers the better bargain — 10¾ ounces of detergent at 39 cents or 29 ounces at $1.30.

Dr. Pernarowski says the slide rule is the quickest way to decide which "specials" on the supermarket shelves really are bargains.

"With the odd sizes and weights, it makes it very difficult to compare values. Who can quickly divide 10¾ ounces into 39 cents and remember the result while figuring out another product?"

Dr. Pernarowski's slide rule manipulations are not solely for his personal interest.

The associate professor of pharmacy at the University of British Columbia is the province's only representative on the federal 16-member advisory council of consumers appointed last July.

"We deal only with food and drugs," he explained. "The proliferation of products is fantastically confusing.

"I've found a cake mix, marked as on sale, was more expensive than the regular stock across the aisle."

Dr. Pernarowski said he is studying the possibility of a uniform approach in packing.

"The manufacturers say it's difficult to change packaging, but when it comes to advertising, they change the packaging in a hurry if it's not suitable."

He said there is a need for consumer education.

"People go to the supermarket and see strawberry jam on sale, but if they look closely, they might see that it's strawberry jam 'with added pectin.'

"The simple inclusion of those three words means that the strawberry content minimum is lowered to 32 per cent from 52 per cent.

"The higher figure, set by the food and drug regulations, applies to strawberry jam without added pectin.

"So on the sale item with pectin you're probably overpaying," he said.

Dr. Pernarowski said there is excessive duplication of products that adds further to the confusion.

He said that in the United States in 1964, 277 new drug products came on the market.

"In actual fact, only 17 new chemical products were found. There were 18 'new' cold and cough products listed. Hogwash. They are still using the same old material and just rehashing the formulas. This applies just as much in the food field."

He hopes the advisory consumer committee will eventually grow into a full government department of consumers.

"The manufacturers know exactly how to bring pressure on the government when their interests are threatened, but the consumer has practically no voice."

HOLDS KEY POSITION

PACIFIC NEEDS CANADA

Canada is in a unique position to do something to aid the development of small countries in the Pacific, the University Women's Club of Victoria was told Wednesday evening.

In enlarging his statement, Dr. Bryan H. Farrell, head of the geography department of the University of Victoria, stated that this help could best come in the form of developing embryonic fisheries, mining, agriculture and forestry through expert technical training and by the exchange of students, professors and other professional people.

He saw British Columbia as being particularly well suited to the awakening of interest in this area because of its key position on the "front door" to the Pacific.

Victoria itself, he said, could, through the new university, lead as a centre for Pacific studies in geography, anthropology, history and oceanography.

In furthering his speech on present-day developments in the South-West Pacific, he stressed the comparative isolation of such islands as Australia, New Zealand, New Guinea and Samoa.

He stated that the majority of these islands are under-developed and under-populated in rural areas due to the large influx of Europeans who concentrate in the cities. He cited Australia as an example.

In New Zealand, he believed the major problem lay in the United Kingdom joining the Common Market and therefore cutting off the island's main source of export for agricultural goods.

Dr. Farrell concluded his lecture with colored slides of Samoa. He was introduced by Mrs. Vincent W. Smith and thanked by Mrs. M. C. M. Matheson.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. F. M. P. Warren, Mrs. A. J. Macgregor and Mrs. G. B. Friedman.

Vincent Massey Honored in London

LONDON (CP)—Figures eminent in British and Canadian life in various fields, Thursday, attended a luncheon in honor of Vincent Massey, former governor-general of Canada and wartime high commissioner in London.

Lionel Chevrier, the present high commissioner, gave the luncheon for Massey, 77, who is on an extended private visit to Britain.

Guests included: the dowager Countess of Bessborough, widow of the Earl of Bessborough, former Canadian governor-general; Lord Tweedsmuir, son of another former governor-general, and Lady Tweedsmuir; Lady Asquith, prominent Liberal peeress and daughter of a British prime minister; the Marquess and Marchioness of Salisbury; Duncan Sandys, Commonwealth secretary in the last Conservative government; T. R. Montgomery and J. T. Richard, Canadian delegates to the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association, and Geoffrey Murray, Canadian deputy high commissioner, and Mrs. Murray.

DECORATED BY QUEEN

One of the proudest women in Victoria, Thursday, was Mrs. Angelina Norris, who operates the cafeteria on the Lansdowne campus of the University of Victoria. Mentally, she was at Buckingham Palace in London, Eng., where her nephew, Cmdr. John Golding, RN, was being made a Member of the British Empire at an investiture by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth. Also at the ceremony were his wife and daughter, Marilyn, who is a student nurse at Middlesex Hospital.

W. VANCOUVER REEVE DENIES 'SELLOUT'

WEST VANCOUVER (CP)—Reeve Alex Forst Thursday termed unfounded suggestions by an NDP MLA in the legislature that the Cypress Bowl mountainside area within this municipality would be "sold out" to private interests. The reeve said public hearings are to be held on proposals to develop the 10,000-acre tract and that Dave Barrett (NDP—Dewdney) who made the suggestion in the House, would get a personal invitation to the hearings.

'WEB OF INTRIGUE'

Patronage Hinted In Park Project

Government patronage in a plan to permit private interests to develop a public park reserve was hinted in the legislature Thursday.

Dave Barrett (NDP-Dewdney) said two of the principals involved in a deal to develop Cypress Bowl near West Vancouver are connected with government enterprises.

Mr. Barrett said one of the promoters of the scheme is Fred Dietrich, a provisional director of the Bank of British Columbia, a pet project of Premier Bennett.

Another, he said, is William Clancey "who handled $250,000 in (Socred) campaign funds in the last election."

Mr. Barrett added, "These people are in like a web of intrigue in connection with this government."

The Cypress Bowl matter was raised in the house Wednesday by NDP members who feared a scandal was in the making.

The mountainside area was set aside 21 years ago for use as parkland but now it is earmarked for a $10 million private development involving various recreations.

PARK PURPOSES

Forests Minister Ray Williston told the House that he hadn't known of a cabinet order-in-council in 1944 setting the land aside for park purposes.

He said it lies within West Vancouver boundaries and the government does not wish to dictate its use to the municipality.

Mr. Barrett said, "I want that land used as a park the same way Stanley Park is used as a park.

"Will you let private investors come into Stanley Park?"

He added, "You stand condemned if you sell one inch of that land to private interests . . . any member going along will go down in history as having betrayed the people of British Columbia."

HOLD HEARINGS

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault that West Vancouver council said he had just been informed plans to hold hearings on the development and then discuss the matter with provincial officials.

Mr. Barrett said the province should be holding the hearings. He charged that the province traded away hundreds of thousands of dollars in timber rights in Sayward area in exchange for the parklands.

He quoted a past statement by Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan as saying there was a shortage of parkland in Vancouver area and suggesting Cypress Bowl be turned into a regional park.

Treasury Profit Basis Urged in Timber Bids

British Columbia should give timber rights to the companies which promise the province the greatest share of the profits, the legislature was told Thursday.

Dr. Pat McGeer (Lib.—Vancouver-Point Grey) said this system has been used to advantage by Long Beach, California, in allocating development rights for city-owned oil property.

He said the best bid came from a group of five major companies so anxious to obtain the oil they offered the city 98 per cent of the profits.

Dr. McGeer suggested Forests Minister Williston should study the situation with an eye to making a like arangement with companies now reaping B.C. timber harvests.

He said the oil field under Long Beach is estimated to hold a treasure of a billion dollars—but the B.C. timber wealth is $2 billion.

Earlier in the debate as the House considered the forestry estimates, Dave Stupich (NDP—Nanaimo) recalled a statement made last year by Gordon Gibson (Lib.—North Vancouver), who had made a fortune in lumbering.

Mr. Gibson had said the province should be tapping industry for another $100 million in return for cutting rights.

Mr. Williston said he would like to examine the Long Beach deal in detail. But he doubted it could be applied to forestry because profits are more difficult to discern where the resource is logs, not a finished product.

Mayor to Go On June 8 Kitimat Trip

Invitation for the know-your-province tour was received by finance committtee and recommended to council Thursday.

The party of chamber and municipal representatives will fly to Terrace and travel by bus to Kitimat, where an inspection of the Alcan smelter will be arranged. Cost per delegate will be $55.

"Would it be an imposition to ask the mayor to find out if any alderman wants to represent the city?" chairman Ald. A. I. Curtis asked.

* * *

Committee members recommended inclusion of $55,000 in the 1965 budget to cover the first installment on Victoria's share of Canadian centennial needs for a permanent project and celebrations.

The amount represents about one-third of the city's total responsibility, which it is planned to fulfill in further installments next year and in 1967.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD JACOBY

South went up with dummy's king of spades at trick one. Then he proceeded to run off his five club tricks in hope that his opponents would let some hearts go.

Unfortunately for South, that didn't happen. West's four discards were the six of spades and the deuce, four and six of diamonds while East got rid of his own low diamonds.

Then, South led a diamond to dummy's king. East was in with the ace and had no trouble finding the winning defence. He played his ace of hearts. This dropped South's king whereupon East led a heart to his partner's jack. West continued the suit and the defence had their five tricks.

South had played the hand with all the delicacy of a hydrogen bomb. If he had simply led a club to his king at trick two and a diamond toward dummy at trick three he would have had a far better chance of getting East to return his partner's suit.

East might well have played his ace of hearts anyway since East could have figured out that South surely would hold either the queen-jack or ace of spades for his opening bid and that the only hope of beating the hand would lie in the heart suit.

Then, North and South might have bid the hand a trifle better. South was unlucky to go down at three no-trump, but there would have been no way to beat him at five clubs and somehow or other both North and South had opportunity to shy away from the unsatisfactory no-trump into the winning club hand.

BUT CHECK THEIR HAULING POWER. SEAGULLS are ideal main motors for all boats to 16' and auxiliary motors for boats up to 30 ft.
SEAGULLS are built to last indefinitely in SALT water, still longer in FRESH.
SEAGULLS are gas misers and a complete check-tune up costs only $5.
NO YEARLY MODEL CHANGES. Your SEAGULL KEEPS ITS VALUE from year to year.

The younger set overwhelmingly name "Bonanza" as the favorite program, followed by "Mr. Novak" and "Shindig" in a tie, and "The Fugitive" and "Dr. Kildare" in third place. "Peyton Place" and "The Dick Van Dyke Show" tied for fourth.

* * *

The British actor who plays "The Saint" says he's bringing the role to a close. The 37-year-old Roger Moore said they're running out of stories.

The work at Elstree Studios in London will be completed in about ten weeks. Then, Moore said, he wants to have his own production company for feature films and television programs. The Saint series has been shown in 72 countries, including Canada.

Here's something worth looking forward to. ABC-TV has signed Jackie Robinson and Leo (The Lip) Durocher as commentators for major league baseball telecasts this season.

Robinson, a ten-year veteran of the Brooklyn Dodgers and a member of the Hall of Fame of Baseball was the first Negro player to make the majors. Durocher, a former manager of the Dodgers and New York Giants, was released as coach of the Los Angeles Dodgers after last season.

Actor Dan Blocker has been stricken in Hollywood with what doctors say is apparently a kidney stone attack. He was filming a scene for the TV series Bonanza. The 35-year-old Blocker plays the role of "Hoss" in the NBC-TV series . . . The 37th annual Oscar presentations by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences will be telecast live on CBC-TV, Monday, April 5, at 7 p.m. PST.

Bob Hope, as master of ceremonies, will headline a roster of stars who will present the awards.

The telecast by CBC-TV, from the ABC-TV network, will pre-empt the regulair network program, The Sixties, and will postpone the CBC National News until later in the evening. Viewpoint, the regular CBC-TV commentary program, will be cancelled on this occasion.

Simultaneous television programs in North America and Europe are expected to begin some 18 to 25 days after the expected launching in early April of the U.S. Early Bird communications satellite.

Officials of the Communications Satellite Corporation said a program including live pickups in a number of countries would inaugurate satellite service.

After a six-to-eight-week test period, "it is planned that the satellite will go on a commercial basis," Comsat said.

As announced earlier in this space NBC-TV is already setting up special news bureaus in Europe to take advantage of the Early Bird and present Instant News to viewers in North America.

Ont. Action Widens Rift Among Tories

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Another split in the Conservative party's ranks was widened Thursday when Opposition Leader Diefenbaker described as an "affront to Parliament" the resolution passed by the Ontario legislature last week on the BNA Act "repatriation" formula.

The legislature's action in quickly passing the resolution in a day and a half by a vote of 71 to 7 angered Mr. Diefenbaker and many members of the Conservative federal caucus because they felt it cut the ground out from under their policy moves to make the constitutional question a main point of attack against the Liberal government.

The resolution was introduced into the Ontario legislature by the Conservative provincial government headed by Premier John Robarts.

Liberals were astounded to hear Mr. Diefenbaker rise in the Commons and openly criticize the Ontario legislature for its action. Mr. Diefenbaker said the constitutional amending formula had not been placed before Parliament and he took exception to the Ontario legislature's action.

The Liberals happily put Mr. Diefenbaker's action down as one more indication of the widening rift between the national Conservative leader and the provincial Conservative premiers. It is their understanding that neither Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba nor Premier Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia are very happy with the stand Mr. Diefenbaker has been taking on the constitutional formula.

Conservative federal members have commented on the annoyance of Mr. Diefenbaker and members of the caucus who are strong supporters of Mr. Diefenbaker over the Conservative government's action. They see this as an indication that Premier Robarts appears ready to challenge Mr. Diefenbaker's national leadership.

If there was a national Conservative leadership convention Premier Robarts would be likely a strong candidate for the leadership of the party at Ottawa.

Those who were in Toronto last week when Mr. Diefenbaker and Premier Robart's paths crossed noted a marked coolness between the two men.

Drug Deadly To Expectant Mothers

LONDON (Reuters) — British doctors have been warned not to give tetracycline drugs to expectant mothers because they might kill the women or cause deformed babies.

An article in the British Medical Association Journal, says severe—and sometimes fatal—liver damage might be seen in pregnant patients treated with a tetracycline for inflamation of the kidneys.

The article refers to two cases. In one, a baby was born with its little fingers missing; the mother had tetracycline for acute bronchitis in the early days of pregnancy. In the other, a premature baby died with large amounts of fluorescent tetracycline in its bones; the mother had daily doses of the drugs three weeks before the birth.

OTTAWA (CP) — The Exchequer Court of Canada has found that Charles E. Frosst and Company infringed two patents through the importation and distribution of the antibiotic tetracycline.

The plaintiff in the action was the American Cyanamid Company which owns, through assignment, the Canadian patents on the invention of tetracycline and another antibiotic called chlortetracycline.

The Canadian company imported tetracycline from Italy.

The judgment said the American company is entitled to relief and costs.

Civil Service Shifts In Quiet Revolution

The United States civil service is undergoing changes that affect the nature of the administrative organization and the making of public policy, it was suggested here Wednesday by an American political scientist.

In a paper presented to a political science convention at the Empress Hotel, Dr. Morton Kroll, University of Washington, said these changes are not limited only to the universe of public administration.

"As we move into the realm of large organizations and as society becomes bureaucratized some of the problems of achieving self-identity and avoiding conformity may come home to roost along with the Abel of automation and the Cain of unemployment."

LITTLE PUBLICITY

Dr. Kroll said while changes in the American public service had been significant in recent years they have not received wide publicity.

"The response to such shifts in the most influential segments of the American press would most certainly have been hostile. Its effect might well have been to impede, perhaps even destroy, an evolution that has been far from planned and close to chaotic.

"The anti-government strain in American political thought has lost neither its virulence or volume."

Dr. Kroll said growth in the numbers of civil servants is only one of several changes.

"Other significant developments are the proportionate growth in the state and local government work force and the increased use of persons with professional, scientific and technical skills.

"Because of the chronically short supply and great cost of needed skills one might anticipate an increasing thrust at providing automated and computerized processes that will render such skills obsolete.

"The economic as well as the human consequences of such efforts may find in the United States an enforced leisure class of unemployable intellectuals."

Sealed tenders will be received to 12 noon, March 31, 1965, and be opened in public at the Municipal Hall at that time for the yearly supply of Gasoline, Plumbing Fittings, Pre-Mixed Concrete, Road Markingg Paint, Lumber, Gravel and Tires. The lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted. Further particulars obtainable from the undersigned.

North Named President For Bureau

G. Nick North, manager of the Imperial Inn, was elected president of Victoria Visitors' Bureau at its annual meeting in the City Hall chamber Thursday.

Mike Heppell, assistant commissioner of the bureau, said it was estimated that 1,250,000 visitors came to Vancouver Island in 1964.

They spent somewhere between $75,000,000 and $85,000,000 and the average length of stay was 2.9 days.

More Details Sought On $10M Pipeline

The provincial transport department has asked Noranda Mines Ltd. for more information on its plans to build a 125-mile pipeline from a natural gas field near the Alberta border to a Prince George pulp mill.

Noranda has applied to the department for permission to build the $10,000,000 pipeline from the Stony Lake area through Monkman Pass, deputy transport minister Jack Bowering said today.

The proposed 12-inch pipe would carry gas to a new pulp mill being built by a Noranda subsidiary, Northwood Pulp Limited.

Mr. Bowering said the application is only to service the mill; natural gas distribution in the Prince George area is under franchise to Inland Natural Gas Co., a subsidiary of Westcoast Transmission Ltd.

The gas for the pipeline would come from Peace River Petroleums Ltd., in which Noranda holds a 10 per cent interest.

Mr. Bowering said two wells have been drilled in the field and a third is under way.

Capital Outlay Will Set Record

From Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Canada's businessmen will continue to invest heavily in capital expenditures in 1965.

A projection of this year's private and public investment in Canada, tabled Thursday in the Commons by Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp, shows record outlays in all sectors of the economy.

The report shows capital expenditures hitting a record $12.3 billion, 14 per cent over the 1964 record high of $10.8 billion.

Victoria's total capital and repair expenditures will be down slightly over 1964 dropping from $8.1 million to a forecast $6.6 million in 1965.

Local businessmen are not surprised by the drop. They point out that the recent boom in high-rise apartments has slowed down and a levelling off period is to be expected.

Other cities showing spending declines for 1965 are Vancouver, Winnipeg, London, Quebec, Saint John, Halifax, and St. John's.

Calgary, Edmonton, Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, Hamilton and Windsor all show increased spending in 1965.

DOWN SLIGHTLY

Capital expenditures for construction are expected to decline slightly in Victoria for a total of $1 million, and outlays for machinery and equipment show a projected drop from $2.9 million in 1964 to $1.9 million this year.

Repair expenditures on construction are expected to remain the same at $600,000 and will drop slightly on machinery and equipment to $3.1 million.

Outlays in British Columbia as a whole show a projected increase for a total of $1.9 billion compared with $1.7 billion in 1964.

Plans for the purchase of machinery and equipment in the province call for $527 million compared with the 1964 total of $479 million. Capital expenditures on construction are set at $924 million compared with $845 million last year.

A rapid advance in capital spending for new pulp and paper projects and power developments is anticipated in B.C., coupled with substantial increases in social capital spending.

However, a much reduced rate of spending for natural gas facilities limits the extent of the overall increase in the province.

Spending on new construction across the country is expected to rise by 15 per cent for a total of $8.1 billion. Most of this increase is for non-residential building although outlays for house construction are expected to rise by 11 per cent and for engineering construction by 10 per cent.

Plans across Canada for the purchase of machinery and equipment involve $4.2 billion which is 11 per cent up from 1964 levels.

Trade Unions Mark Hike in Membership

Trade unions in Canada increased their numbers by 44,000 during 1964.

But the percentage of union members among the non-agricultural labor force remained almost the same—a fraction under 30 per cent.

These facts are contained in the federal labor department's Labor Organizations in Canada booklet just issued.

Total trade union membership amounted to 1,493,000, three quarters of which was within the Canadian Labour Congress.

In B.C., the provincial labor department reported unions had a membership totalling 226,690 last year, up 4,552 from 1963.

NOW UNIONIZED

This represented 42.7 per cent of the labor force, continuing B.C.'s position as the most unionized province.

The percentage, however, is down 1.6 on 1963, reflecting the growing labor force in lightly unionized areas.

Nationally, the biggest union continued to be the United Steelworkers of America, with 102,000 members.

It gained 12,000 members during the year, often at the expense of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, which recorded the biggest decrease in members — down 5,000 to 20,000.

Second biggest union was the Canadian Union of Public Employees with 86,100 members. Third was the United Auto Workers with 63,600.

And the smallest union?

It's the International Association of Siderographers, with seven members in Ontario. Siderography is a process of engraving on steel.

The Cigar Makers International Union of America has eight members and the International Union of Horseshoers has 10.

The union with the longest name was the International Association of Marble, Slate and Stone Polishers, Rubbers and Sawyers, Tile and Marble Setters Helpers, Marble, Mosaic and Terrazo Workers Helpers.

WALLACE:

Rathie's Charge 'Nonsense'

A B.C. official today denied a federal grant of $2½ million earmarked for the proposed Vancouver coliseum has been misdirected toward a new Victoria museum.

Deputy Provincial Secretary L. J. Wallace, speaking as chairman of the Canadian Confederation Centennial Committee of B.C., said the charge is "nonsense."

It was voiced Thursday by Mayor William Rathie of Vancouver.

Mayor Rathie said the federal grant was made to B.C. toward a provincial centennial project and Ottawa intended that this should be a downtown coliseum in Vancouver. But Premier Bennett took the money and will use it for a new provincial museum.

The mayor said he received this information from Immigration Minister Jack Nicholson, who represents a Vancouver riding.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

BROADWAY BULLETIN BOARD—The show world's next "cinderella girl" may be a singer named Vivian Edwards, a beautiful New Yorker only 17 years old. Ralph Watkins of Basin Street has signed her for an engagement in the fall, when she'll be old enough to work in nightclubs. (Golly, it seems as if Paul Anka was warbling in the cafes when he was 14—but perhaps that was just a mirage) . . . "Psyche 59," a recent entry that lived a short life in the United States, has become one of the most popular films of all time in London, for the wildest of reasons—the audiences think it's the silliest movie they've ever seen, roar with laughter at the straight lines, and consider it chic to have viewed it two or three times.

The most expensive movie titles ever filmed will be seen in Joe Levine's upcoming picture, "Kimberly Jim." The main credits flashed on screen will be spelled out in $1,500,000 of genuine Kimberly diamonds . . . Nazi war medals are being sold as paperweights in swank Madison Ave. curio shops. It would be interesting to know who bought them . . . Judy Garland, anxious to get rolling again on the concert stage, will play a May 7 stint at Chicago's mammoth auditorium, McCormick Place.

A technical whiz at Oxford has beaten the British telephone company to the tune of a great deal of money. He's a mathematics professor who became intrigued with finding out how long it would take to call himself via Liverpool and Glasgow on the automatic exchange. While doing his research, he discovered a number combination that enabled him to call any part of Britain and some plalces on the Continent for only fourpence, and with no time limitation. The professor let a few friends in on the joke and of course, the secret escaped—so now a number of Oxford undergraduates are enjoying a low budget long distance spree which has the telephone officials in a tizzy.

Department of staggering cinema statistics: "Hush . . . Hush, Sweet Charlotte" hit a half a million dollar take for its first week's bookings, justifying the 20th Century-Fox principle known as "giving the people what they want." Obviously what they want is Bette Davis, Olivia de Havilland, chills, terror and a nice shiny axe.

All the dumbbells who referred to "My Fair Lady" as Audrey Hepburn's first musical ought to be told about the Art Theatre's all-Gershwin bill starting this week, which includes "An American In Paris" and "Funny Face." The latter—although it hasn't been seen in these parts for six years—was a musical, and it co-starred Audrey and Fred Astaire. It was an enchanting movie, too . . . Speaking of that sort of thing, why doesn't Queen Elizabeth make Rex Harrison a knight? She's always bestowing honors on chaps who are less known, and surely Rex has done more for Britain than any jockey or department store owner.

Scads of artists have recorded Charles Aznavour's song. "For Mama," but Connie Francis' version is the one making the best-seller lists . . . A Seven Arts executive, just back from London after seeing a screening of "The Hill," says it ranks among the great films of all time, and will definitely establish Sean Connery as a top-flight dramatic actor. Film festivals through Europe seem to have gotten the message, and it's in demand for their showings.

Significant maybe? News dealers in some of New York's better sections say their best customers for racing forms these days are ladies. And that conforms with the experience in London when off-track betting was installed. The housewives flocked to the horse parlors. Here, it's not even legal, off-track, but the girls seem to be finding some way, or they'd be daffy to be studying the morning line.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Regina and Roxanna Kohler, ages 14 and 13, of Montoursville, Pa., for their question:

Who discovered Hawaii?

Long ages ago a family of seething volcanos was born on the deep floor of the Pacific Ocean. With each undersea eruption their piles and mounds of cooling lava grew higher and still higher. At last their peaks and then their sloping sides reached above the waves. They became the patches of dry land we call the Hawaiian Islands.

We say that America was discovered by Columbus or by Leif Ericson and his Viking explorers. But these discoverers were late arrivals, for they found the Americas already occupied. It might be more accurate to say that the New World was first discovered by the American Indians who came here from Asia in the dim distant past.

We are told that the Hawaiian Islands were discovered on Jan. 18, 1778, by Capt. James Cook of the British Navy. It might be more correct to say that the balmy Pacific Islands were rediscovered by the great captain. For like Columbus before him he found the place already populated. Later historical research revealed that the islands had been discovered, occupied and settled at least twice before Captain Cook of the Western world arrived.

The arrival of the first settlers is wrapped in legend and mystery. Ocean-going canoes arrived there, it seems, about 1,000 years ago. The daring voyagers were led by their king, Hawaiiloa. Old legends handed down through generations claim that the wanderers came from a western Pacific island known as Hawaiki. In any case, we know that these first settlers were Polynesians from other Pacific Islands, perhaps from thousands of miles across the sea.

Became a Trading Post

They may have named their new homeland for their first king or for the island they left behind in the west. Some 200 years later, the islands again were discovered, this time by wandering voyagers from the region of Tahiti. We might call them invaders, for although they also were Polynesian people they soon dominated and took over the islands from the original settlers. They looked down upon the first Hawaiians and called them the menehumes, meaning the common people.

When Captain Cook arrived, the native population of some 300,000 was divided into small kongdoms, each with its ruling king. By our standards, things could have been better, for the island region included such barbaric customs as human sacrifice. Cook renamed his discovery the Sandwich Islands in honor of the Earl of Sandwich, then First Lord of the British Admiralty.

Captain Cook soon departed, but he returned to the islands the next year and was killed. Hawaii became a way-station in the 19th century, a meeting place and a trading post for travelers and wanderers from many nations. Whaling ships stopped there on their way to Alaska. Settlers from China and Japan, Portugal and Puerto Rico, Korea and the Philippines came to work in the new sugar and pineapple plantations. The descendants of the original discoverers were merged in a melting pot of peoples from many nations.

The will of Mary Clara Tucker, who died at 85 last month, was probated Thursday. The $12,700 was a portion of her $111,131 estate.

Patrol Sgt. Joseph T. Holbrook was willed $6,000 for his "kindly protection." Sixteen other officers will share $6,700.

Twenty years ago, Sgt. Holbrook, then a constable, was cruising in his district and noticed a woman who appeared to be ill. She was Miss Tucker, a retired school teacher.

Sgt. Holbrook decided to care for her and took her home. "I was afraid she'd be found dead," he said.

Sgt. F. B. Saul of the police staff college, who used to drive Sgt. Holbrook's cruiser, will receive $2,000. Sgt. C. L. McCahery, who retired from the Forest Hill force, gets $1,000.

Fourteen other officers who had served in Forest Hill and York Township will share $3,700 for their "kindly protection, never-failing consideration and frequent visits to see I'm safe and well."

WOOLWICH, Eng. — A £117,500 ($342,500) automatic car-parking garage, opened four years ago by Princess Margaret and hailed as the first of its kind in the world, is to be demolished because it has never worked.

The garage, designed to park 300 cars automatically, ran into problems from the day it opened. Attempts to park cars in it failed because the elevators jammed or other equipment would not work.

The city council's development committee has recommended that the structure be pulled down.

HUTCHINSON, Kan. — The six boys ranged in ages from seven to 10 and Mrs. W. L. Harper said she had never seen any of them before when they knocked on the back door.

"We'd like to hunt rabbits on your land," the spokesman said politely.

Mrs. Harper said she looked again and saw no gun or bow and arrows or slingshots.

"What are you going to use?" she asked.

"This," said the spokesman, holding up a wooden mallet. "We chase them down, then knock them over the head with this."

"You must be kidding!"

"No," volunteered another boy, opening a paper sack and displaying a dead rabbit with a cracked cranium.

Mrs. Harper said she swallowed her disbelief and granted the hunters permission to take up their chase in a 65-acre field.

Not quite three hours later the boys returned.

Mrs. Harper asked if they'd had any luck.

Silently the boy with the sack opened it.

"And you know," Mrs. Harper said, recalling the Saturday morning incident, "the stinkers had gotten three more!"

WINNIPEG—Length of city council speeches may soon be controlled by a timing device comprising a set of flashing lights and a cut-off buzzer.

Mayor Stephen Juba told council the device was fashioned from "bits and pieces of old junk" by city workers. It will get a trial run at the next council meeting March 29.

He hoped it would put an end to aldermen's complaints about not receiving the maximum 10 minutes allowed for a speech or that others got more time.

Mr. Juba said the device will have 10 lights each representing a minute of an alderman's speaking time.

If the trial run is successful, it will likely become permanent, Mr. Juba said.

LONDON—It just wasn't a good week for the British post office.

First, a letter bearing a trading stamp instead of a postage stamp was successfully delivered. The post office's official magazine criticized the mailman who carried it.

Then Bryan Macey of Southampton finally received a postcard that was mailed just a few miles away. It was dated Oct. 7, 1956.

Macey complained to the post office, but not about the delay. He was furious because the mailman charged him an additional penny to cover an increase in postage rates.

Sukarno Seizes Oil Companies

JAKARTA (AP) — President Sukarno announced today the Indonesian government is taking over the management of three foreign oil companies, two American and one Dutch.

"We will take over the management," Sukarno told reporters after receiving a petition from Communist-led workers requesting seizure of foreign oil properties in retaliation for U.S. support of Malaysia.

There was speculation the government would try to work out some arrangement under which the companies' foreign employees would continue to operate them under figurehead Indonesian managers.

The government now is trying to negotiate such an arrangement for the $80,000,000 worth of American rubber estates in north Sumatra seized last month.

The companies affected are the U.S.-owned Stanvac and Caltex oil companies and Dutch Shell. Another American company, Pan-American, also operates in Indonesia but does only prospecting for new oilfields.

RECEIVES ROYALTIES

Although the government bowed to Communist demands for the closing of the U.S. Information Service libraries in Indonesia and the seizure of the rubber estates, it has been reluctant to take over the oil properties because it collects more than $100,000,000 a year in royalties from them.

Since 1963, the companies have operated the properties as contractors for the state oil organization.

Meanwhile, Sobsi, the big Communist workers' union, ignored a government order to restore electricity and gas service which it cut off Thursday from a number of American offices and residences in Jakarta.

After a protest from U.S. Ambassador Howard Jones, Foreign Minister Subandrio summoned Sobsi leaders Thursday night and ordered them to turn the gas and electricity back on at once.

Up to 11 a.m., however, the service still was disconnected.

Governor Saves Five From Chair

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Governor Frank Clement, rebuffed by the state legislature in his efforts to end capital punishment, commuted the death sentences of five men to 99 years today. He anounced his action one day after the House refused, 48 to 47, to join the Senate in abolishing the death penalty and one day before three of the five were scheduled to go to the electric chair.

St. Ann's Academy and St. Louis College students will participate in a car wash from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday at Safeway parking lot, Hillside and Quadra. Proceeds will go to the graduation fund for the students.

said the state had not had time to prepare for the protection of marchers.

Wallace called for federal civil assistance Thursday night in a speech to the legislature. This was followed by the president's statement to reporters about the Alabama guard.

In Selma about 400 white and Negro demonstrators marched to the city hall today, stayed about 15 minutes and left without incident. Two demonstrators jailed Wednesday were released on bond which they signed. Earlier they had refused to sign bond.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., leader of a nine-week Negro voter drive in Alabama, said the 50-mile highway pilgrimage will start at noon Sunday.

A white segregationist, former mayor Art Hanes of Birmingham, announced today he was cancelling plans for a reverse march from Montgomery to Selma. Hanes said he would bow to Wallace's appeal for citizens to stay away from scenes of tension.

The Negro integration leader called for volunteers from elsewhere to joint the ranks when the march reaches the outskirts of Montgomery Wednesday night.

Labor Week Opens Here On Saturday

Labour Education Week, designed to tell the public about trade union, begins Saturday with a two-day conference in the Quadra Street Union Centre.

On the first day, the topic will be Organizing the Unorganized. Discussion leaders are Tom Gooderham of the Canadian Labour Congress, John McNevin of the B.C. Federation of Labour and Clayton Walls of the International Woodworkers of America.

Sunday, Dan Radford and Jack Williams of the CLC and E. P. O'Neal of the B.C. Federation of Labour will lead a conference on Labor's Role in the Community.

On Tuesday, Mr. Williams, director of public relations for the CLC, will speak to University of Victoria students at 12:30 p.m.

That evening Mr. Williams will be guest at a Religion-Labour Council meeting at 8 in Cridge Memorial Hall to which all churchmen have been invited.

CANADA BARS EXTREMISTS

Prof. Mulford Q. Sibley was sent back on the same plane that carried him here. Immigration officials talked to him for about an hour.

A crowd of 200 demonstrators, identified as Voice of Women members and University of Manitoba students, met Prof. Sibley's plane. They chanted: "We want Sibley" and "What's the matter with Sibley?"

OVER ANTI-SMOKE RULE

Mill Considers Shutdown

A decision on whether to shut down its sawmill operation or install smoke suppression gear will be announced by the end of this month, B.C. Forest Products said today.

Ian A. Barclay, vice-president and secretary in Vancouver, said an announcement would be made by the Victoria operation which has run the former Moore-Whittington sawmill since 1963.

The company must solve the smoke nuisance by May 15.

Meanwhile, Smith Cedar Products Ltd., which also agreed to act on its waste burning problem by May 15, is two months ahead of schedule.

It began work on its waste removal problem last September, when a chipping machine was installed to reduce waste by 60 per cent and provide a marketable product.

Hog fuel was then produced in much smaller quantities, but still had to be burned or stored until it could be trucked away.

Trucks have been taking it to a B.C. Forest Products generator at Crofton Pulp Mill.

NEW CONVEYOR

By next week, however, it is hoped to have a new conveyor in operation, providing for barge transport.

This will eliminate entirely the need to control stockpiles of hog fuel by night burning.

LEGISLATURE HONORS GOLD MEDAL SCULLERS

Seated on the floor of the House were George Hungerford and Roger Jackson, gold medal winning scullers, and bronze medallist, runner Harry Jerome.

The father of judo silver medal winner Doug Rogers, Rev. A. A. Rogers of Vancouver, was also present representing his son who is in Japan.

Gloomy Weather May Halt Test

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) Tracking stations around the world today began the final practice run for first U.S. two-man space flight as weather forecasts for Tuesday's scheduled launch day continued to be gloomy.

The flight crew of astronauts Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom and John W. Young completed their last full-scale training with a mission run-through Thursday. They observed part of today's 12-hour world network test and late in the day were to climb into a simulated capsule for some familiarization practice on the launching and re-entry phases of their planned three-orbit flight.

The U.S. weather bureau said there was no change in its earlier forecast that there would be heavy cloud cover over Cape Kennedy on Tuesday. Foul weather also was forecast in areas of the Atlantic Ocean where the astronauts would land if there were a launching failure and they had to abort the mission.

POSTPONEMENT POSSIBLE

Project Gemini officials said extensive cloud cover would prevent necessary camera coverage of the vital launching phase and the shot would have to be postponed. The launching of the Titan II booster rocket is scheduled between 9 a.m. and noon EST.

Tracking stations encircle the world along the path of the Gemini spacecraft will travel during its three orbits. The exercise starts at seven hours before launch and runs through the entire countdown including the flight of four hours and 52 minutes.

Each station, starting with Bermuda, pretends the spacecraft comes into their area of coverage. The Grand Canary island off the coast of North Africa is next and so on around to Australia, Hawaii, Mexico, and back to the United States.

RELAY DATA

Each station has a specific task assigned to it when the spacecraft passes overhead. This information is relayed back to the mission control centre at Cape Kennedy.

Recovery ships sailing about 70 miles northeast of Grand Turk Island in the Bahamas, where the astronauts are expected to land, also tune in on the exercise.

. . . SPACE SHIP

spent 24 hours in orbit last Oct. 12-13.

The Tass announcement of the landing said:

"Their program of scientific experiments was carried out in full.

"A complex experiment was made successfully during the flight, opening a new stage in man's conquest of space. A cosmonaut dressed in a special space suit with an autonomous life support system floated freely in outer space.

ANALYZE RESULTS

The world's space scientists acclaimed co-pilot Leonov's sally outside the two-man capsule Thursday as a feat that put the Soviet Union even more months ahead of the United States in the race for a manned moon landing.

A Soviet rocket launched the two cosmonauts into orbit Thursday at 10 a.m.

Ninety minutes after going aloft, Leonov crawled into an air-lock chamber adjoining the space cabin. Another 10 minutes later, he crawled from the space ship and then floated to the end of a 16-foot lifeline attached to the spaceship.

Tass said that "during the night the cosmonauts slept in turns, rested and breakfasted and now feel well."

"Respiration is between 18 and 10 a minute, pulse 72 to 78 a minute," normal for healthy adults.

The cosmonauts followed tradition and called the Kremlin for a telephone conversation with Leonid Brebhnev, first secretary of the Soviet Communist party. Brezhnev read a message congratulating them, calling Leonov's exploit "beyond imagination."

Communists Claim Three Planes Downed

TOKYO (AP)—Radio Hanoi claimed North Vietnamese armed forces shot down three American planes carrying out air strikes on North Viet Nam today.

The broadcast, relayed by the New China news agency, said "many groups of U.S. fighter planes again adventurously and openly intruded into the air space of the Democratic Republic of North Viet Nam."

Dornan to Testify At Williamson Trial

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three witnesses from across Canada, one of them an assistant to Prime Minister Pearson, are to be called by the Crown for the April 12 hearing of forgery charges against Vancouver public relations man Al Williamson.

Mr. Justice H. W. McInnes in Supreme Court Wednesday signed three subpeonas in the "Dear Hal" letter case.

They are for the appearance of Hal Dornan of Ottawa, an assistant to the prime minister, A. F. Lepitre of Ottawa, an immigration department employee, and Ed Ogle of Calgary, a writer for Time magazine.

Williamson is charged with forgery and uttering a forgery in connection with a letter sent to Mr. Dornan over a signature purporting to be that of Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Premier Bennett declared the letter a phoney.

The letter, addressed "Dear Hal", referred to "our friend" and Attorney-General Robert Bonner said it was assumed to have referred to millionaire Harry Stonehill, who was seeking Canadian landed immigrant status at the time. Stonehill has since left the country.

Police Union, Firemen Going To Arbitration

Arbitration will settle Victoria police and fire department working contracts this year, city hall representatives said Thursday.

Council last week nominated contracting executive George Wilkinson to an arbitration board to iron out a firefighters' union bid for shorter working hours.

Since then negotiations with the police union failed to reach agreement on three matters:

A union request for wage parity with Vancouver police, including the 4½ per cent increase just awarded in Vancouver;

A bid by the city for a two-year contract, against one-year asked by the union;

Higher service pay requested by the union.

The city nominated Mr. Wilkinson to serve on the police matter as well as the fire department arbitration since the situations are similar, and the April 15 deadline for final settlement applies to both departments.

Radiation Drops

OTTAWA (CP) — Radioactive fallout in Canada last year was six to eight times below the 1963 levels, says a report from the radiation protection division of the health department. The Chinese nuclear test in October contributed "very little fallout," and apart from this blast there was no above-ground nuclear testing during the year.

Russia Squelches Viet Nam Talks

Gromyko Rejects Parley

LONDON (Reuters) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today categorically rejected the convening for the present of an international conference to solve the crisis in Viet Nam.

He said a decision on such a conference is primarily up to the United States and North Viet Nam.

"Taking into account the existing situation, it is not possible even to discuss the possibility of convening a conference about the situation in Viet Nam," Gromyko told a press conference winding up his four-day visit to Britain.

Gromyko said: "The first task is that aggression must be stopped. That is the very first step to be taken."

He branded U.S. forces in South Viet Nam as "invaders" and said they have no business to be there and should return to the United States.

"They are there as an occupying power," he added.

CRITICIZES BRITAIN

Gromyko accused Britain of failing to act impartially as co-chairman with Russia of the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina.

Asked whether Britain and Russia could play a constructive role in the crisis at the moment, he said Russia would like to act jointly with Britain, or at least co-ordinate their action.

"But, unfortunately the chances for this are very much restricted, and they are even being curtailed because the United Kingdom is not acting as an impartial nation.

"I should not like to elaborate further at this moment.".

Asked whether Russia would consider itself directly involved in Viet Nam when defensive arms being sent from Russia had arrived in North Viet Nam, he replied:

"Let us not guess about the future or make any assumptions—but I would like to call attention to the relevant warning made by the Soviet government in connection . . . with aggression by the U.S. against North Viet Nam."

Asked about Britain's plan for an Atlantic nuclear force, Gromyko said he had repeated Soviet objections to this in his talks here.

Only half an hour before Gromyko's talks with British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart ended British officials announced rejection of a new Russian proposal that the U.S. be condemned over Laos.

Informed sources said Stewart accepted an invitation to visit Russia and that the date for the trip will be agreed upon later.

SUIT FOR SPACE WALK LIKE MINIATURE CABIN

MOSCOW (AP)—The suit which enabled Alexei Leonov to leave the space ship and survive in the frigid void was described in detail by Soviet medic Vladimir Krichagin in a Tass commentary.

"The spacesuit has a special air conditioning system through which room temperature air is pumped into the space suit. This air carries away excess heat of the body and skin-exuded moisture."

Leonov also had oxygen cylinders hitched to his back in case the supply line from the capsule failed.

The suit was covered with a "mighty thermal insulation layer" to protect the cosmonaut from the cold and was coated with a "snowy white" color that deflected the scorching rays of the sun.

Space Ship Steered Safely to Russ Soil

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet spaceship Voskhod-2 landed safely today west of the Ural Mountains after a spectacular 24-hour orbit during which one of the two cosmonauts aboard frolicked outside the craft. There were indications that something went wrong in the landing process.

A Tass announcement that the pilot had steered the spaceship to a landing ended hours of mystery and official silence on the Voskhod's fate. The news agency said both cosmonauts were well.

The time the Voskhod was aloft indicated it had completed 17 orbits and was on its 18th when it landed.

The exploit of Col. Pavel Belyayev and Lt.-Col. Alexei Leonov meant another big step toward travel to the moon. It was Leonov who ventured outside the craft and floated 10 minutes in the void, proving men could work there to assemble space platforms for shots to the moon.

DIFFERENT LANDING SITE

The spaceship landed at 12:02 p.m. (1:02 a.m. PST) near Perm, west of the Ural Mountains and 725 miles northeast of Moscow. This is far north of the usual landing spot for Soviet spaceships.

This fact and the character of radio signals toward the end of the flight suggested to the Bochum space observatory in West Germany that the landing process was irregular, a Bochum spokesman said.

The Perm area is on the western slopes of the Ural Mountains. Half the area is forested and unfit for a landing, but there is a plain.

Whatever the success of the landing, Tass said Belyayev and Leonov had carried out their experiment successfully.

LANDED MANUALLY

It was steered down by manual controls by Belyayev, the announcement said.

Belyayev and Leonov "feel well," Tass added. "The scientific program has been fully accomplished."

The delay in announcing the landing for more than 4½ hours was not immediately explained.

The landing of the two cosmonauts inside their spaceship followed the pattern of the Voskhod I, the first multi-manned Soviet capsule named with the Russian word for sunrise. It

Americans 'Deeply Impressed'

JOHNSON CITP, Tex. (UPI) —President Johnson congratulated the Soviet Union today on its latest space feat. He said Americans were "deeply impressed" at a cosmonaut's floating outside his space ship.

"All of us have been deeply impressed by Lt.-Col. Aleksei Leonov's feat in becoming the first man to leave a space ship in outer space and return safely. I take pleasure, Mr. Chairman, in offering on behalf of the people of the United States sincere congratulations and best wishes to the cosmonauts and the scientists and all others responsible for this outstanding accomplishment.

Crew Seeks To 'Kill' Poison Well

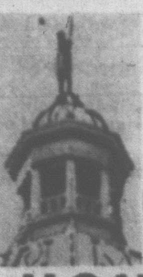
EDSON, Alta. (CP) — An eight-man crew was preparing today to pump bunker fuel down the casing of a gas well to stem the flow of a natural gas leak containing a dangerous amount of poisonous hydrogen sulphide.

The crew, equipped with oxygen masks, were able to direct the leak out another valve Thursday night by means of a "blowout preventer."

The leak had been hissing out of tubing at the rig drilling platform but now is dispersing in a faint mist from a valve below the floor and to the side.

First step is to shut off this side valve.

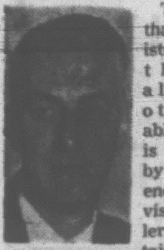
Next step is to attach hoses to the tubing and pump "weighted bunker fuel" down the tubing to force the gas back to its formation and "kill the well."



In Our HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

New Democrat Leo Nimsick, who lives near the town of Yahk, has captured the legislative floor and is holding forth on the lure of gold. His is an especially significant topic, since the House, at its Thursday night sitting, has before it Mines Minister Brothers' estimates.



The fact that gold exists in them thar hills along with other valuable metals is emphasized by the presence in the visitors' galleries of certain well-tailored gents with the look and air of men who have struck it rich.

Western Mines is represented, an outfit legally but regrettably ensconced in Strathcona Park, where soon may blossom a company town served by a company road.

In total—and with a Parks Act of questionable virtue soon to be written into our provincial statutes, the spectacle is one to cheer any save those queer people who stubbornly insist that parks and industrial activity don't mix.

★ ★ ★

As one of these, I find myself reflecting on a government now past 12 years old, which centres on the complex and enormously powerful premier who rules it.

Without Mr. Bennett, that government, I suspect, would shatter as if a vacuum had sucked its sides together. With him, it is changing the face of British Columbia.

For better or worse?

Opinions vary. For myself, I have learned to expect both good and bad, usually in close conjunction.

How well, for instance, do slightly lower hydro-electric rates consort with drastically increased bus fares, and a plain hint that our burdened municipalities must soon shoulder a public transport system which was operated by its former private owners, B.C. Electric Railway Company, at a loss?

Where are the secondary industries which will utilize B.C.'s portion of the power released by the mighty two rivers development, and provide a diversity of jobs for the graduates of a loudly-heralded vocational training plan?

So far, the applications have run heavy to pulp mills . . . forest - devouring monsters which will bite deeply into the chief resource of a province whose economy remains based on her natural resources.

Forest Minister Williston speaks one day of a sustained timber yield of 3-billion feet annually. But on Thursday afternoon, he admits that government reforestation makes slow progress.

And is veteran lumberman Gordon Gibson from the Liberal ranks right when he insists we are selling this resource far too cheaply?

Faced by these, and other contradictions, I prefer to accept only provisionally the assurances offered by this government.

I might trust it more if I could shake the feeling that each session is a well-staged show with the denouement of each scene carefully worked out in the government caucus room. It's like professional wrestling: spectacular at times, but rarely convincing.

Meanwhile, Premier Bennett, the sphinx of this particular desert, broods or smiles in his big blue chair as the mood takes him, while the play moves toward its inevitable outcome.

SILHOUETTED AGAINST flat calm of the approaches to Esquimalt Harbor today was the navy's west coast submarine HMCS Grilse pictured here under maple leaf flag fluttering from jackstaff of naval harborcraft. Federalized Troops Will Protect Marchers

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A federal judge declined today to suspend his order allowing a 50-mile civil rights march Sunday, but he said Alabama Governor George C. Wallace could take the request to a higher court.

U.S. District Judge Frank N. Johnson said he would transfer files in the case to the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals if Wallace wanted to present his case there immediately.

Wallace was reported planning to ask the federalized guardsmen to protect the marchers, if the march goes on.

The state Senate, meanwhile, approved the governor's proposals that President Johnson be advised that the state is not financially able to provide protection and that Alabama citizens be urged to leave the marchers alone on their 50-mile trek to Montgomery from Selma.

The president said Thursday he would call up the Alabama National Guard to protect the demonstrators if Wallace was unwilling to do so.

$10 Million Grant To Canada Council

OTTAWA (CP)—A $10,000,000 government grant to the Canada Council was announced in the Commons today by Prime Minister Pearson.

He said the council's income has not increased materially since the public body was set up by Parliament in 1957 to foster development of the arts, humanities and social sciences.

An unconditional grant for $10,000,000 would be included in the government's final set of spending estimates for the current fiscal year, which ends March 31, to help the council meet its minimum requirements in the next few years.

Mr. Pearson said it has become imperative to foster Canada's development in the humanities and arts "and thus strengthen the identity and the unity of our country as we approach our centennial."

The government believed the best long-term method of increasing the council's revenues would be to increase the $50,0000,000 endowment fund set up in 1957, but this course would be unwise in present circumstances.

Rembrandt Price Soars in Second Look Sale

. . . GONE FOR $2,394,000

LONDON (Reuters)—A Los Angeles foundation today paid £798,000 ($2,394,000) for a Rembrandt portrait in a dramatic bidding duel after it had already been sold to a London gallery.

The Dutch master's portrait of his son Titus had already been sold to the Marlborough Gallery for £770,000 ($2,310,000) but the auctioneer Peter Chance found himself in the centre of a heated disagreement among bidders and reopened the sale.

The picture was then sold to the Los Angeles Norton Simon Foundation for a price that fell only £23,000 ($69,000) short of the world record for a painting at auction.

The bidding for the Rembrandt sold today started at 100,000 guineas and rose by bids of 30,000 and 50,000 guineas. A guinea is one pound plus one shilling.

Finally, auctioneer Chance declared it sold to the Marlborough Gallery, but the Norton Simon Foundation insisted its last bid had not been heard.

Simon waved a letter he said was from Christie's and after a brief argument, Chance said: "I am very sorry, there had been a misunderstanding. This has never happened before.

And as dealers packing the room from all over the world leaped to their feet in amazement, he reopened the sale.

TO TAKE IT TO U.S.

The picture was sold after two more bids, to Simon, who said afterward he hoped to take it to the U.S. as soon as possible, though at present he had no export permit.

The sale not only beat the previous British record of £275,000 paid for Rubens Adoration of the Magi at the rival auction house of Sotheby's in 1951, but Sotheby's record of £1,043,590 total at a one-day sale.

The Rembrandt portrait came to Britain about 150 years ago—for practically nothing. The story told is this:

George Barker, a British picture restorer and dealer travelling in Holland, missed the boat back to England. So he spent the night in a Dutch farmhouse and awakened the following morning to find the portrait hanging above his bed.

He exclaimed at its beauty, and the farmer threw it in with the price of Barker's lodging and breakfast, which came to one shilling (15 cents).

Reaching England, Barker presented the painting to his patron, Lord Spencer. In 1915, the Cook family bought it for £60,000.

NEAR RECORD PRICE of $2,394,000 was paid today for Rembrandt's portrait of his son, Titus, during auction at Christie's in London. (AP Wirephoto.)

The will of Mary Clara Tucker, who died at 85 last month, was probated Thursday. The $12,700 was a portion of her $111,131 estate.

Patrol Sgt. Joseph T. Holbrook was willed $6,000 for his "kindly protection." Sixteen other officers will share $6,700.

Twenty years ago, Sgt. Holbrook, then a constable, was cruising in his district and noticed a woman who appeared to be ill. She was Miss Tucker, a retired school teacher.

Sgt. Holbrook decided to care for her and took her home.

"I was afraid she'd be found dead," he said.

Sgt. F. B. Saul of the police staff college, who used to drive Sgt. Holbrook's cruiser, will receive $2,000. Sgt. C. L. McCahery, who retired from the Forest Hill force, gets $1,000.

Fourteen other officers who had served in Forest Hill and York Township will share $3,700 for their "kindly protection, never-failing consideration and frequent visits to see I'm safe and well."

WOOLWICH, Eng. — A £117,500 ($342,500) automatic car-parking garage, opened four years ago by Princess Margaret and hailed as the first of its kind in the world, is to be demolished because it has never worked.

The garage, designed to park 300 cars automatically, ran into problems from the day it opened. Attempts to park cars in it failed because the elevators jammed or other equipment would not work.

The city council's development committee has recommended that the structure be pulled down.

HUTCHINSON, Kan. — The six boys ranged in ages from seven to 10 and Mrs. W. L. Harper said she had never seen any of them before when they knocked on the back door.

"We'd like to hunt rabbits on your land," the spokesman said politely.

Mrs. Harper said she looked again and saw no gun or bow and arrows or slingshots.

"What are you going to use?" she asked.

"This," said the spokesman, holding up a wooden mallet. "We chase them down, then knock them over the head with this."

"You must be kidding!"

"No," volunteered another boy, opening a paper sack and displaying a dead rabbit with a cracked cranium.

Mrs. Harper said she swallowed her disbelief and granted the hunters permission to take up their chase in a 65-acre field.

Not quite three hours later the boys returned.

Mrs. Harper asked if they'd had any luck.

Silently the boy with the sack opened it.

"And you know," Mrs. Harper said, recalling the Saturday morning incident, "the stinkers had gotten three more!"

WINNIPEG—Length of city council speeches may soon be controlled by a timing device comprising a set of flashing lights and a cut-off buzzer.

Mayor Stephen Juba told council the device was fashioned from "bits and pieces of old junk" by city workers. It will get a trial run at the next council meeting March 29.

He hoped it would put an end to aldermen's complaints about not receiving the maximum 10 minutes allowed for a speech or that others got more time.

Mr. Juba said the device will have 10 lights each representing a minute of an alderman's speaking time.

If the trial run is successful, it will likely become permanent, Mr. Juba said.

LONDON—It just wasn't a good week for the British post office.

First, a letter bearing a trading stamp instead of a postage stamp was successfully delivered. The post office's official magazine criticized the mailman who carried it.

Then Bryan Macey of Southampton finally received a postcard that was mailed just a few miles away. It was dated Oct. 7, 1956.

Macey complained to the post office, but not about the delay. He was furious because the mailman charged him an additional penny to cover an increase in postage rates.

Sukarno Seizes Oil Companies

JAKARTA (AP) — President Sukarno announced today the Indonesian government is taking over the management of three foreign oil companies, two American and one Dutch.

"We will take over the management," Sukarno told reporters after receiving a petition from Communist-led workers requesting seizure of foreign oil properties in retaliation for U.S. support of Malaysia.

There was speculation the government would try to work out some arrangement under which the companies' foreign employees would continue to operate them under figurehead Indonesian managers.

The government now is trying to negotiate such an arrangement for the $80,000,000 worth of American rubber estates in north Sumatra seized last month.

The companies affected are the U.S.-owned Stanvac and Caltex oil companies and Dutch Shell. Another American company, Pan-American, also operates in Indonesia but does only prospecting for new oilfields.

RECEIVES ROYALTIES

Although the government bowed to Communist demands for the closing of the U.S. Information Service libraries in Indonesia and the seizure of the rubber estates, it has been reluctant to take over the oil properties because it collects more than $100,000,000 a year in royalties from them.

Since 1963, the companies have operated the properties as contractors for the state oil organization.

Meanwhile, Sobsi, the big Communist workers' union, ignored a government order to restore electricity and gas service which it cut off Thursday from a number of American offices and residences in Jakarta.

After a protest from U.S. Ambassador Howard Jones, Foreign Minister Subandrio summoned Sobsi leaders Thursday night and ordered them to turn the gas and electricity back on at once.

Up to 11 a.m., however, the service still was disconnected.

Governor Saves Five From Chair

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Governor Frank Clement, rebuffed by the state legislature in his efforts to end capital punishment, commuted the death sentences of five men to 99 years today. He anounced his action one day after the House refused, 48 to 47, to join the Senate in abolishing the death penalty and one day before three of the five were scheduled to go to the electric chair.

St. Ann's Academy and St. Louis College students will participate in a car wash from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday at Safeway parking lot, Hillside and Quadra. Proceeds will go to the graduation fund for the students.

Mill Considers Shutdown

A decision on whether to shut down its sawmill operation or install smoke suppression gear will be announced by the end of this month, B.C. Forest Products said today.

Ian A. Barclay, vice-president and secretary in Vancouver, said an announcement would be made by the Victoria operation which has run the former Moore-Whittington sawmill since 1963.

The company must solve the smoke nuisance by May 15.

Meanwhile, Smith Cedar Products Ltd., which also agreed to act on its waste burning problem by May 15, is two months ahead of schedule.

It began work on its waste removal problem last September, when a chipping machine was installed to reduce waste by 60 per cent and provide a marketable product.

Hog fuel was then produced in much smaller quantities, but still had to be burned or stored until it could be trucked away.

Trucks have been taking it to a B.C. Forest Products generator at Crofton Pulp Mill.

NEW CONVEYOR

By next week, however, it is hoped to have a new conveyor in operation, providing for barge transport.

This will eliminate entirely the need to control stockpiles of hog fuel by night burning.

said the state had not had time to prepare for the protection of marchers.

Wallace called for federal civil assistance Thursday night in a speech to the legislature. This was followed by the president's statement to reporters about the Alabama guard.

In Selma about 400 white and Negro demonstrators marched to the city hall today, stayed about 15 minutes and left without incident. Two demonstrators jailed Wednesday were released on bond which they signed. Earlier they had refused to sign bond.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., leader of a nine-week Negro voter drive in Alabama, said the 50-mile highway pilgrimage will start at noon Sunday.

A white segregationist, former mayor Art Hanes of Birmingham, announced today he was cancelling plans for a reverse march from Montgomery to Selma. Hanes said he would bow to Wallace's appeal for citizens to stay away from scenes of tension.

The Negro integration leader called for volunteers from elsewhere to joint the ranks when the march reaches the outskirts of Montgomery Wednesday night.

CANADA BARS EXTREMISTS

Prof. Mulford Q. Sibley was sent back on the same plane that carried him here. Immigration officials talked to him for about an hour.

A crowd of 200 demonstrators, identified as Voice of Women members and University of Manitoba students, met Prof. Sibley's plane. They chanted: "We want Sibley" and "What's the matter with Sibley?"

LEGISLATURE HONORS GOLD MEDAL SCULLERS

Seated on the floor of the House were George Hungerford and Roger Jackson, gold medal winning scullers, and bronze medallist, runner Harry Jerome.

The father of judo silver medal winner Doug Rogers, Rev. A. A. Rogers of Vancouver, was also present representing his son who is in Japan.

Gloomy Weather May Halt Test

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) Tracking stations around the world today began the final practice run for first U.S. two-man space flight as weather forecasts for Tuesday's scheduled launch day continued to be gloomy.

The flight crew of astronauts Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom and John W. Young completed their last full-scale training with a mission run-through Thursday. They observed part of today's 12-hour world network test and late in the day were to climb into a simulated capsule for some familiarization practice on the launching and re-entry phases of their planned three-orbit flight.

The U.S. weather bureau said there was no change in its earlier forecast that there would be heavy cloud cover over Cape Kennedy on Tuesday. Foul weather also was forecast in areas of the Atlantic Ocean where the astronauts would land if there were a launching failure and they had to abort the mission.

POSTPONEMENT POSSIBLE

Project Gemini officials said extensive cloud cover would prevent necessary camera coverage of the vital launching phase and the shot would have to be postponed. The launching of the Titan II booster rocket is scheduled between 9 a.m. and noon EST.

Tracking stations encircle the world along the path of the Gemini spacecraft will travel during its three orbits. The exercise starts at seven hours before launch and runs through the entire countdown including the flight of four hours and 52 minutes.

Each station, starting with Bermuda, pretends the spacecraft comes into their area of coverage. The Grand Canary island off the coast of North Africa is next and so on around to Australia, Hawaii, Mexico, and back to the United States.

RELAY DATA

Each station has a specific task assigned to it when the spacecraft passes overhead. This information is relayed back to the mission control centre at Cape Kennedy.

Recovery ships sailing about 70 miles northeast of Grand Turk Island in the Bahamas, where the astronauts are expected to land, also tune in on the exercise.

. . . SPACE SHIP

spent 24 hours in orbit last Oct. 12-13.

The Tass announcement of the landing said:

"Their program of scientific experiments was carried out in full.

"A complex experiment was made successfully during the flight, opening a new stage in man's conquest of space. A cosmonaut dressed in a special space suit with an autonomous life support system floated freely in outer space.

ANALYZE RESULTS

The world's space scientists acclaimed co-pilot Leonov's sally outside the two-man capsule Thursday as a feat that put the Soviet Union even more months ahead of the United States in the race for a manned moon landing.

A Soviet rocket launched the two cosmonauts into orbit Thursday at 10 a.m.

Ninety minutes after going aloft, Leonov crawled into an air-lock chamber adjoining the space cabin. Another 10 minutes later, he crawled from the space ship and then floated to the end of a 16-foot lifeline attached to the spaceship.

Tass said that "during the night the cosmonauts slept in turns, rested and breakfasted and now feel well."

"Respiration is between 18 and 10 a minute, pulse 72 to 78 a minute," normal for healthy adults.

The cosmonauts followed tradition and called the Kremlin for a telephone conversation with Leonid Brebhnev, first secretary of the Soviet Communist party. Brezhnev read a message congratulating them, calling Leonov's exploit "beyond imagination."

Communists Claim Three Planes Downed

TOKYO (AP)—Radio Hanoi claimed North Vietnamese armed forces shot down three American planes carrying out air strikes on North Viet Nam today.

The broadcast, relayed by the New China news agency, said "many groups of U.S. fighter planes again adventurously and openly intruded into the air space of the Democratic Republic of North Viet Nam."

Dornan to Testify At Williamson Trial

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three witnesses from across Canada, one of them an assistant to Prime Minister Pearson, are to be called by the Crown for the April 12 hearing of forgery charges against Vancouver public relations man Al Williamson.

Mr. Justice H. W. McInnes in Supreme Court Wednesday signed three subpeonas in the "Dear Hal" letter case.

They are for the appearance of Hal Dornan of Ottawa, an assistant to the prime minister, A. F. Lepitre of Ottawa, an immigration department employee, and Ed Ogle of Calgary, a writer for Time magazine.

Williamson is charged with forgery and uttering a forgery in connection with a letter sent to Mr. Dornan over a signature purporting to be that of Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Premier Bennett declared the letter a phoney.

The letter, addressed "Dear Hal", referred to "our friend" and Attorney-General Robert Bonner said it was assumed to have referred to millionaire Harry Stonehill, who was seeking Canadian landed immigrant status at the time. Stonehill has since left the country.

Police Union, Firemen Going To Arbitration

Arbitration will settle Victoria police and fire department working contracts this year, city hall representatives said Thursday.

Council last week nominated contracting executive George Wilkinson to an arbitration board to iron out a firefighters' union bid for shorter working hours.

Since then negotiations with the police union failed to reach agreement on three matters:

A union request for wage parity with Vancouver police, including the 4½ per cent increase just awarded in Vancouver;

A bid by the city for a two-year contract, against one-year asked by the union;

Higher service pay requested by the union.

The city nominated Mr. Wilkinson to serve on the police matter as well as the fire department arbitration since the situations are similar, and the April 15 deadline for final settlement applies to both departments.

Radiation Drops

OTTAWA (CP) — Radioactive fallout in Canada last year was six to eight times below the 1963 levels, says a report from the radiation protection division of the health department. The Chinese nuclear test in October contributed "very little fallout," and apart from this blast there was no above-ground nuclear testing during the year.

SWISH 'N' SWALLOW CLEANING HAS LED TO 'RAMPANT DECAY'

A Toothbrush in Everybody's Top Pocket

By TERRY IZZARD

Only 35 per cent of all Canadians visit a dentist regularly.

Twenty-four out of every 25 school children are in need of dental treatment; the other 4 per cent is in serious danger of joining the ranks.

These startling facts were brought to light this week by worried Vancouver Island health officials.

The rot has well and truly set in according to Dr. Gerald Bonham, director of the Central Vancouver Island Health Unit.

In his annual report he calls for a re-survey of the dental picture within the area.

The last survey on Vancouver Island was taken between 1958 and 1961. Results from this showed between 90.2 and 95.9 per cent of children in need of treatment.

Said Dr. Bonham today: "It is quite alarming, the number of children with rampant decay.

"Yet there seems to be no hope of any improvement in the near future."

Others need plates to replace teeth which are beyond repair.

But what can be done to curb the rot?

According to Dr. Bonham the remedies are about as numerous as the reasons:

Avoid sticky sweet foods; don't eat between meals; have regular check-ups; brush regularly and brush correctly.

BRUSH IN POCKET

As for brushing correctly, he says: "The average person brushes for 20 to 30 seconds; two to three minutes would be more appropriate."

And there's more to it than that. The quick one-two, left-right movement doesn't do the trick.

Said a spokesman for Victoria Dental Society: "The majority of people might as well use the other end of the brush. They do everything they shouldn't do—especially children.

From a dentist's eye-view a day in the dental life of an average youngster goes something like this:

Up, wash, 10-second teeth clean, breakfast with lots of sugar, school, more sugar and candy, home, supper, another 10-second rub-down (unless mother forgets) and bed.

SWISH, SWALLOW

Back on the local scene another survey is to be conducted in Greater Victoria next year.

About 1,250 children, picked at random from schools in the area, will take part.

Whatever the results of the survey, all sources agreed on one thing—the only real answer to the problem of tooth decay is fluoridation of water systems.

40 - 68% REDUCTION

This has been proved to reduce cavities by 40 to 68 per cent.

The last time the question was put to a vote in Victoria it was defeated almost 3 to 1.

One dentist went so far as to claim dental decay could be reduced as much as 90 per cent with use of fluoride and proper dental hygiene.

Others were almost, but not quite, as optimistic.

To drill dental hygiene into the public; or drill the cavities out of them.

"LIKE THIS," says Dr. W. J. Campgan, 12, of 1728 Quadra, the proper as he shows schoolboy Jack McCou- way to brush his teeth. (Times Photo)

You don't have to be a flower lover to appreciate the early daffodils with pretty Leila Liimatta around.

She's 34-23-34 With 9 Sure Votes

As it is she's sitting pretty anyway.

For when she goes before judges in the Miss Victoria contest next month she'll have seven brothers and sisters cheering for her.

Third oldest of a family of eight, Leila put her name forward today for the Victoria Jaycee-sponsored contest.

NEAT 34-23-34

Her parents came to Canada when Leila was one year old. For 12½ years the family lived in Kyuquot before coming to Victoria.

From the oldest, 20, to the youngest, four, they live at 1504 Oaklands. Leila's father is a commercial fisherman.

Semifinals of the Miss Victoria contest will be held April 15 followed by the finals May 22.

Closing date for entires is April 12.

RN Missile Ship Coming April 30

One of the world's most formidable ships in terms of power, armament and design, the Royal Navy's HMS Kent, will visit here April 30 to May 5.

The navy announced today the 6,200-ton guided missile destroyer will stop here en route to Portsmouth after a tour of duty at Singapore.

After her Victoria visit, the Kent will spend five days in Vancouver.

She was commissioned into the RN in 1963, after construction at Belfast, Ireland.

The Kent carries an anti-submarine helicopter equipped with homing torpedoes. Other armaments are Sea Slug and Sea Cat missile systems.

Twin 4.5-inch turrets are mounted forward which are fully automatic and radar controlled.

Navy Ship Movements

HMC Ships Yukon, Sussexvale, New Glasgow will arrive in California ports Wednesday; due here from Central America cruise 9 a.m. April 2.

HMC Ships Mackenzie, Beacon Hill, Saskatchewan arrive in Guam Sunday on Orient cruise; due here May 13.

By PETE LOUDON

Civic and provincial officials were probing old records today—and they may uncover a case of modern day piracy.

This was the unexpected outcome of the removal from Thunderbird Park Tuesday of the famed dug-out canoe Tilikum.

The investigation was inspired by Rebel Mowat, well-known tour bus operator and tourist authority.

"Who gave anyone the right to move Tilikum?" he asked.

"In Thunderbird Park it was enjoyed by hundreds of thousands of tourists and local residents, without charge.

UNDER COVER

"Now it is to be kept under cover in the Maritime Museum. The only people who will see it will be those who will pay admission," he added.

Curator of the new museum which will open this fall in the old courthouse on Bastion Square, Col. J. W. D. Symons says the move was arranged by Dr. Clifford Carl of the provincial museum. It took place Tuesday.

Dr. Carl said, "Thunderbird Park is owned by the provincial government. We assumed the ship had been turned over to us."

But Mr. Mowat says the ship was donated to the city of Victoria by the Greenwich Yacht Club of London, England, in 1930.

PRETTY VAGUE

Dr. Carl said, "The question of ownership is pretty vague. There is nothing on record."

City Clerk Frank Hunter was searching through old files today to determine whether the city did own Tilikum or whether it had been given to the province. Officials of the provincial archives were soon similarly engaged.

Col. Symons said Tilikum was suffering from open-air display and would be better preserved in the museum.

He agreed when the Maritime Museum opens this fall an admission fee will be charged but said patrons are happy to pay.

He said also that Tilikum would have to be moved anyway as work starts on a new provincial museum-archives complex adjoining Thunderbird Park.

TOUR FEATURE

Dr. Carl said, however, that the park will be almost undisturbed by the proposed provincial museum although some items displayed there "will be reoriented."

Mr. Mowat said he was annoyed by Tilikum's removal because for years tour bus operators have pointed to it with pride.

"It was a great asset to the city. It's getting to be that the tourist is charged for everything he sees. They soon will say 'What's so different about this city'?"

DUE SATURDAY

We Didn't Even Wait For Spring

Spring springs on Victoria at 12:05 p.m. Saturday.

That's the moment of the vernal equinox, when the sun crosses the equator heading north—and all gardeners, campers, swimmers and outdoor sportsmen rejoice.

Weatherman William Mackie says there is good reason for happiness. The outlook is good for continued sunny weather, he says.

Victoria now has been basking in sunshine since the last day of February, except for one day of cloudy periods.

So far in March we have had 166.1 hours of sun. The record, 202 hours, was set in 1926. It could be shattered yet this month, Mr. Mackie says.

But if the sun has been twice the normal complement, the overnight temperatures have been wintry, ranging between 21 and 33.

"Temperatures will show a slow, rising trend—but don't throw out the anti-freeze yet," says the weatherman.

Burglars Grab Smokes, Cash

Burglars used bolt cutters to saw through thick wire mesh and break into The Shopping Basket, Moss and May, overnight.

Mayor Warms to Bid For Regional Parks

By AB KENT

Acquiring capital region parkland as a Canadian Centennial project appeals to Mayor R. B. Wilson over any other idea suggested to date.

"The more one thinks about the subject, the more merit it contains," Mayor Wilson said today.

"The need is there and the time is late.

"With the provincial government offer to pay for one-third of the cost (of regional parks anywhere in B.C.), this could be a suitable centennial project," the mayor said.

The suggestion was supported this week by Oak Bay ratepayer Dr. David Turner, deputy minister of recreation and conservation, who stressed that he spoke as a private citizen.

'LASTING GOOD'

Writing to Oak Bay council, Dr. Turner called the previously made suggestion "of great and lasting good," probably the only one of its kind in Canada.

He endorses the idea of carrying it beyond the capital region, to such an area as the Sunshine Coast of the Lower Mainland and up into the Fraser Canyon.

"This is just one of the many projects the centennial committee will study, I'm sure," Mayor Wilson said.

AWAITS REPORT

He pointed out that municipal councils are waiting for the Greater Victoria centennial committee to sift through all suggested joint projects and come up with a recommendation.

The mayor felt regional parks is a project likely to meet with the approval of all areas concerned, since the need for parkland is generally accepted.

THIEF-THWARTING MAIL BOXES COMING HERE IN FEW MONTHS

New-type post boxes should be appearing on Victoria streets in a few months.

Victoria postmaster A. M. Davies said he has an order in for 17 new-type boxes and expected this area to be among the first in Canada to get them.

The new reinforced glass fibre mail boxes are equipped with an improved key-type lock designed to discourage thieves.

The box is said to be as durable as the steel ones now in general use and more difficult to break open.

Climax Imminent On Jones Firing

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

The bitter Jones Bill controversy may reach a climax today.

The government was expected to present its bill to fire suspended purchasing commission chairman G. E. P. Jones to the legislature's afternoon sitting for continuation of the debate on second reading — approval in principle stage.

About seven or eight opposition speakers were expected to line up their sights on the government's refusal to provide reasons for its demand that the legislature fire Mr. Jones and give him an extra year's pay.

NO CRACKS

There have been rumors that some government backbenchers are unhappy with the government's stand but so far no cracks have appeared in the solid, but silent, Socred front presented to the House on the bill.

If second reading is given, there is still opportunity for the opposition to continue the battle on third reading — clause by clause approval—but this probably would be a series of rear-guard skirmishes.

'Bandit Drive' Gets Youth Jail Term

A 16-year-old youth described as an "enigma" was given an 18-months definite and 12 months indefinite sentence in city court this morning.

Bruce Beatty, also known as Bruce Jackson, of 2945 Admirals Road, earlier pleaded guilty to attempted armed robbery.

He brandished a knife at a woman sitting in her car on Yates Street. The woman screamed and Beatty fled the scene but was arrested a few minutes later.

Magistrate William Ostler said a pre-sentence report showed Beatty has a "most complex nature." He said Beatty is both "bright and intelligent" but has "the instincts of a bandit."

The magistrate ordered that the sentence be served at the Young Offenders' Unit. He added that he felt sorry for Beatty's parents who have made great efforts to help him.

Impaired Driver Jailed 6 Months

A 63-year-old man was sent to jail today for six months after he pleaded guilty to his third conviction for impaired driving.

Gordon S. Guest, 1438 Fort Street, was also prohibited by Magistrate William Ostler from driving anywhere in Canada for three years.

Crown prosecutor Peter Birkett said Guest was convicted of impaired driving in 1958 and 1962.

SKI REPORT

Sunny skies, temperatures in the 20s, no new snow and six feet of old base snow were included in today's Green Mountain report to the Sno-Birds Ski Club.

Good conditions were predicted for weekend skiers, who will find the road clear to the parking lot and three tows in operation.

Topics of the Day

An unoccupied house used for storing tools was destroyed by fire Thursday afternoon on East Saanich Indian Reserve.

The fire started after a grass fire had apparently been extinguished. The house, owned by Victor Underwood, 50 Beach Drive, was not insured. No estimate of the loss is available.

BOATING SEASON is almost back and Brentwood native Indians are making ready. This work party is adding a boat float and gangway to the pier and cement boat ramp opened last year at Indian Bay, one mile north of the ferry slip at Brentwood. The job is a three-year project paid for under the federal winter works program. Anyone may use the facilities for a nominal fee. Reserve members will operate the service.

81st Year, No. 243 ★★ VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, MARCH 19, 1965 —36 PAGES PRICE: 10 CENTS WEEKEND 14 CENTS

By Arthur Mayse

New Democrat Leo Nimsick, who lives near the town of Yahk, has captured the legislative floor and is holding forth on the lure of gold. His is an especially significant topic, since the House, at its Thursday night sitting, has before it Mines Minister Brothers' estimates.

The fact that gold exists in them thar hills along with other valuable metals is emphasized by the presence in the visitors' galleries of certain well-tailored gents with the look and air of men who have struck it rich.

Western Mines is represented, an outfit legally but regrettably ensconced in Strathcona Park, where soon may blossom a company town served by a company road.

In total—and with a Parks Act of questionable virtue soon to be written into our provincial statutes, the spectacle is one to cheer any save those queer people who stubbornly insist that parks and industrial activity don't mix.

★ ★ ★

As one of these, I find myself reflecting on a government now past 12 years old, which centres on the complex and enormously powerful premier who rules it.

Without Mr. Bennett, that government I suspect, would shatter as if a vacuum had sucked its sides together. With him, it is changing the face of British Columbia.

For better or worse?

Opinions vary. For myself, I have learned to expect both good and bad, usually in close conjunction.

How well, for instance, do slightly lower hydro-electric rates consort with drastically increased bus fares, and a plain hint that our burdened municipalities must soon shoulder a public transport system which was operated by its former private owners, B.C. Electric Railway Company, at a loss?

Where are the secondary industries which will utilize B.C.'s portion of the power released by the mighty two rivers development, and provide a diversity of jobs for the graduates of a loudly-heralded vocational training plan?

So far, the applications have run heavy to pulp mills . . . forest - devouring monsters which will bite deeply into the chief resource of a province whose economy remains based on her natural resources.

Forest Minister Williston speaks one day of a sustained timber yield of 3 billion feet annually. But on Thursday afternoon, he admits that government reforestation makes slow progress.

And is veteran lumberman Gordon Gibson from the Liberal ranks right when he insists we are selling this resource far too cheaply?

Faced by these, and other contradictions, I prefer to accept only provisionally the assurances offered by this government.

I might trust it more if I could shake the feeling that each session is a well-staged show with the denouement of each scene carefully worked out in the government caucus room. It's like professional wrestling: spectacular at times, but rarely convincing.

Meanwhile, Premier Bennett, the sphinx of this particular desert, broods or smiles in his big blue chair as the mood takes him, while the play moves toward its inevitable outcome.

SILHOUETTED AGAINST flat calm of the approaches to Esquimalt Harbor today was the navy's west coast submarine HMCS Grilse pictured here under maple leaf flag fluttering from jackstaff of naval harborcraft. Each day this week the re-vamped Second World War vessel has been conducting familiarization cruises for HMC Dockyard civilian employees and representatives of the news media. But for crew members it was another day of training, readying for the time Canada will receive her Oberon Class subs from U.K.

Federalized Troops Will Protect Marchers

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A federal judge declined today to suspend his order allowing a 50-mile civil rights march Sunday, but he said Alabama Governor George C. Wallace could take the request to a higher court.

U.S. District Judge Frank N. Johnson said he would transfer files in the case to the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals if Wallace wanted to present his case there immediately.

Wallace was reported planning to ask the federalized guardsmen to protect the marchers, if the march goes on.

The state Senate, meanwhile, approved the governor's proposals that President Johnson be advised that the state is not financially able to provide protection and that Alabama citizens be urged to leave the marchers alone on their 50-mile trek to Montgomery from Selma.

The president said Thursday he would call up the Alabama National Guard to protect the demonstrators if Wallace was unwilling to do so.

MARCH TO JAIL

WHITE HOUSE SITDOWN CONTINUED BY PICKETS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White and Negro pickets continued their night and day sitdown in front of the White House today even though President Johnson was at his Texas ranch.

Police arrested nine pickets of about 50 Thursday when they left the area assigned for their demonstration and lay down on the sidewalk in front of the executive mansion. They were charged with blocking the public way.

$10 Million Grant To Canada Council

OTTAWA (CP)—A $10,000,000 government grant to the Canada Council was announced in the Commons today by Prime Minister Pearson.

He said the council's income has not increased materially since the public body was set up by Parliament in 1957 to foster development of the arts, humanities and social sciences.

An unconditional grant for $10,000,000 would be included in the government's final set of spending estimates for the current fiscal year, which ends March 31, to help the council meet its minimum requirements in the next few years.

Mr. Pearson said it has become imperative to foster Canada's development in the humanities and arts "and thus strengthen the identity and the unity of our country as we approach our centennial."

The government believed the best long-term method of increasing the council's revenues would be to increase the $50,0000,000 endowment fund set up in 1957, but this course would be unwise in present circumstances.

Russia Squelches Viet Nam Talks

Gromyko Rejects Parley

LONDON (Reuters) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today categorically rejected the convening for the present of an international conference to solve the crisis in Viet Nam.

He said a decision on such a conference is primarily up to the United States and North Viet Nam.

"Taking into account the existing situation, it is not possible even to discuss the possibility of convening a conference about the situation in Viet Nam," Gromyko told a press conference winding up his four-day visit to Britain.

Gromyko said: "The first task is that aggression must be stopped. That is the very first step to be taken."

He branded U.S. forces in South Viet Nam as "invaders" and said they have no business to be there and should return to the United States.

"They are there as an occupying power," he added.

CRITICIZES BRITAIN

Gromyko accused Britain of failing to act impartially as co-chairman with Russia of the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina.

Asked whether Britain and Russia could play a constructive role in the crisis at the moment, he said Russia would like to act jointly with Britain, or at least co-ordinate their action.

"But, unfortunately the chances for this are very much restricted, and they are even being curtailed because the United Kingdom is not acting as an impartial nation.

Asked whether Russia would consider itself directly involved in Viet Nam when defensive arms being sent from Russia had arrived in North Viet Nam, he replied:

"Let us not guess about the future or make any assumptions—but I would like to call attention to the relevant warning made by the Soviet government in connection . . . with aggression by the U.S. against North Viet Nam."

Asked about Britain's plan for an Atlantic nuclear force, Gromyko said he had repeated Soviet objections to this in his talks here.

Only half an hour before Gromyko's talks with British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart ended British officials announced rejection of a new Russian proposal that the U.S. be condemned over Laos.

Informed sources said Stewart accepted an invitation to visit Russia and that the date for the trip will be agreed upon later.

SUIT FOR SPACE WALK LIKE MINIATURE CABIN

MOSCOW (AP)—The suit which enabled Alexei Leonov to leave the space ship and survive in the frigid void was described in detail by Soviet medic Vladimir Krichagin in a Tass commentary.

"The spacesuit has a special air conditioning system through which room temperature air is pumped into the space suit. This air carries away excess heat of the body and skin-exuded moisture."

Leonov also had oxygen cylinders hitched to his back in case the supply line from the capsule failed.

The suit was covered with a "mighty thermal insulation layer" to protect the cosmonaut from the cold and was coated with a "snowy white" color that deflected the scorching rays of the sun.

Space Ship Steered Safely to Russ Soil

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet spaceship Voskhod-2 landed safely today west of the Ural Mountains after a spectacular 24-hour orbit during which one of the two cosmonauts aboard frolicked outside the craft. There were indications that something went wrong in the landing process.

A Tass announcement that the pilot had steered the spaceship to a landing ended hours of mystery and official silence on the Voskhod's fate. The news agency said both cosmonauts were well.

The time the Voskhod was aloft indicated it had completed 17 orbits and was on its 18th when it landed.

The exploit of Col. Pavel Belyayev and Lt.-Col. Alexei Leonov meant another big step toward travel to the moon. It was Leonov who ventured outside the craft and floated 10 minutes in the void, proving men could work there to assemble space platforms for shots to the moon.

DIFFERENT LANDING SITE

The spaceship landed at 12:02 p.m. (1:02 a.m. PST) near Perm, west of the Ural Mountains and 725 miles northeast of Moscow. This is far north of the usual landing spot for Soviet spaceships.

This fact and the character of radio signals toward the end of the flight suggested to the Bochum space observatory in West Germany that the landing process was irregular, a Bochum spokesman said.

The Perm area is on the western slopes of the Ural Mountains. Half the area is forested and unfit for a landing, but there is a plain.

Whatever the success of the landing, Tass said Belyayev and Leonov had carried out their experiment successfully.

LANDED MANUALLY

It was steered down by manual controls by Belyayev, the announcement said.

Belyayev and Leonov "feel well," Tass added. "The scientific program has been fully accomplished."

The delay in announcing the landing for more than 4½ hours was not immediately explained.

The landing of the two cosmonauts inside their spaceship followed the pattern of the Voskhod I, the first multi-manned Soviet capsule named with the Russian word for sunrise. It

"All of us have been deeply impressed by Lt.-Col. Alexei Leonov's feat in becoming the first man to leave a space ship in outer space and return safely. Crew Seeks To 'Kill' Poison Well

EDSON, Alta. (CP) — An eight-man crew was preparing today to pump bunker fuel down the casing of a gas well to stem the flow of a natural gas leak containing a dangerous amount of poisonous hydrogen sulphide.

The crew, equipped with oxygen masks, were able to direct the leak out another valve Thursday night by means of a "blowout preventer."

The leak had been hissing out of tubing at the rig drilling platform but now is dispersing in a faint mist from a valve below the floor and to the side.

First step is to shut off this side valve.

Next step is to attach hoses to the tubing and pump "weighted bunker fuel" down the tubing to force the gas back to its formation and "kill the well."

Rembrandt Price Soars in Second Look Sale

. . . GONE FOR $2,394,000

LONDON (Reuters)—A Los Angeles foundation today paid £798,000 ($2,394,000) for a Rembrandt portrait in a dramatic bidding duel after it had already been sold to a London gallery.

The Dutch master's portrait of his son Titus had already been sold to the Marlborough Gallery for £770,000 ($2,310,000) but the auctioneer Peter Chance found himself in the centre of a heated disagreement among bidders and reopened the sale.

The picture was then sold to the Los Angeles Norton Simon Foundation for a price that fell only £23,000 ($69,000) short of the world record for a painting at auction.

The bidding for the Rembrandt sold today started at 100,000 guineas and rose by bids of 30,000 and 50,000 guineas. A guinea is one pound plus one shilling.

Finally, auctioneer Chance declared it sold to the Marlborough Gallery, but the Norton Simon Foundation insisted its last bid had not been heard.

Simon waved a letter he said was from Christie's and after a brief argument, Chance said: "I am very sorry, there had been a misunderstanding. This has never happened before.

And as dealers packing the room from all over the world leaped to their feet in amazement, he reopened the sale.

TO TAKE IT TO U.S.

The picture was sold after two more bids, to Simon, who said afterward he hoped to take it to the U.S. as soon as possible, though at present he had no export permit.

The sale not only beat the previous British record of £275,000 paid for Rubens Adoration of the Magi at the rival auction house of Sotheby's in 1951, but Sotheby's record of £1,043,590 total at a one-day sale.

The Rembrandt portrait came to Britain about 150 years ago—for practically nothing. The story told is this:

George Barker, a British picture restorer and dealer travelling in Holland, missed the boat back to England. So he spent the night in a Dutch farmhouse and awakened the following morning to find the portrait hanging above his bed.

He exclaimed at its beauty, and the farmer threw it in with the price of Barker's lodging and breakfast, which came to one shilling (15 cents).

Reaching England, Barker presented the painting to his patron, Lord Spencer. In 1915, the Cook family bought it for £60,000.

NEAR RECORD PRICE of $2,394,000 was paid today for Rembrandt's portrait of his son, Titus, during auction at Christie's in London. (AP Wirephoto.)

The will of Mary Clara Tucker, who died at 85 last month, was probated Thursday. The $12,700 was a portion of her $111,131 estate.

Patrol Sgt. Joseph T. Holbrook was willed $6,000 for his "kindly protection." Sixteen other officers will share $6,700.

Twenty years ago, Sgt. Holbrook, then a constable, was cruising in his district and noticed a woman who appeared to be ill. She was Miss Tucker, a retired school teacher.

Sgt. Holbrook decided to care for her and took her home. "I was afraid she'd be found dead," he said.

Sgt. F. B. Saul of the police staff college, who used to drive Sgt. Holbrook's cruiser, will receive $2,000. Sgt. C. L. McCahery, who retired from the Forest Hill force, gets $1,000.

Fourteen other officers who had served in Forest Hill and York Township will share $3,700 for their "kindly protection, never-failing consideration and frequent visits to see I'm safe and well."

WOOLWICH, Eng. — A £117,500 ($342,500) automatic car-parking garage, opened four years ago by Princess Margaret and hailed as the first of its kind in the world, is to be demolished because it has never worked.

The garage, designed to park 300 cars automatically, ran into problems from the day it opened. Attempts to park cars in it failed because the elevators jammed or other equipment would not work.

The city council's development committee has recommended that the structure be pulled down.

HUTCHINSON, Kan. — The six boys ranged in ages from seven to 10 and Mrs. W. L. Harper said she had never seen any of them before when they knocked on the back door.

"We'd like to hunt rabbits on your land," the spokesman said politely.

Mrs. Harper said she looked again and saw no gun or bow and arrows or slingshots.

"What are you going to use?" she asked.

"This," said the spokesman, holding up a wooden mallet. "We chase them down, then knock them over the head with this."

"You must be kidding!"

"No," volunteered another boy, opening a paper sack and displaying a dead rabbit with a cracked cranium.

Mrs. Harper said she swallowed her disbelief and granted the hunters permission to take up their chase in a 65-acre field.

Not quite three hours later the boys returned.

Mrs. Harper asked if they'd had any luck.

Silently the boy with the sack opened it.

"And you know," Mrs. Harper said, recalling the Saturday morning incident, "the stinkers had gotten three more!"

WINNIPEG—Length of city council speeches may soon be controlled by a timing device comprising a set of flashing lights and a cut-off buzzer.

Mayor Stephen Juba told council the device was fashioned from "bits and pieces of old junk" by city workers. It will get a trial run at the next council meeting March 29.

He hoped it would put an end to aldermen's complaints about not receiving the maximum 10 minutes allowed for a speech or that others got more time.

Mr. Juba said the device will have 10 lights each representing a minute of an alderman's speaking time.

If the trial run is successful, it will likely become permanent, Mr. Juba said.

LONDON—It just wasn't a good week for the British post office.

First, a letter bearing a trading stamp instead of a postage stamp was successfully delivered. The post office's official magazine criticized the mailman who carried it.

Then Bryan Macey of Southampton finally received a postcard that was mailed just a few miles away. It was dated Oct. 7, 1956.

Macey complained to the post office, but not about the delay. He was furious because the mailman charged him an additional penny to cover an increase in postage rates.

Sukarno Seizes Oil Companies

JAKARTA (AP) — President Sukarno announced today the Indonesian government is taking over the management of three foreign oil companies, two American and one Dutch.

"We will take over the management," Sukarno told reporters after receiving a petition from Communist-led workers requesting seizure of foreign oil properties in retaliation for U.S. support of Malaysia.

There was speculation the government would try to work out some arrangement under which the companies' foreign employees would continue to operate them under figurehead Indonesian managers.

The government now is trying to negotiate such an arrangement for the $80,000,000 worth of American rubber estates in north Sumatra seized last month.

The companies affected are the U.S.-owned Stanvac and Caltex oil companies and Dutch Shell. Another American company, Pan-American, also operates in Indonesia but does only prospecting for new oilfields.

RECEIVES ROYALTIES

Although the government bowed to Communist demands for the closing of the U.S. Information Service libraries in Indonesia and the seizure of the rubber estates, it has been reluctant to take over the oil properties because it collects more than $100,000,000 a year in royalties from them.

Since 1963, the companies have operated the properties as contractors for the state oil organization.

Meanwhile, Sobsi, the big Communist workers' union, ignored a government order to restore electricity and gas service which it cut off Thursday from a number of American offices and residences in Jakarta.

After a protest from U.S. Ambassador Howard Jones, Foreign Minister Subandrio summoned Sobsi leaders Thursday night and ordered them to turn the gas and electricity back on at once.

Up to 11 a.m., however, the service still was disconnected.

Governor Saves Five From Chair

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Governor Frank Clement, rebuffed by the state legislature in his efforts to end capital punishment, commuted the death sentences of five men to 99 years today. He anounced his action one day after the House refused, 48 to 47, to join the Senate in abolishing the death penalty and one day before three of the five were scheduled to go to the electric chair.

St. Ann's Academy and St. Louis College students will participate in a car wash from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday at Safeway parking lot, Hillside and Quadra. Proceeds will go to the graduation fund for the students.

said the state had not had time to prepare for the protection of marchers.

Wallace called for federal civil assistance Thursday night in a speech to the legislature. This was followed by the president's statement to reporters about the Alabama guard.

In Selma about 400 white and Negro demonstrators marched to the city hall today, stayed about 15 minutes and left without incident. Two demonstrators jailed Wednesday were released on bond which they signed. Earlier they had refused to sign bond.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., leader of a nine-week Negro voter drive in Alabama, said the 50-mile highway pilgrimage will start at noon Sunday.

A white segregationist, former mayor Art Hanes of Birmingham, announced today he was cancelling plans for a reverse march from Montgomery to Selma. Hanes said he would bow to Wallace's appeal for citizens to stay away from scenes of tension.

The Negro integration leader called for volunteers from elsewhere to joint the ranks when the march reaches the outskirts of Montgomery Wednesday night.

Gloomy Weather May Halt Test

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) Tracking stations around the world today began the final practice run for first U.S. two-man space flight as weather forecasts for Tuesday's scheduled launch day continued to be gloomy.

The flight crew of astronauts Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom and John W. Young completed their last full-scale training with a mission run-through Thursday They observed part of today's 12-hour world network test and late in the day were to climb into a simulated capsule for some familiarization practice on the launching and re-entry phases of their planned three-orbit flight.

The U.S. weather bureau said there was no change in its earlier forecast that there would be heavy cloud cover over Cape Kennedy on Tuesday. Foul weather also was forecast in areas of the Atlantic Ocean where the astronauts would land if there were a launching failure and they had to abort the mission.

POSTPONEMENT POSSIBLE

Project Gemini officials said extensive cloud cover would prevent necessary camera coverage of the vital launching phase and the shot would have to be postponed. The launching of the Titan II booster rocket is scheduled between 9 a.m. and noon EST.

Tracking stations encircle the world along the path of the Gemini spacecraft will travel during its three orbits. The exercise starts at seven hours before launch and runs through the entire countdown including the flight of four hours and 52 minutes.

Each station, starting with Bermuda, pretends the spacecraft comes into their area of coverage. The Grand Canary island off the coast of North Africa is next and so on around to Australia, Hawaii, Mexico, and back to the United States.

RELAY DATA

Each station has a specific task assigned to it when the spacecraft passes overhead. This information is relayed back to the mission control centre at Cape Kennedy.

Recovery ships sailing about 70 miles northeast of Grand Turk Island in the Bahamas, where the astronauts are expected to land, also tune in on the exercise.

spent 24 hours in orbit last Oct. 12-13.

The Tass announcement of the landing said:

ANALYZE RESULTS

The world's space scientists acclaimed co-pilot Leonov's sally outside the two-man capsule Thursday as a feat that put the Soviet Union even more months ahead of the United States in the race for a manned moon landing.

A Soviet rocket launched the two cosmonauts into orbit Thursday at 10 a.m.

Ninety minutes after going aloft, Leonov crawled into an air-lock chamber adjoining the space cabin. Another 10 minutes later, he crawled from the space ship and then floated to the end of a 16-foot lifeline attached to the spaceship.

Tass said that "during the night the cosmonauts slept in turns, rested and breakfasted and now feel well."

"Respiration is between 18 and 10 a minute, pulse 72 to 78 a minute," normal for healthy adults.

Communists Claim Three Planes Downed

TOKYO (AP)—Radio Hanoi claimed North Vietnamese armed forces shot down three American planes carrying out air strikes on North Viet Nam today.

The broadcast, relayed by the New China news agency, said "many groups of U.S. fighter planes again adventurously and openly intruded into the air space of the Democratic Republic of North Viet Nam."

Dornan to Testify At Williamson Trial

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three witnesses from across Canada, one of them an assistant to Prime Minister Pearson, are to be called by the Crown for the April 12 hearing of forgery charges against Vancouver public relations man Al Williamson.

Mr. Justice H. W. McInnes in Supreme Court Wednesday signed three subpeonas in the "Dear Hal" letter case.

They are for the appearance of Hal Dornan of Ottawa, an assistant to the prime minister, A. F. Lepitre of Ottawa, an immigration department employee, and Ed Ogle of Calgary, a writer for Time magazine.

Williamson is charged with forgery and uttering a forgery in connection with a letter sent to Mr. Dornan over a signature purporting to be that of Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Premier Bennett declared the letter a phoney.

The letter, addressed "Dear Hal", referred to "our friend" and Attorney-General Robert Bonner said it was assumed to have referred to millionaire Harry Stonehill, who was seeking Canadian landed immigrant status at the time. Stonehill has since left the country.

Police Union, Firemen Going To Arbitration

Arbitration will settle Victoria police and fire department working contracts this year, city hall representatives said Thursday.

Council last week nominated contracting executive George Wilkinson to an arbitration board to iron out a firefighters' union bid for shorter working hours.

Since then negotiations with the police union failed to reach agreement on three matters:

A union request for wage parity with Vancouver police, including the 4½ per cent increase just awarded in Vancouver;

A bid by the city for a two-year contract, against one-year asked by the union;

Higher service pay requested by the union.

The city nominated Mr. Wilkinson to serve on the police matter as well as the fire department arbitration since the situations are similar, and the April 15 deadline for final settlement applies to both departments.

Radiation Drops

OTTAWA (CP) — Radioactive fallout in Canada last year was six to eight times below the 1963 levels, says a report from the radiation protection division of the health department. The Chinese nuclear test in October contributed "very little fallout," and apart from this blast there was no above-ground nuclear testing during the year.

OVER ANTI-SMOKE RULE

Mill Considers Shutdown

A decision on whether to shut down its sawmill operation or install smoke suppression gear will be announced by the end of this month, B.C. Forest Products said today.

Ian A. Barclay, vice-president and secretary in Vancouver, said an announcement would be made by the Victoria operation which has run the former Moore-Whittington sawmill since 1963.

The company must solve the smoke nuisance by May 15.

Meanwhile, Smith Cedar Products Ltd., which also agreed to act on its waste burning problem by May 15, is two months ahead of schedule.

It began work on its waste removal problem last September, when a chipping machine was installed to reduce waste by 60 per cent and provide a marketable product.

Hog fuel was then produced in much smaller quantities, but still had to be burned or stored until it could be trucked away.

Trucks have been taking it to a B.C. Forest Products generator at Crofton Pulp Mill.

NEW CONVEYOR

By next week, however, it is hoped to have a new conveyor in operation, providing for barge transport.

This will eliminate entirely the need to control stockpiles of hog fuel by night burning.

By DON DINGWALL

DUNCAN—Stationer David Stott was determined to sell the customer a paper punch.

To add weight to his sales talk he gave a working demonstration on the first thing he could lay hands on.

Unfortunately it was a $2 bill.

The bill, with three neat holes drilled through it, ended up in the hands of local RCMP officers.

Immediately investigations began to trace the bill's history.

After interviewing several past owners they ended up at Mr. Stott's store on Craig Street, The Letter Box.

A red-faced Mr. Stott admitted he was the culprit.

According to police records he was "severely chastised." He also had to forfeit an unpunched $2 bill.

Three holes through a note is the bank's official way of showing bills are no longer in circulation.

Only a few months ago Vancouver bandits stole several thousand dollars worth of such notes.

Smelter Proposal Pushed by Bruch

A breakwater for Port Renfrew and a copper smelter for southern Vancouver Island were urged in the legislature Thursday by Herbert Bruch (SC—Esquimalt).

He said the province should ask the federal government to take action on a breakwater to permit ship loading in the area of iron ore deposits.

He said if a copper smelter could be located in this area it would give impetus to development of large deposits of low-grade copper in his riding.

He said that although nothing had developed in the quest for a smelter, despite a government offer of a bounty, he predicted there would be a new copper smelter in B.C. in the next few years.

However, he thought it would likely be located in northern B.C. where the largest ore deposits exist.

PARK, POOL AMONG IDEAS FOR BIRTHDAY

LADYSMITH — Ladysmith centennial committee expects to have $10,000 to spend.

Chairman Reg Pringle said Thursday the committee is still considering a number of submissions.

Working with Mr. Pringle in sifting ideas are Margaret Weaver, secretary; John McNaughton, Willis Jamieson, Jack Tukham, George Oliver and Percy Willcox.

Any recommendation the committee makes will have to be ratified by city council.

Double-Barrelled Project

The $475,000 project would provide a multi-purpose senior citizens recreation centre and an indoor community swimming pool.

Offering to help with the project were Alberni Valley Chamber of Commerce, Port Alberni District Labor Council, Alberni district school board and the district old age pensioners asociation.

Alberni Valley centennial committee has asked city council to allow a vote May 10 on a $356,000 money bylaw so construction can start on the projects around Nov. 1.

Federal and provincial grants are expected to cover an estimated $119,000.

Whaler Checks On Potential

VANCOUVER (CP)—The west coast whaling season is due to open April 1 but already one of the whaling fleet is at sea on a whale-tagging mission in the interests of fisheries scientists.

The whaler Westwhale 4 is one of five vessels of the fleet which will operate this year for Western Canada Whaling Company Ltd., a joint enterprise of B.C. Packers Ltd. and Japanese fishing interests.

She has been chartered by the federal department of fisheries to make a study of the potential whale catch this year.

Nigerians Pepper Ex-Duncan Man With Questions About Canada

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

And, as he spoke, an interpreter stood beside him and translated the sermon, sentence by sentence, into the Yoruba tongue.

"It was a remarkable experience," said Mr. Routley, who is now assistant minister at the Chinese Pentecostal Church in Victoria.

"I was asked to preach at the Pentecostal Church of Christ in Lagos and I was the only white person in the congregation.

"Afterwards the Nigerians gathered round me and asked all kinds of questions about life in Canada."

Mr. Routley went to Lagos to visit his daughter, Willa, who is married to Art \lade, a Nigerian TV produ[illegible] He was accompanied on the [illegible]ree-week trip by his 16-year-old son, William.

PEACEFUL

"Life in Nigeria is peaceful compared with other parts of Africa," he said, "but there are extremes of wealth and poverty. You see beautiful homes in some areas, and in others mud huts and compounds.

"An average wage for a working man is about $45 a month and a house boy may earn no more than $12 a month."

Mr. Routley revealed, however, that Nigerians are playing an increasingly active part in the public and private services of their country and are training in large numbers as doctors, dentists and lawyers.

"The educational system is very progressive," he said. "It has produced thousands of college graduates, and the present school population is more than 3,000,000."

Merger Foe To Seek Reeveship

If successful, he will head the very district he has tried to split up.

A Willow Point garage owner, he became eligible to stand for office after the amalgamation in December of Willow Point and Campbell River.

Since that time Mr. Forde has fought a running battle with Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell who pushed for the merger.

LEE TO RUN

His opponent in the election April 3 will be Reeve Jack Lee.

Mr. Forde said three other Willow Point residents will seek election to the six-member council.

A bill to validate formation of the new municipality, so strongly opposed by Mr. Forde's Citizens' Rights Organization, is expected to meet opposition from the NDP when it comes before the legislature in the few days.

TOP MEN TO CHECK ISLANDS

DUNCAN—While work on a curb and gutter project on the Trans-Canada Highway within the city continues rapidly, highways officials promised Thursday to investigate local complaints.

Dudley Godfrey, chief highways engineer, and Fraser McLean, assistant deputy minister, will visit Duncan to examine complaints about proposed traffic islands.

Their visit will be in response to a delegation of Duncan businessmen headed by Mayor Jack Dobson.

These businessmen have premises facing the highway and claim traffic islands will impede customers' access.

Sewer Vote On Saturday At Ladysmith

LADYSMITH — Voters here will go to the polls Saturday to decide the fate of a $550,000 sewer system.

If taxpayers say "yes" then septic tanks in the area will become a thing of the past.

At present nearly half the 3,500 residents are served by septic tanks.

The proposed sewer system, designed to serve a community three times the present size of Ladysmith, will take about 10 months to complete.

Drought In S. Africa

He made the promise that the government will support the drive to raise funds to provide for the dependants of the 26 men killed Feb. 18 after NDP leader Robert Strachan pointed out that to date only $600 had been collected by public subscription.

Mr. Strachan had asked Mines Minister Donald Brothers to persuade the government to spearhead the drive and Mr. Brothers had answered that he saw "no need for the government" to lead the way.

The minister, did, however, promise that he would try to convince the government that support should be given

Mr. Bennett's pledge came as a brief aside. He stood up and said "the government will provide a grant."

He did not say how much or when.

Earlier Mr. Strachan had asked that $50,000 donated to the World Relief Fund some years ago but never used be made available to the widows and orphans of the avalanche. He received no reply from government benches.

Re-Opening Considered For Mine

Granduc mine, scene of disaster a month ago, may be back in operation this summer.

Mine Minister Donald Brothers told the legislature Thursday night that though the future of the mine is still "very critical" he had hopes that it would be in operation this summer.

"N. C. Gardner, the avalanche expert from the Rogers Pass and an avalanche expert brought in by the mining company, have reported that the mine can be worked providing certain safety precautions are taken," Mr. Brothers said.

"There must be no work in the area adjacent to the portal; there must be a snow observer on duty at all times; daily reports must be kept on snowfall and weather conditions and snow on all sides is to be bombed to prevent sudden avalanches," Mr. Brothers said.

"In addition guards must be built to dampen any future avalanches, diversion walls must be built between buildings and possible slide areas, and the portal must be entered by a covered travelway."

Mr. Brothers said if these regulations were observed the mine could go into production.

With no road to the Granduc site heavy equipment needed for the operation of the mine must be flown in. This means the construction of an airfield to take fixed-wing aircraft.

Mr. Brothers said that even with these difficulties to overcome he was sure the mine would soon be in production.

Union Urges Walking Limit To Job Site

VANCOUVER (CP) — A spokesman for the International Woodworkers of America has proposed a limit on the distance a man can be required to walk to work.

The proposal was made at a meeting here between the Workmen's Compensation Board and about 70 representatives of labor and management to make the first general revision of safety rules in 15 years.

Jack Moore, regional president of the IWA, told the meeting no worker should be required or permitted to work on sites more than 20 minutes walking distance from transportation.

Mr. Moore said serious consequences could result from workers being required to work too far from transportation.

Management representatives said the proposal is impractical.

In Our HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

New Democrat Leo Nimsick, who lives near the town of Yahk, has captured the legislative floor and is holding forth on the lure of gold. His is an especially significant topic, since the House, at its Thursday night sitting, has before it Mines Minister Brothers' estimates.

The fact that gold exists in them thar hills along with other valuable metals is emphasized by the presence in the visitors' galleries of certain well-tailored gents with the look and air of men who have struck it rich.

Western Mines is represented, an outfit legally but regrettably ensconced in Strathcona Park, where soon may blossom a company town served by a company road.

In total—and with a Parks Act of questionable virtue soon to be written into our provincial statutes, the spectacle is one to cheer any save those queer people who stubbornly insist that parks and industrial activity don't mix.

As one of these, I find myself reflecting on a government now past 12 years old, which centres on the complex and enormously powerful premier who rules it.

Without Mr. Bennett, that government I suspect, would shatter as if a vacuum had sucked its sides together. With him, it is changing the face of British Columbia.

For better or worse?

Opinions vary. For myself, I have learned to expect both good and bad, usually in close conjunction.

How well, for instance, do slightly lower hydro-electric rates consort with drastically increased bus fares, and a plain hint that our burdened municipalities must soon shoulder a public transport system which was operated by its former private owners, B.C. Electric Railway Company, at a loss?

Where are the secondary industries which will utilize B.C.'s portion of the power released by the mighty two rivers development, and provide a diversity of jobs for the graduates of a loudly-heralded vocational training plan?

So far, the applications have

Federalized Troops Will Protect Marchers

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A federal judge declined today to suspend his order allowing a 50-mile civil rights march Sunday, but he said Alabama Governor George C. Wallace could take the request to a higher court.

U.S. District Judge Frank N. Johnson said he would transfer files in the case to the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals if Wallace wanted to present his case there immediately.

Wallace was reported planning to ask the federalized guardsmen to protect the marchers, if the march goes on.

The state Senate, meanwhile, approved the governor's proposals that President Johnson be advised that the state is not financially able to provide protection and that Alabama citizens be urged to leave the marchers alone on their 50-mile trek to Montgomery from Selma.

The president said Thursday he would call up the Alabama National Guard to protect the demonstrators if Wallace was unwilling to do so.

Lawyer Charles M. Crook, representing Wallace, had asked Judge Johnson to stay his order permitting the march. Crook

$10 Million Grant To Canada Council

OTTAWA (CP)—A $10,000,000 government grant to the Canada Council was announced in the Commons today by Prime Minister Pearson.

He said the council's income has not increased materially since the public body was set up by Parliament in 1957 to foster development of the arts, humanities and social sciences.

An unconditional grant for $10,000,000 would be included in the government's final set of spending estimates for the current fiscal year, which ends March 31, to help the council meet its minimum requirements in the next few years.

Mr. Pearson said it has become imperative to foster Canada's development in the humanities and arts "and thus strengthen the identity and the unity of our country as we approach our centennial."

The government believed the best long-term method of increasing the council's revenues would be to increase the $50,0000,000 endowment fund set up in 1957, but this course would be unwise in present circumstances.

Crew Seeks To 'Kill' Poison Well

EDSON, Alta. (CP) — An eight-man crew was preparing today to pump bunker fuel down the casing of a gas well to stem the flow of a natural gas leak containing a dangerous amount of poisonous hydrogen sulphide.

The crew, equipped with oxygen masks, were able to direct the leak out another valve Thursday night by means of a "blowout preventer."

SUIT FOR SPACE WALK LIKE MINIATURE CABIN

MOSCOW (AP)—The suit which enabled Alexei Leonov to leave the space ship and survive in the frigid void was described in detail by Soviet medic Vladimir Krichagin in a Tass commentary.

"The spacesuit has a special air conditioning system through which room temperature air is pumped into the space suit. This air carries away excess heat of the body and skin-exuded moisture."

Leonov also had oxygen cylinders hitched to his back in case the supply line from the capsule failed.

The suit was covered with a "mighty thermal insulation layer" to protect the cosmonaut from the cold and was coated with a "snowy white" color that deflected the scorching rays of the sun.

Trouble Indicated On Re-Entry

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet space ship Voskhod-2 landed safely today west of the Ural Mountains after a spectacular 24-hour orbit during which one of the two cosmonauts aboard frolicked outside the craft. There were indications that something went wrong in the landing process.

A Tass announcement that the pilot had steered the spaceship to a landing ended hours of mystery and official silence on the Voskhod's fate. The news agency said both cosmonauts were well.

The time the Voskhod was aloft indicated it had completed 17 orbits and was on its 18th when it landed.

The exploit of Col. Pavel Belyayev and Lt.-Col. Alexei Leonov meant another big step toward travel to the moon. It was Leonov who ventured outside the craft and floated 10 minutes in the void, proving men could work there to assemble space platforms for shots to the moon.

DIFFERENT LANDING SITE

The spaceship landed at 12:02 p.m. (1:02 a.m. PST) near Perm, west of the Ural Mountains and 725 miles northeast of Moscow. This is far north of the usual landing spot for Soviet spaceships.

This fact and the character of radio signals toward the end of the flight suggested to the Bochum space observatory in West Germany that the landing process was irregular, a Bochum spokesman said.

The Perm area is on the western slopes of the Ural Mountains. Half the area is forested and unfit for a landing, but there is a plain.

Whatever the success of the landing, Tass said Belyayev and Leonov had carried out their experiment successfully.

LANDED MANUALLY

It was steered down by manual controls by Belyayev, the announcement said.

Belyayev and Leonov "feel well," Tass added. "The scientific program has been fully accomplished."

The delay in announcing the landing for more than 4½ hours was not immediately explained.

The landing of the two cosmonauts inside their spaceship followed the pattern of the Voskhod I, the first multi-manned Soviet capsule named with the Russian word for sunrise. It

Reds Quash Viet Parley

LONDON (Reuters) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today categorically rejected the convening for the present of an international conference to solve the crisis in Viet Nam.

He said a decision on such a conference is primarily up to the United States and North Viet Nam.

"Taking into account the existing situation, it is not possible even to discuss the possibility of convening a conference about the situation in Viet Nam," Gromyko told a press conference winding up his four-day visit to Britain.

Gromyko said: "The first task is that aggression must be stopped. That is the very first step to be taken."

He branded U.S. forces in South Viet Nam as "invaders" and said they have no business to be there and should return to the United States.

"They are there as an occupying power," he added.

CRITICIZES BRITAIN

Gromyko accused Britain of failing to act impartially as co-chairman with Russia of the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina.

Asked whether Britain and Russia could play a constructive role in the crisis at the moment, he said Russia would like to act jointly with Britain, or at least co-ordinate their action.

"But, unfortunately the chances for this are very much restricted, and they are even being curtailed because the United Kingdom is not acting as an impartial nation.

Asked whether Russia would consider itself directly involved in Viet Nam when defensive arms being sent from Russia had arrived in North Viet Nam, he replied:

"Let us not guess about the future or make any assumptions—but I would like to call attention to the relevant warning made by the Soviet government in connection . . . with aggression by the U.S. against North Viet Nam."

Asked about Britain's plan for an Atlantic nuclear force, Gromyko said he had repeated Soviet objections to this in his talks here.

Only half an hour before Gromyko's talks with British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart ended British officials announced rejection of a new Russian proposal that the U.S. be condemned over Laos.

Informed sources said Stewart accepted an invitation to visit Russia and that the date for the trip will be agreed upon later.

The Gromyko-Wilson talks lasted 80 minutes longer than scheduled and both sides described the conversation as cordial in tone.

Molson officials said today they had been told by the U.S. justice department that such a deal would violate the U.S. anti-trust laws.

Rembrandt Price Soars in Second Look Sale

LONDON (Reuters)—A Los Angeles foundation today paid £798,000 ($2,394,000) for a Rembrandt portrait in a dramatic bidding duel after it had already been sold to a London gallery.

The Dutch master's portrait of his son Titus had already been sold to the Marlborough Gallery for £770,000 ($2,310,000) but the auctioneer Peter Chance found himself in the centre of a heated disagreement among bidders and reopened the sale.

The picture was then sold to the Los Angeles Norton Simon Foundation for a price that fell only £23,000 ($69,000) short of the world record for a painting at auction.

The world record auction price for a single picture, £821,000, was set at the New York sale in 1961 of another Rembrandt, Aristotle Contemplating the Bust of Homer.

The bidding for the Rembrandt sold today started at 100,000 guineas and rose by bids of 30,000 and 50,000 guineas. A guinea is one pound plus one shilling.

Finally, auctioneer Chance declared it sold to the Marlborough Gallery, but the Norton Simon Foundation insisted its last bid had not been heard.

Simon waved a letter he said was from Christie's and after a brief argument, Chance said: "I am very sorry, there had been a misunderstanding. This has never happened before.

And as dealers packing the room from all over the world leaped to their feet in amazement, he reopened the sale.

TO TAKE IT TO U.S.

The picture was sold after two more bids, to Simon, who said afterward he hoped to take it to the U.S. as soon as possible, though at present he had no export permit.

The sale not only beat the previous British record of £275,000 paid for Rubens Adoration of the Magi at the rival auction house of Sotheby's in 1951, but Sotheby's record of £1,043,590 total at a one-day sale.

The Rembrandt portrait came to Britain about 150 years ago—for practically nothing. The story told is this:

George Barker, a British picture restorer and dealer travelling in Holland, missed the boat back to England. So he spent the night in a Dutch farmhouse and awakened the following morning to find the portrait hanging above his bed.

He exclaimed at its beauty, and the farmer threw it in with the price of Barker's lodging and breakfast, which came to one shilling (15 cents).

Reaching England, Barker presented the painting to his patron, Lord Spencer. In 1915, the Cook family bought it for £60,000.

NEAR RECORD PRICE of $2,394,000 was paid today for Rembrandt's portrait of his son, Titus, during auction at Christie's in London. (AP Wirephoto.)

The will of Mary Clara Tucker, who died at 85 last month, was probated Thursday. The $12,700 was a portion of her $111,131 estate.

Patrol Sgt. Joseph T. Holbrook was willed $6,000 for his "kindly protection." Sixteen other officers will share $6,700.

Twenty years ago, Sgt. Holbrook, then a constable, was cruising in his district and noticed a woman who appeared to be ill. She was Miss Tucker, a retired school teacher.

Sgt. Holbrook decided to care for her and took her home. "I was afraid she'd be found dead," he said.

Sgt. F. B. Saul of the police staff college, who used to drive Sgt. Holbrook's cruiser, will receive $2,000. Sgt. C. L. McCahery, who retired from the Forest Hill force, gets $1,000.

Fourteen other officers who had served in Forest Hill and York Township will share $3,700 for their "kindly protection, never-failing consideration and frequent visits to see I'm safe and well."

WOOLWICH, Eng. — A £117,500 ($342,500) automatic car-parking garage, opened four years ago by Princess Margaret and hailed as the first of its kind in the world, is to be demolished because it has never worked.

The garage, designed to park 300 cars automatically, ran into problems from the day it opened. Attempts to park cars in it failed because the elevators jammed or other equipment would not work.

The city council's development committee has recommended that the structure be pulled down.

HUTCHINSON, Kan. — The six boys ranged in ages from seven to 10 and Mrs. W. L. Harper said she had never seen any of them before when they knocked on the back door.

"We'd like to hunt rabbits on your land," the spokesman said politely.

Mrs. Harper said she looked again and saw no gun or bow and arrows or slingshots.

"What are you going to use?" she asked.

"This," said the spokesman, holding up a wooden mallet. "We chase them down, then knock them over the head with this."

"You must be kidding!"

"No," volunteered another boy, opening a paper sack and displaying a dead rabbit with a cracked cranium.

Mrs. Harper said she swallowed her disbelief and granted the hunters permission to take up their chase in a 65-acre field.

Not quite three hours later the boys returned.

Mrs. Harper asked if they'd had any luck.

Silently the boy with the sack opened it.

"And you know," Mrs. Harper said, recalling the Saturday morning incident, "the stinkers had gotten three more!"

WINNIPEG—Length of city council speeches may soon be controlled by a timing device comprising a set of flashing lights and a cut-off buzzer.

Mayor Stephen Juba told council the device was fashioned from "bits and pieces of old junk" by city workers. It will get a trial run at the next council meeting March 29.

He hoped it would put an end to aldermen's complaints about not receiving the maximum 10 minutes allowed for a speech or that others got more time.

Mr. Juba said the device will have 10 lights each representing a minute of an alderman's speaking time.

If the trial run is successful, it will likely become permanent, Mr. Juba said.

LONDON—It just wasn't a good week for the British post office.

First, a letter bearing a trading stamp instead of a postage stamp was successfully delivered. The post office's official magazine criticized the mailman who carried it.

Then Bryan Macey of Southampton finally received a postcard that was mailed just a few miles away. It was dated Oct. 7, 1956.

Macey complained to the post office, but not about the delay. He was furious because the mailman charged him an additional penny to cover an increase in postage rates.

Sukarno Seizes Oil Companies

JAKARTA (AP) — President Sukarno announced today the Indonesian government is taking over the management of three foreign oil companies, two American and one Dutch.

"We will take over the management," Sukarno told reporters after receiving a petition from Communist-led workers requesting seizure of foreign oil properties in retaliation for U.S. support of Malaysia.

There was speculation the government would try to work out some arrangement under which the companies' foreign employees would continue to operate them under figurehead Indonesian managers.

The government now is trying to negotiate such an arrangement for the $80,000,000 worth of American rubber estates in north Sumatra seized last month.

The companies affected are the U.S.-owned Stanvac and Caltex oil companies and Dutch Shell. Another American company, Pan-American, also operates in Indonesia but does only prospecting for new oilfields.

RECEIVES ROYALTIES

Although the government bowed to Communist demands for the closing of the U.S. Information Service libraries in Indonesia and the seizure of the rubber estates, it has been reluctant to take over the oil properties because it collects more than $100,000,000 a year in royalties from them.

Since 1963, the companies have operated the properties as contractors for the state oil organization.

Meanwhile, Sobsi, the big Communist workers' union, ignored a government order to restore electricity and gas service which it cut off Thursday from a number of American offices and residences in Jakarta.

After a protest from U.S. Ambassador Howard Jones, Foreign Minister Subandrio summoned Sobsi leaders Thursday night and ordered them to turn the gas and electricity back on at once.

Up to 11 a.m., however, the service still was disconnected.

Governor Saves Five From Chair

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Governor Frank Clement, rebuffed by the state legislature in his efforts to end capital punishment, commuted the death sentences of five men to 99 years today. He anounced his action one day after the House refused, 48 to 47, to join the Senate in abolishing the death penalty and one day before three of the five were scheduled to go to the electric chair.

St. Ann's Academy and St. Louis College students will participate in a car wash from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday at Safeway parking lot, Hillside and Quadra. Proceeds will go to the graduation fund for the students.

Wallace called for federal civil assistance Thursday night in a speech to the legislature. This was followed by the president's statement to reporters about the Alabama guard.

In Selma about 400 white and Negro demonstrators marched to the city hall today, stayed about 15 minutes and left without incident. Two demonstrators jailed Wednesday were released on bond which they signed. Earlier they had refused to sign bond.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., leader of a nine-week Negro voter drive in Alabama, said the 50-mile highway pilgrimage will start at noon Sunday.

A white segregationist, former mayor Art Hanes of Birmingham, announced today he was cancelling plans for a reverse march from Montgomery to Selma. Hanes said he would bow to Wallace's appeal for citizens to stay away from scenes of tension.

The Negro integration leader called for volunteers from elsewhere to joint the ranks when the march reaches the outskirts of Montgomery Wednesday night.

Prof. Mulford Q. Sibley was sent back on the same plane that carried him here. Immigration officials talked to him for about an hour.

A crowd of 200 demonstrators, identified as Voice of Women members and University of Manitoba students, met Prof. Sibley's plane. They chanted: "We want Sibley" and "What's the matter with Sibley?"

Gloomy Weather May Halt Test

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) Tracking stations around the world today began the final practice run for first U.S. two-man space flight as weather forecasts for Tuesday's scheduled launch day continued to be gloomy.

The flight crew of astronauts Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom and John W. Young completed their last full-scale training with a mission run-through Thursday They observed part of today's 12-hour world network test and late in the day were to climb into a simulated capsule for some familiarization practice on the launching and re-entry phases of their planned three-orbit flight.

The U.S. weather bureau said there was no change in its earlier forecast that there would be heavy cloud cover over Cape Kennedy on Tuesday. Foul weather also was forecast in areas of the Atlantic Ocean where the astronauts would land if there were a launching failure and they had to abort the mission.

POSTPONEMENT POSSIBLE

Project Gemini officials said extensive cloud cover would prevent necessary camera coverage of the vital launching phase and the shot would have to be postponed. The launching of the Titan II booster rocket is scheduled between 9 a.m. and noon EST.

Tracking stations encircle the world along the path of the Gemini spacecraft will travel during its three orbits. The exercise starts at seven hours before launch and runs through the entire countdown including the flight of four hours and 52 minutes.

Each station, starting with Bermuda, pretends the spacecraft comes into their area of coverage. The Grand Canary island off the coast of North Africa is next and so on around to Australia, Hawaii, Mexico, and back to the United States.

RELAY DATA

Each station has a specific task assigned to it when the spacecraft passes overhead. This information is relayed back to the mission control centre at Cape Kennedy.

Recovery ships sailing about 70 miles northeast of Grand Turk Island in the Bahamas, where the astronauts are expected to land, also tune in on the exercise.

spent 24 hours in orbit last Oct. 12-13.

The Tass announcement of the landing said:

"Their program of scientific experiments was carried out in full.

"A complex experiment was made successfully during the flight, opening a new stage in man's conquest of space. A cosmonaut dressed in a special space suit with an autonomous life support system floated freely in outer space.

ANALYZE RESULTS

The world's space scientists acclaimed co-pilot Leonov's sally outside the two-man capsule Thursday as a feat that put the Soviet Union even more months ahead of the United States in the race for a manned moon landing.

A Soviet rocket launched the two cosmonauts into orbit Thursday at 10 a.m.

Ninety minutes after going aloft, Leonov crawled into an air-lock chamber adjoining the space cabin. Another 10 minutes later, he crawled from the space ship and then floated to the end of a 16-foot lifeline attached to the spaceship.

Tass said that "during the night the cosmonauts slept in turns, rested and breakfasted and now feel well."

"Respiration is between 18 and 10 a minute, pulse 72 to 78 a minute," normal for healthy adults.

The cosmonauts followed tradition and called the Kremlin for a telephone conversation with Leonid Brezhnev, first secretary of the Soviet Communist party. Brezhnev read a message congratulating them, calling Leonov's exploit "beyond imagination."

Communists Claim Three Planes Downed

TOKYO (AP)—Radio Hanoi claimed North Vietnamese armed forces shot down three American planes carrying out air strikes on North Viet Nam today.

The broadcast, relayed by the New China news agency, said "many groups of U.S. fighter planes again adventurously and openly intruded into the air space of the Democratic Republic of North Viet Nam."

Dornan to Testify At Williamson Trial

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three witnesses from across Canada, one of them an assistant to Prime Minister Pearson, are to be called by the Crown for the April 12 hearing of forgery charges against Vancouver public relations man Al Williamson.

Mr. Justice H. W. McInnes in Supreme Court Wednesday signed three subpeonas in the "Dear Hal" letter case.

They are for the appearance of Hal Dornan of Ottawa, an assistant to the prime minister, A. F. Lepitre of Ottawa, an immigration department employee, and Ed Ogle of Calgary, a writer for Time magazine.

Williamson is charged with forgery and uttering a forgery in connection with a letter sent to Mr. Dornan over a signature purporting to be that of Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Premier Bennett declared the letter a phoney.

The letter, addressed "Dear Hal", referred to "our friend" and Attorney-General Robert Bonner said it was assumed to have referred to millionaire Harry Stonehill, who was seeking Canadian landed immigrant status at the time. Stonehill has since left the country.

Police Union, Firemen Going To Arbitration

Arbitration will settle Victoria police and fire department working contracts this year, city hall representatives said Thursday.

Council last week nominated contracting executive George Wilkinson to an arbitration board to iron out a firefighters' union bid for shorter working hours.

Since then negotiations with the police union failed to reach agreement on three matters:

A union request for wage parity with Vancouver police, including the 4½ per cent increase just awarded in Vancouver;

A bid by the city for a two-year contract, against one-year asked by the union;

Higher service pay requested by the union.

The city nominated Mr. Wilkinson to serve on the police matter as well as the fire department arbitration since the situations are similar, and the April 15 deadline for final settlement applies to both departments.

Radiation Drops

OTTAWA (CP) — Radioactive fallout in Canada last year was six to eight times below the 1963 levels, says a report from the radiation protection division of the health department. The Chinese nuclear test in October contributed "very little fallout," and apart from this blast there was no above-ground nuclear testing during the year.

OVER ANTI-SMOKE RULE

Mill Considers Shutdown

A decision on whether to shut down its sawmill operation or install smoke suppression gear will be announced by the end of this month, B.C. Forest Products said today.

Ian A. Barclay, vice-president and secretary in Vancouver, said an announcement would be made by the Victoria operation which has run the former Moore-Whittington sawmill since 1963.

The company must solve the smoke nuisance by May 15.

Meanwhile, Smith Cedar Products Ltd., which also agreed to act on its waste burning problem by May 15, is two months ahead of schedule.

It began work on its waste removal problem last September, when a chipping machine was installed to reduce waste by 60 per cent and provide a marketable product.

Hog fuel was then produced in much smaller quantities, but still had to be burned or stored until it could be trucked away.

Trucks have been taking it to a B.C. Forest Products generator at Crofton Pulp Mill.

NEW CONVEYOR

By next week, however, it is hoped to have a new conveyor in operation, providing for barge transport.

This will eliminate entirely the need to control stockpiles of hog fuel by night burning.

Civil Service Shifts In Quiet Revolution

The United States civil service is undergoing changes that affect the nature of the administrative organization and the making of public policy, it was suggested here Wednesday by an American political scientist.

In a paper presented to a political science convention at the Empress Hotel, Dr. Morton Kroll, University of Washington, said these changes are not limited only to the universe of public administration.

"As we move into the realm of large organizations and as society becomes bureaucratized some of the problems of achieving self-identity and avoiding conformity may come home to roost along with the Abel of automation and the Cain of unemployment."

LITTLE PUBLICITY

Dr. Kroll said while changes in the American public service had been significant in recent years they have not received wide publicity.

"The response to such shifts in the most influential segments of the American press would most certainly have been hostile. Its effect might well have been to impede, perhaps even destroy, an evolution that has been far from planned and close to chaotic.

"The anti-government strain in American political thought has lost neither its virulence or volume."

Dr. Kroll said growth in the numbers of civil servants is only one of several changes.

"Other significant developments are the proportionate growth in the state and local government work force and the increased use of persons with professional, scientific and technical skills.

"Because of the chronically short supply and great cost of needed skills one might anticipate an increasing thrust at providing automated and computerized processes that will render such skills obsolete.

"The economic as well as the human consequences of such efforts may find in the United States an enforced leisure class of unemployable intellectuals."

Forest Minister Williston speaks one day of a sustained timber yield of 3 billion feet annually. But on Thursday afternoon, he admits that government reforestation makes slow progress.

And is veteran lumberman Gordon Gibson from the Liberal ranks right when he insists we are selling this resource far too cheaply?

Faced by these, and other contradictions, I prefer to accept only provisionally the assurances offered by this government.

I might trust it more if I could shake the feeling that each session is a well-staged show with the denouement of each scene carefully worked out in the government caucus room. It's like professional wrestling: spectacular at times, but rarely convincing.

Meanwhile, Premier Bennett, the sphinx of this particular desert, broods or smiles in his big blue chair as the mood takes him, while the play moves toward its inevitable outcome.

Americans 'Deeply Impressed'

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI)—President Johnson congratulated the Soviet Union today on its latest space feat. He said Americans were "deeply impressed" at a cosmonaut's floating outside his space ship.

"All of us have been deeply impressed by Lt.-Col. Alexei Leonov's feat in becoming the first man to leave a space ship in outer space and return safely. I take pleasure, Mr. Chairman, in offering on behalf of the people of the United States sincere congratulations and best wishes to the cosmonauts and the scientists and all others responsible for this outstanding accomplishment.

North Named President For Bureau

G. Nick North, manager of the Imperial Inn, was elected president of Victoria Visitors' Bureau at its annual meeting in the City Hall chamber Thursday.

Mike Heppell, assistant commissioner of the bureau, said it was estimated that 1,250,000 visitors came to Vancouver Island in 1964.

They spent somewhere between $75,000,000 and $85,000,000 and the average length of stay was 2.9 days.

More Details Sought On $10M Pipeline

The provincial transport department has asked Noranda Mines Ltd. for more information on its plans to build a 125-mile pipeline from a natural gas field near the Alberta border to a Prince George pulp mill.

Noranda has applied to the department for permission to build the $10,000,000 pipeline from the Stony Lake area through Monkman Pass, deputy transport minister Jack Bowering said today.

The proposed 12-inch pipe would carry gas to a new pulp mill being built by a Noranda subsidiary, Northwood Pulp Limited.

Mr. Bowering said the application is only to service the mill; natural gas distribution in the Prince George area is under franchise to Inland Natural Gas Co., a subsidiary of Westcoast Transmission Ltd.

The gas for the pipeline would come from Peace River Petroleums Ltd., in which Noranda holds a 10 per cent interest.

Mr. Bowering said two wells have been drilled in the field and a third is under way.

Compare the age, plainly marked on each bottle of Wiser's whisky with other brands in their price classes. You will find, on the average Wiser's whiskies are older. And "older" to Wiser's means aged in wood . . . and "married" in wood — a process of returning the spirits to wood after final blending for a further period of quiet aging. So for the best whiskies, the best value — drink one that's OLDER and WISER'S.

WISER'S
WISER'S DISTILLERY LIMITED, BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, CANADA

For good values in well aged whiskies: Wiser's De Luxe, 10 years old: Wiser's 101, 6 years old: Wiser's Old Rye, 5 years old: Wiser's Special Blend, 4 years old.
